

FORMER PLATTS- MOUTH MAN DIES IN LINCOLN

William Foxwell, a Former Resident of This City, Dies at His Lincoln Home.

From Tuesday's Daily.

The friends of William Foxwell and family, formerly residents of this city, but who for the past twelve years have made their home in Lincoln, were greatly grieved to learn last evening of the death of Mr. Foxwell, who passed away yesterday afternoon at 2:20 at his home, 1836 Washington street, Lincoln, after a long illness due to a stroke of paralysis, which he suffered some three years ago, and from which he had never recovered, gradually growing weaker as the affliction weighed upon him. He was a gentleman universally esteemed and respected by all who had the pleasure of knowing him and his death will be deeply regretted in this, his old home, and where he was for years a resident. The body will be brought to this city Wednesday evening on No. 2 at 7:30 and the funeral will be direct from the Burlington station to Oak Hill cemetery, where the body will be laid to its last long sleep. The following is a short biographical sketch of this grand good man:

William Foxwell was born July 21, 1842, in the town of Calcutta, Racine county, Wisconsin. His father was John Foxwell, who passed into the great unknown some years ago, and his mother Lucy Briggs Foxwell, who still survives at the remarkable age of 94 years, and resides in the old home in Wisconsin. When only 12 years old Mr. Foxwell experienced religion, and during a long life was a faithful and devoted member of the Methodist church. When the great civil war broke out in 1861 Mr. Foxwell was still a minor, only about 19 years old. But in 1863, when he became 21 years old, and when the call to arms for the defense of the Union was resounding throughout the land, William Foxwell became a volunteer soldier in the Second Wisconsin cavalry, in which he served until the final triumph of the flag under which he served—the close of the war in 1865.

On the 31st day of December, 1874, Mr. Foxwell was united in marriage to Miss Delia Crites, who was born April 10, 1854, in Waterford, Racine county, Wisconsin, the marriage taking place at the home of Miss Crites in county and state above named. To this union three children were born: Maud, who married Ernest M. Slattery, and resides at Chadron, Dawes county Nebraska; Gertrude, married to C. F. Richards and resides at Lincoln, Lancaster county, Nebraska, and Jessie, who married T. Edwin Phillips and resides at Chadron, Dawes county, Nebraska.

In 1876 Mr. Foxwell and family moved to Nebraska, and located on a homestead in Boone county, near Albion. Here they resided until 1893, when the family removed to Plattsmouth, Cass county, Nebraska, where they resided until 1902, and where the children were given the advantages of education in the Plattsmouth High school. On leaving Plattsmouth the family located in Lincoln, Neb., for the special purpose of giving the children the advantages of an education in the state university, thus showing the great interest which father and mother took in the education of their children.

Some years ago Mr. Foxwell fell heir to an estate in England. His heirship was disputed, but, actuated by that same sense of right which prompted him to enlist in the Union army when but 24 years old, he went to England, fought the legal battle through the courts and established his heirship. This last legal battle was fought in the afternoon of life—as the evening shadows were gradually growing longer, toward the western boundary. Some three years ago Mr. Foxwell suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he never recovered, although given the best medical treatment, and was always cared for by a most devoted wife.

HOME OF THOMAS JEN- NING BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE THIS MORNING

From Tuesday's Daily.

This morning about 6 o'clock the home of Thomas Jennings, in the south part of the city, was discovered to be in flames and at the time the fire was first noticed the roof on the house was completely in flames. The fire alarm was sounded, but as the Jennings home is far out of the fire district it was impossible to get hose to the place to use in putting out the flames, and it was only due to the heroic efforts of the neighbors that the flames were checked and the entire destruction of the house prevented. The loss to the building will be in the neighborhood of $250, as the whole roof of the house was almost totally destroyed. The fire started, it is thought, from a defective flue, which allowed spark to escape and ignite the roof. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings feel very grateful to their neighbors for their splendid work in saving their home, and had it not been for this assistance the home would have been reduced to ashes in a short time.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION AT LOUISVILLE

Delegates Present From All Precincts of the County, Making Meeting Enthusiastic.

The Cass county republican convention, held yesterday at Louisville, was one of the most enthusiastic in years and a large number of candidates, as well as delegates, were present to take part in the doings of the convention. Dr. M. M. Butler of Weeping Water was selected as chairman of the convention, and E. B. Taylor as secretary.

The convention then proceeded to the election of delegates to the state convention and the following gentlemen were chosen to represent Cass county at the coming convention: Orland Tefft, Avoca; J. O. Ward, Eight Mile Grove; C. L. Graves, Union; James Terryberry, M. Pleasant; C. G. Mayfield, Louisville; W. A. Robertson, William Weber, W. H. Newell, Plattsmouth; A. F. Sturm, Nehawka; J. W. Noyes, Louisville; Dr. M. M. Butler and E. B. Taylor, Weeping Water.

The committee on resolutions presented the following resolutions, which were adopted as representing the sentiments of the Cass county republicans:

We, the republicans of Cass county, in representative convention assembled, reaffirm our faith and hereby renew our allegiance to the fundamental principles and doctrines of the party as defined by Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley.

We rejoice at the results of the administration of the republican party of the past, it having placed the United States in the foremost position of any nation on earth. A party that comes to the people with such results is entitled to the support of the American people.

This convention pledges itself to the support of republicanism as expressed by the immortal Lincoln: "A government of the people, for the people and by the people."

The democratic tariff, the principle object of which seemed to be the opening of the markets of the world to everything which the farmer produces, meets and receives our severest condemnation. The last democratic state administration did not properly represent the taxpayers of the state in its reckless appropriation of $8,354,583.50.

We pledge the republican nominees to the legislature from this county to use every honorable means to bring about an economic condition in the state consistent with honest government and the proper care of the state's wards.

We are opposed to the creation of any more state commissions and condemn the creation of positions for the purpose of creating offices to give political adherents fat salaries.

We ask all who believe in the principles of the republican party of whatever name, creed or conscience, to join with us in the coming campaign in carrying into effect the progressive principles of our party.

Among the candidates present, a number of whom addressed the convention with a few remarks, were: Matthew Gering, Fred Edgerton and J. E. Dalzell, candidates for congress; A. L. Gash, C. D. Quinton, J. H. Kemp, candidate for governor; Mont Robb, M. A. Hall, Fred Meunchau, John Colbert. The presence of these gentlemen added greatly to the interest in the convention and they circulated among the delegates and visitors getting acquainted.

The convention, after transacting the routine business of the election of delegates, got busy on the matter of selecting the county central committee that will guide the destinies of the party in the coming campaign and the following were chosen:
