WELL, NOW WHAT ABOUT THE DANDELION?

Doctor Bessey of State University Has Something to Say Regarding This Pest.

Swat the dandelion. Doctor Bessey of the botanical department of the state university has some original ideas regarding this growth and has found a sure method of destroying them if one only has patience. Industry is not needed, for the more one puts and works around his front lawn the worse crop of these pests he is liable to have. In fact, the dandelions rather enjoy being cultivated. The best thing about the new method is that it is entirely automatic. All one has to do is to sit down and watch the dandelions fade away. Nature does the work and does it with a sure method.

The real trouble with the dandelion in this part of the country is, according to Doctor Bessey, the fact that the grass dies, but the dandelions do not. "The best thing to kill dandelions is blue grass. But the difficulty is that grass is cut too much. It doesn't get a chance and dies out. A few years ago I started with a yard full of dandelions; I let the grass grow and now there aren't any dandelions," says Professor Bessey. "Last fall there were a few sawrany dandelions, but they were so weak and so crowded out by the blue grass that I could reach down and pull them out, roots and all, without any trouble." Doctor Bessey thinks it will usually take more than one season to completely eradicate the botanical pests, but he is quite confident that by the end of the second season one will find his lawn fairly well rid of the dandelion.

"Not long ago I saw two lots adjoining each other. The owner of the one kept himself occupied mowing and prying up the dandelions. But the funny thing about the lot next door was that it was left to its own cultivation, and the result was that there was scarcely a single dandelion." Blue grass will always hold its own. The professor cites in proof of the statement that blue grass is killed by short cutting, the fact that it nearly always turns when mowed low.

Asked as to the efficacy of gasoline and other "sure-killing" liquids, he said: "Oh, yes, gasoline will kill, but suppose you have a million plants? You'd have to work three or four months and it'd keep you busy every minute. I think there is no real hope in going at it that way." The old-fashioned pocket knife is also declared to have about as much real efficacy as the gasoline can.

"What we really need," says Professor Bessey, "is a man who will invent a lawn mower that will cut the grass so that it will remain four inches high and yet run easily. If grass was cut high instead of low it would be like walking over Brussels carpet." Doctor Bessey thinks water has an indirect tendency to eradicate the dandelion inasmuch as it helps to make the blue grass thrifty. Dandelions are rather indifferent to water. "Oh, of course," said Doctor Bessey as an afterthought, "a dandelion does enjoy being watered." However, this is considered of small account as the blue grass appreciates the wetting more. But if one does not feel inclined to cut his grass four inches high he may cut it at two inches, and he will be better off than the man who cuts it at one.—State Journal.

Buys Old County Jail Building.
From Friday's Daily.
The old jail building and the lot on which it stands, on Pearl street, has been disposed of by the county commissioners, who have entered into an agreement with L. B. Egenberger of this city for the sale of the property to him for the sum of $600. This will prove a very valuable investment for Mr. Egenberger, as it adjoins his other real estate holdings on lower Main street and can be utilized by him in good shape. The building itself is not of a great deal of value to anyone who might purchase it for rental purposes, but situated as it is will be very handy for Mr. Egenberger.

300 Lice Or More on One Hen
is by no means uncommon. No one would expect to fatten a steer with that number of "lice" sucking his blood, but many expect the old hen to go ahead shelling out eggs her very life. We have counted over 2000 dead lice under a row of ten hens, on a roost board painted the night before with Lee's Lice Killer. This great killer does double duty—contact kills mites, lice, bedbugs, etc. about the roosts; the vapors kill on the chickens sitting over it. Put up only in straight cans. ACTIVITY IN MILITIA CIRCLES

