MUSICAL EVENT AT THE D. O. DWYER HOME

About Two Hundred and Fifty

Present to Listen to the Charming Music.

One of the most pleasant musical events of the season was given at the handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Dwyer yesterday afternoon and was in the nature of an informal concert by a number of prominent musicians of Omaha, who were at the Dwyer home for an over Sunday visit. The party consisted of E. M. Clark and wife, Richard Clark and wife, Edwin Morton and Robert Clark, Will Hearington, and Mr. and Mrs. Tiernan and little daughter, Gertude. All of the visitors are splendid musicians and the program given by them was one that was a rare treat to listen to.

They were assisted in the different musical numbers by E. H. Schulhof and Richard Avard of this city on the coronet and clairon. Little Miss Tiernan, who is only 8 years of age, gave two most delightful violin solos that won the warm approval of all who were fortunate enough to be present, and demonstrated the splendid ability possessed by this little lady. Miss Harriett Slaughter, of Cleveland, Ohio, a cousin of Mr. E. M. Clark, who is making a short visit with them, en route from her home to Los Angeles, California, was also with the party and gave several splendid recitations that demonstrated the wonderful talent that this lady possesses as an elocutionist, and her numbers were by far the best that it has been the good fortune of our people to enjoy.

The Clark family and their friends are well known to a great many of the residents of this section and there were a large number present to enjoy the concert, and some 250 people assembled on the lawn at the Dwyer home to enjoy the delightful musical treat. Among the out-of-town guests present were: L. O. Todd and family of Nebraska, Mrs. J. R. Pierson of Union, Deitrich Koesler and family of Weeping Water, A. L. Todd and family, A. E. Todd and family, T. E. Todd and family and C. R. Todd and family, from west of the city, and Jack M. Patterson and wife of Union.

WHEAT NOT SO HEAVY
AS LAST YEAR--ONLY 30
BUSHELS PER ACRE

R. L. Propst of Mynard and his sons have just completed a job of threshing at the farm of Luke L. Wiles, near this city, and the result of the yield has been quite gratifying to Mr. Wiles, as the wheat averaged some thirty bushels to the acre and is of very good quality. The wheat is not as heavy as last year, but then the crop of last season was an exceptionally heavy one, while this year it is as good as generally is found in the west, and is of excellent quality. Mr. Propst has done considerable threshing this season so far and finds that the wheat he has handled is as good as has been threshed out in the past few years.

THE RED SOX TIE ANOTHER SCALP TO THEIR BELT

The K. & M. Team of Omaha Lose Out Sunday by a Score of 8 to 1.

Yesterday afternoon the Red Sox gathered in another victory on the diamond, when they added the scalp of the K. & M. team of Omaha to their collection by the decisive score of 8 to 1. The Omaha team was composed of some of the old veterans of the game, but their skill was lacking yesterday against the heavy stick work of the local boys, and the Sox took full advantage of the occasion to fatten their batting averages at the expense of young Mr. Lusely, the 17-year-old wonder, who attempted to do the twirling for the visitors, and secured seventeen hits off of his delivery, which were productive of eight runs, while the K. & M.'s were able to annex only two hits from Pike.

The game opened very favorably for the visitors, when Morarity was able to place a groundie to second base on which he reached first on a wild throw, but was nipped a few minutes later at the second sack. Cass, who followed, was only able to hit to first, where he was retired; Minicus then coming to bat laced one out to third that was secured by Herold, who threw to first, but Ault was only six feet tall he could not reach the ball and the runner was safe on the sack. Knabe retired the visitors, however, by being thrown out at first base. Arries opened the game for Plattsmouth by striking out; Parrott was jugged out between short and first; C. Smith was given a lease of life by being presented with a base on balls, but was unable to do business, as while Herold was attempting to connect with the ball, Smith retired the side by attempting to steal second, and was caught easily.

There was nothing doing for the visitors in the second inning, as they did not even get to first base and retired in one, two, three order. Our sterlings, however, succeeded in chalking up the first score of the game, when Herold was allowed his base on balls; Carle attempted a sacrifice and laid a bunt down the third base line that could not be handled in time and the batter was able to reach first safely. William Mason, who was there with the big stick yesterday, straightened out on one of the slants of Lousley's and placed it out to center field in safety, which brought Herold home and advanced Carle to third; Ault, who also had his batting eye working, followed at bat and laid down a fine bunt, on which he reached first, but Carle, who was slow in getting into action, was nipped at the home plate as he attempted to score. Pike hit to short and Mason was thrown out at third and Pike at first, which retired the side.

The visitors secured their solitary tally in the third inning, when Pearson rapped out a two-bagger to center field, and being the first man up the situation looked very dubious for a few minutes; Lousley retired, Parrott to Ault, Pearson advancing on the out, and a few minutes later he scored on a balk by Pike, who was attempting the fast return and was wound up to deliver the ball when he found the catcher was not ready for the throw and he was compelled to allow the runner to come home; Morarity then followed and rapped out another two-bagger, making the situation quite critical, but little damage was done, as Cass was out on a fly to Parrott, while Minicus fanned out, retiring the side. The Red Sox did not get dangerous in their half, although two men were on the bases, but were unable to get in scoring distance of the home plate.

To even matters up the Red Sox got busy in the fourth, after the visitors had been retired, and added another to their list of scores. Carle had been put out on a hit to second and Mason struck out, when Ault came to bat and successfully placed a safe single in center field and was advanced when Pike singled to left, and on the hit of Neitzel Ault scored, Neitzel was "retired" at second when he attempted to steal.

