YACHT VANITIE RUNS AWAY FROM RESOLUTE

Turns Tables on Bristol Boat in Fourth Race.

Rye, N. Y., June 8.—The yacht Vanitie turned the tables on the Resolute in the fourth Long Island sound race, sailed under the auspices of the Larchmont Yacht club over a triangular course, winning by five minutes and fifty-two seconds in elapsed time. As the Vanitie gives the Resolute an estimated allowance over the twenty nine and three-quarters miles course of three minutes and twelve seconds the margin was believed to have been two minutes and forty seconds. Although sailed in light to moderate winds, which were somewhat uncertain at times, the race was a fair test than the contest Tuesday, which was regarded as more or less of a fluke, and which the Vanitie won by sixteen minutes and forty-eight seconds.

Except for the first two miles, the race was more of a procession than when the Resolute led the Vanitie in the second race Wednesday, which the Bristol boat won by eleven seconds. The yachts will be overhauled during the next three days in preparation for the three open sea contests this week off Sandy Hook.

SKINNED THE BRODEGAARD BALL TEAM

Horrible Slaughter of the Visitors Gives the Red Sox the Game, 21 to 0.

Yesterday afternoon there was quite a goodly number of the "fans" assembled on the local lot to witness what proved to be a veritable "swatfest" on the part of the Red Sox, and the players proceeded to fatten their batting averages at the expense of the visiting representatives of the Brodegaard Crowns, and at times the conduct of the local boys was very rude, as they slammed the ball to all parts of the lot, regardless of the fact that the visitors were thoroughly tired out with their exertions in attempting to stop the slaughter, and at the close of the curtain on the pitiful tragedy the score was 21 to 0 in favor of the Red Sox. Pike was in excellent form at all times, and whenever the jewelers looked the least dangerous he would fan them out with ease.

The hostilities opened in the first, when Beal, the first man up, rapped one of the slants of young Mr. Heintzinger over second base for a safety, and when he reached that position lost no time in getting to the second sack. Parriott, who followed, was able to place a nice sacrifice down the third base line, and while he was thrown out at first, Beal was able to score; C. Smith, the competent second sacker, was at once able to get onto the combination that was being handed out by the visitors, and by the time they had the ball he was on second, as his drive into the left garden was not handled quickly enough; Herold then made a single; McCauley, the war scarred veteran, who followed Herold at bat, was able to get part of his form in the way of the ball, and walked to first, but was not allowed to remain there long, as Mason rapped one to short that the fielder juggled, and he was safe, and here the visitors indulged in some decidedly rank playing, the shortstop, to head off Smith at third from scoring, throw home, and had it not been for the grand stand his heave would probably have gone several miles, but as it was Smith and Herold both romped home with two more tallies, L. Smith, who was back in the harness yesterday, lined up on one of the Brodegaard curves, facing it at third, where the baseman seemed at sea what to do with it, but finally decided to throw home, which he done, and two more scores by McCauley and Mason came over the pan. Neitzel was also able to negotiate a safe one from the collection of the thoroughly demoralized jewelers, placing it in right field, and on which L. Smith came home, the boys now thoroughly fired out with running, decided to call a halt, and Pike on his hit to shortstop caught Neitzel at third base, and Beal ended the agony by striking out.

In the second act of the little drama Plattsmouth proceeded to hang several other large chunks of gloom on the hopes of the visitors. Parriott opened the inning with a little hit to the pitcher, which he was able to field and retire the runner at first, C. Smith was hit by the pitcher; Herold was more lucky and got a safety through second, and when McCauley rapped one to short Smith came home; Mason was hit by the pitcher in trying to locate the plate, and took first; L. Smith was retired on a fly to second, that for a wonder was handled by the baseman. At this time Peter Herold proceeded to throw a scare in the visitors by stealing home on them while the third baseman was examining the ball. Neitzel secured a safety to left field that brought in Mason and McCauley, and he came home on the hit of Pike. Beal retired the side by fouling out to the catcher.

There was nothing further doing in the scoring line until the seventh, when Pike placed a safety in the shortstop territory; Beal hit safely to left, but was later caught a second base; Parriott secured a safety and was followed by C. Smith, who struck out, but Herold was passed to first. Pike scored at this time on

RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE JOURNAL'S BIG BOOSTER SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN

Rules of the Contest.

Any white man, woman, boy or girl of good reputation residing in the territory of the contest may become a candidate. Nominations may be made and will be received up to the last day of the contest.

Contestants may nominate themselves or be nominated by friends, without cost. There will be two separate districts in which to enter, as described on this page. The candidate who received the largest vote of the entire contest will be awarded the Overland Touring Car. The contestant receiving the second largest vote of the entire contest will receive the Schmoller & Mueller Piano. The three candidates in each of the two districts receiving the three largest number of votes after the two grand prizes are awarded, will receive one of the district prizes. All candidates who enter and work to the end and fail to win one of the prizes will receive 10 per cent cash commission on all subscriptions turned in by them.

Every candidate in the contest has an equal chance of winning either the touring car or the piano. Candidates compete only against the candidates in their own district for the district prizes.

In the event of a typographical error it is understood that neither The Journal or the Contest Manager shall be held responsible, except to make the necessary correction on discovery of same.

Any district having less than two active contestants will be declared off.

