

THE RED SOX WIN IN A RED HOT CONTEST

Red Sox Succeeded in Trimming Up the Famous A. O. U. W. Team of Omaha Yesterday.

The Plattsmouth Red Sox yesterday succeeded in humiliating their ancient enemies, the A. O. U. W. team of Omaha, by the score of 2 to 0, and the heretofore mighty bat wielders of Frank Quigley were compelled to submit to having their colors dragged in the dust by Joe Pike and his teammates. The contest lasted for a period of two hours, and while long drawn out was filled with several exciting situations when the visitors looked good to score, but by the steadiness of Pike and his fellow players the aspirations of the Quigleyites were dashed to earth and they returned to their home with the fact that they had been shut out staring them in the face. Adams, who was on the mound for the visitors, was touched up with regularity by the locals and several passes as well as hitting the batsman served to add to his cup of humiliation and permit the result to go to the Red Sox. The locals as a whole played a clean and clever game, and with the exception of a number of mis-judgments by Parriott it was one of the best games they have played this season. Pike succeeded in fanning out eleven of the visitors on his slants during the progress of the battle, while Adams was only able to retire six of the Red Sox.

The game was even until the fifth inning, when the Red Sox proceeded to annex one score to their credit, when Carle was walked by Adams to first base and was followed by Parriott, who laid down a very pretty bunt to Adams, who was unable to handle it in time to retire the runner at first, and on this play Carle was advanced to third base. Claude Smith, the jolly second sacker of the locals, rapped a fine safe single to left field which brought Carle over the plate with the score, and as Parriott sought to add another run he was nipped by Mr. Horns at the home plate. Harold placed a good drive to right field that seemed would be safe, but Quigley after a sensational run and catch ended the hopes of the locals as McCauley was retired, third to first.

Again in the seventh the locals got busy, and as before it was Mr. Carle who proved the undoing of the Omaha boys. The inning was opened by Neitzel, who was retired, Adams to Daugherty, and he was followed at bat by Carle, who was hit by the pitcher and given first base on this misjudgment of the twirler for the visitors. Parriott then laid down one of his famous bunts and this was made the occasion of a great deal of rag-chewing between Empire Cunningham and the members of the Red Sox, for after calling Parriott safe on the throw he called him out for turning the wrong way and being put out by the Omaha player at the first sack. This decision brought on a very exciting dispute between the members of both teams as well as the umpire, who refused to back up on his decision, and Parriott was forced to retire from the position to which it seemed he was justly entitled. C. Smith again secured revenge on the visitors by pasting the ball on the nose for a safely to left field, which allowed Carle to score. Harold ended the inning by retiring on a fly to right field.

The visitors several times appeared dangerous and in the fifth inning it seemed almost sure they would score, but the splendid work of Pike and his teammates succeeded in holding them down, and with the bases full they were retired in one-two-three order. The result of the game was most thoroughly satisfactory to the local fans and they were enthusiastic over the outcome of the battle yesterday.

The lineup of the locals was changed somewhat as Beal, the center-fielder of the team, has removed to Belle Fourche, S. D., where he will play for the season, and it was necessary to fill his place, and Carle who filled the center garden yesterday, sure did a fine job of it and covered every chance offered him.

The lineup of the team was as follows:

Table with columns: A. O. U. W., AB, R, H, O, A, E. Rows include Coady, Gillham, McCreary, Daugherty, Lamp, Borns, Quigley, Bowman, Adams, and Totals.

Table with columns: RED SOX, AB, R, H, O, A, E. Rows include Carle, Parriott, S. Smith, Herold, McCauley, Mason, L. Smith, Pike, Neitzel, and Totals.