The balloon containing the hopes of the K. & M.'s took flight in the seventh inning, when the Red Sox buried them beneath an avalanche of hits that resulted in six scores being annexed by the locals. Parrott, who opened the inning for the locals was retired, Lousley to Knabe; C. Smith was given first base by getting part of his body in the way of one of the slants of Lousley; Herold was put out on a hit to shortstop; Carle was walked by Lousley; Mason then opened up the excitement by making a hot hit to third base that scored Smith; Ault then came to the front and placed a safe one to right field; Pike, who followed Ault at bat, proceeded to put the game on ice by rapping out a two-bagger to center field, which brought in Carle, Mason and Ault. Neitzel added to the agony of the visitors by singling to center scoring Pike, and Arries, with a two-bagger, scored Neitzel. Parrott retired the side by a foul out to first base.

The line-up of the game was as follows:

A. H. Vanlandingham shipped a carload of hogs to Nebraska City Monday.

A slight operation was performed on the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Weyers to remove a cherry pit from his nose.

Threshing is on in full blast this week in this vicinity. The wheat is not as good quality as last year and is averaging only about 25 bushels to the acre.

Neal Foreman, who was so seriously hurt by being kicked by a horse last spring, had the misfortune to be drug over the binder trucks by a team of mules, breaking one rib.

Fred Spahn had the misfortune to run an ice pick in his left hand just below the thumb Thursday afternoon, receiving quite a painful injury which required the attention of a doctor.

A deal was made Tuesday of this week through W. H. Morrow, our local real estate hustler, whereby Mr. W. G. Jack is now the owner of a beautiful home in University Place.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of Havelock arrived Saturday of last week for a few days' visit at the home of Mrs. Johnson's brothers, Clyde and Frank West and their families.

E. P. Betts, Geo. Oberle and Bruce Thorp autoed to Milford Tuesday afternoon on a short fishing expedition, returning home Wednesday forenoon. They report a good time, but did not bring home many fish.

Henry Snee is getting along on crutches from the effects of having stepped on a spike the first of the week, which penetrated his foot to quite a depth. However, he is making himself useful with little work about the farm.

The picnic committees are busy getting things lined up, and we trust that by next week we may be able to state what will be doing in Eagle on August 5 and 6. However, at this early date we might state that a merry-go-round, picture show and a few smaller attractions have already been secured.

CHARLES ZITKA KILLED BY MO.

PACIFIC TRAIN

Board Train at Depot, and in Attempting to Jump Thrown Under Moving Train.

Late Saturday night near the midnight hour, Charles Zitka, residing in the west part of the city on the south road to the cemetery, was killed by being run over by a train on the Missouri Pacific within half a block his home. From what information that could be secured it seems that parties at the Missouri Pacific depot who were awaiting the coming of the south bound midnight train saw Zitka there and it is claimed that he caught the train to ride to his home, which is just west of the crossing on Pearl street. It is thought that as he attempted to alight from the moving train he fell back under the cars and was mangled by the fast moving train.

Shortly after the passing of the train one of the residents near the crossing, who was sleeping in the yard at his home, heard a loud scream and hastened to the spot from whence it seemed to proceed, and found the body of Mr. Zitka lying along the tracks badly mangled and almost unrecognizable. The right leg was severed just above the knee, while on the shoulder a large section of the flesh had been torn and the face was scratched and cut in frightful shape so as to make it almost unrecognizable. From the wounds on the body it would seem that the man had attempted to alight from the train and falling back under it had been dragged a considerable distance to inflict the injuries he had received.

A few years ago Zitka was struck by a train while walking along the track, only a short distance from where the tragedy occurred Saturday night, and on that occasion was hurled some twenty feet down a steep embankment, but this did not result in any serious damage to him and evidently did not prove an object lesson to keep off the track and right-of-way.

The authorities were notified at once after the discovery of the body and it was removed to the undertaking rooms of M. Hild, where the inquest was held under the direction of Coroner Clements.

Mr. Zitka was a young man and unmarried, who had been making his home with his father on the home place on the cemetery road for the past few years. He was employed for a short time as a driver by Edward Donat, the proprietor of the Peerless bar, and was a young man of quite an extensive acquaintance throughout the city, and his many friends will regret very deeply to learn of his death.

The coroner's jury, after viewing the body, retired to the court house and after a short deliberation brought in a verdict that the young man came to his death by being run over by a south bound train on the Missouri Pacific between the hours of 11 p. m. and 12:30 a. m.

The funeral of the unfortunate young man was held this morning from the undertaking rooms of M. Hild, and the body interred in Oak Hill cemetery.

Ice Lasts Well.

The hat which was exhibited at the store of C. E. Wescott's Sons Saturday, in a large 200-pound cake of ice, attracted much attention and there were many surmises as to how long it would take the ice to melt. The ice was exposed to the open air from 8 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 at night before it finally melted.

CHICKEN THIEVES MAKE A RAID ON THE MASONIC HOME HEN ROOST

there. The men ran from the place north toward the Missouri Pacific tracks and a faint trail of blood was found in their wake. The police were notified of the trouble and Officer Neumann started for the scene of the trouble, and while en route there met with quite a painful accident. He was being taken in an auto to the Home and as the car passed over a hollow in the road he was bounced out of the seat and struck the bridge of his nose on the wooden support of the top of the car with the result that he received a severe gash on the nose that required several stitches to close. He continued on to the Home, however, and assisted in the search for the chicken thieves, but no definite clue was obtained as to their identity. Several of the fine fowls belonging to the Home were gotten away with by the parties. The parties, however, must have been decidedly vicious characters, as their shooting at the watchman shows to what lengths they would go in their unlawful enterprises.