Applications for Brigade Positions Continue to Pour In.
GUARDSMEN ARE IN READINESS
One of Most Efficient Signal Corps of Any Volunteer Organization of Its Type in the Country Is Ready for Service at Moment's Notice.
Lincoln, April 27.—Indications that a Mexican war might yet be averted and that the organized militia might not have to mobilize for service at the front, did not serve to dissipate activity in the Nebraska national guard. The work of making final details for assembly here or at Fort Crook went ahead just the same.
General Hall was satisfied that barring the disqualification of a proportion of the enlisted men on account of physical defects, most of those now ready to go to the front would be accepted. His medical examiners have been extremely careful throughout the past year and as a result the men who have gone into the guard have been in good condition. Likewise the men who have been enlisted during the past week have passed the tests in a satisfactory manner.
Applications for positions in the brigade continue to come to state headquarters. Major J. A. Penn, who served in 1911 as instructor of the guard, and who is now stationed at Honolulu, cabled that he would like to wage battle against the Mexicans as an officer of a Nebraska organization. He is one of the most popular regular army officers that ever came in contact with Nebraska troops and it is probable in the event of war he would not be forgotten. Lieutenant Martin Shallenberger, son of ex-Governor A. C. Shallenberger, likewise asked that he be given a chance to fight with the home boys. He is at present in the regular army and was sent only a few days ago from San Francisco to El Paso. He is well liked by the organization and is known in the army as one of the most efficient of the young commissioned officers.
Captain Jess of the Fremont signal corps reported at headquarters and assured the military board that he would put a war strength force into the field for service with the guard. He declared that Vernon Knox of his corps had just returned from taking six months' course in the government aviation school at Los Angeles. The corps biplane is being rebuilt at the present time and Knox hopes to get it in shape for several trial flights and much training if the troops are mobilized.
Major Spearman of the medical corps reported from a local recruiting office that a well-built young fellow who applied to him for enlistment proved to have defective vision and was rejected. He sat down on the edge of the steps at the local company quarters and cried like a baby.
Will Not Relax.
It seems to be the opinion around the local war department that the present lull in the Mexican situation is the calm before the storm and General Hall does not intend to relax his efforts to build up the fighting strength of the Nebraska troops. General Hall, Colonels Eberly and Paul, Major Birken, Major Haysel, Major Waldron, Major Craig, Lieutenant Howley and the representatives of the war department, Colonel Hamilton and Lieutenant Stoll, have been on duty constantly until late into the night, while details from the state armory have been on duty during the night.
Believing from the nature of press dispatches that it would be best to have the Sixth regiment companies mustered as soon as possible, Adjutant General Hall detailed the following officers as mustering officers, with orders to proceed to the mustering of the companies which are being filled:
From the Fifth infantry: Major E. E. Sterrick, Lieutenants Bruner, Dulin and Cramer, Captains Dobby and Cedy.
From the Fourth infantry: Lieutenants Koester, Funk and Anderson.

Train Strikes Two Autoists.

The men attempted to cross the Burlington track ahead of a passenger train. In the process the automobile was struck by the engine and men and machine were hurled into the air. Ayers' shoulder was broken, but otherwise it is not thought the men are seriously hurt. The automobile was ruined.

Straight Two-Cent Rate.
Lincoln, April 27.—The state railway commission has issued an order allowing all railroads of the state to charge a straight 2 cents per mile, except at competing points. This is in line with a recent order which gave the Northwestern permission to charge the full mileage out of Omaha to points beyond Fremont.

Code Committee Meets Soon.
Lincoln, April 27.—The state code committee, appointed by Governor Morehead to look over the school laws, will meet with the state superintendent on May 2. James E. Delzell is chairman of the committee and Miss Edith A. Lathrop, secretary.

VERY SEVERE STORM AND DOWNPOUR IN THIS VICINITY LAST EVENING
From Friday's Daily.
The city and this section of the county was visited last evening by a most generous downpour of rain, which commenced to fall about 10 o'clock, being accompanied by quite a generous display of lightning and heavy thunder, which shows that the summer season is rapidly approaching. During the day there were frequent showers, but they did not last long and it was not until evening that the rainfall was sufficient to be noticeable. The weather this morning was very warm and the lowering sky betokened that there was to be more rain. The reports from out in the state indicate that the storm was general throughout the state.