Voting will be by two methods: Coupons clipped from THE DAILY AND SEMI-WEEKLY JOURNAL, which will count for five votes each; and by special coupons issued for payments made on subscriptions according to the published schedule. These payments must be made in cash to the home office of the paper during the period covered by the contest, whereupon a special subscription coupon will be issued, good for number of votes to which each payment is entitled. Votes will not be sold or issued in any other manner. Special subscription coupons must bear the number corresponding with the ledger number on record in the office, and must be countersigned by the Contest Manager or his assistant. Contestants are not limited to their own districts in securing votes and subscriptions, but may obtain them anywhere. Votes are not transferable from one contestant to another.

All remittances must be accompanied by subscriber's name and address. All votes issued on subscriptions are good to the end of the contest and may be polled at the discretion of the candidate or subscriber.

Cash must accompany all subscriptions when votes are issued. First publication of names will be made as soon as a suitable number have been nominated in each district. Voting will commence Thursday, June 11, and continue until Saturday, August 1, at 10 p. m., at which time the contest will close.

No employee or close relative of an employee of THE JOURNAL can enter the contest.

A board of three responsible business men will have exclusive control of the ballot box the last day of the contest and make announcement of the result of that day's voting.

The Contest Manager reserves the right to reject any nomination and to pass final judgment upon any question that may arise, not covered by these rules.

Statement or promise made by any solicitor, canvasser or agent, varying from these rules, will be recognized by THE JOURNAL.

THE JOURNAL reserves the right to change the plan or to make any additions or alterations to the above conditions that may be decided necessary to the interest and welfare of the contest and its candidates.

In accepting nomination and in casting votes, all candidates must accept and agree to abide by the above rules and conditions.

How Prizes Will Be Awarded.

The manner of awarding prizes is as follows: The Overland five-passenger touring car, with complete equipment, will be awarded to the contestant who secures the largest number of votes during the campaign.

The $100 Schmoller & Mueller Piano will be awarded to the contestant receiving the second largest number of votes during the campaign.

After these grand prizes have been awarded, there will be three prizes awarded in each of the districts as follows: The contestant receiving the highest vote in each district, regardless of the vote in any other district, and after the grand prizes have been awarded, will receive a beautiful diamond ring, purchased from J. W. Crabill of Plattsmouth, and on display at his store.

The contestant receiving the second highest number of votes in each district, regardless of the vote in any other district, and after the grand prizes have been awarded, will receive an order on one of Plattsmouth's largest stores for $30 worth of merchandise, as they may select.

The contestant receiving the third largest number of votes in each district, regardless of the vote in any other district, and after the grand prizes have been awarded, will receive a gold watch, choice of Elgin or Waltham movement, purchased from J. W. Crabill, Plattsmouth, and on display at his store in this city.

SPECIAL.—To assure everyone who enters this campaign of absolutely fair and impartial treatment, we will pay to every contestant who enters and who remains active until the close of the campaign and who fails to win one of the splendid prizes offered, a cash commission of ten (10) per cent of the money which they have secured and turned into this office during the campaign.

ALMOST FATAL AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Auto Turns Turtle, and Wonder Is That Occupants Were Not Instantly Killed.

There was a great deal of excitement created here Saturday evening by the report that several persons were killed in an auto accident near the home of Will T. Adams, south of this city. Parties were sent out to ascertain the truth of the rumor, and on their arrival there found the car, which was a light machine, on the side of the road, where it had turned turtle, and extracted from the machine William Gans and Henry Barless, two of the occupants of the car, and for a time it was thought that they were severely injured, as they were limp and seemed almost lifeless. The men were hurried to the office of a physician in this city for an examination as to their injuries, and it was found that the men were not injured beyond a few bruises, but were decidedly suffering from an over-accumulation of liquors of various kinds, and one of the men two bottles of whisky were found, while from the condition of their garments it was evident that several other bottles had been broken, as they were saturated with the booze and pieces of glass betrayed the fact of the broken bottles. The two men were taken to a hotel, having to be carried from the doctor's office to the automobile that conveyed them to the Perkins house, where they were lodged over night.

It seems from all that can be learned from the two injured men that they, in company with Edgar Morton and another man, had come up from Union in the car of Mr. Morton, and started for home about 7:30, and when they reached the road near the Adams' place had gotten out to one side where the loose dirt was, and while trying to get the machine back in the road had one of the front wheels broken, and this caused the car to turn turtle and throw them out. It is stated by those who were first on the scene of the accident that Morton, who was driving, and his companion were perfectly sober. They returned to their homes the same evening, while the other two men remained here to rest up from their strenuous joy ride. All of the parties are from the vicinity of Union, with the exception of Barless, who says his home is at Caspar, Wyoming, and he was back on a visit to his old friends in Liberty precinct. It is certainly fortunate for the party that they were not killed by the accident, as it could easily have resulted in their instant death.

HON. E. M. POLLARD AUTOS UP FROM NEHAWKA

Hon. E. M. Pollard, accompanied by his little son, were in the city today for a few hours visiting with friends and in looking after some business affairs at the court house. Mr. Pollard, since his retirement from congress, has devoted himself to his farm at Nehawka, and here the most up-to-date methods have been applied with great success, and the apple orchards of Mr. Pollard are famous throughout the west. Mr. Pollard still keeps a keen interest in the public affairs and his most able filling of the position in congress shows that he is a man alive to the interests of his constituents.
