W. A. Clark of Elmwood Here.

W. A. Clark of Elmwood, who was for a number of years editor of the Leader-Echo of that place was in the city today a few hours, and while here Mr. Clark called to spend a few minutes socially with the editor, and in looking over the Journal establishment, it being the first time he has seen the new equipment that is used in the publication of the Journal. Mr. Clark's visit was much enjoyed, and while he is not engaged now in the newspaper business, he still takes a keen interest in everything connected with the craft. He is now engaged in looking after the sale of Texas land in which he has been quite successful. He left this afternoon at 2:40 over the Missouri Pacific for his home.

District Court Here Tomorrow.

Word has been received from District Judge James T. Begley that he will be here tomorrow to hold a short session of the court and take up such matters as may be brought up before them. The judge is one of the hardest working judges on the bench in the state, and is constantly on the go in looking after the interests of the district of Cass, Olney and Sarpy county, and keeps the work well cleaned up.

BEAUTIFUL LOVE STORY IN PICTURESQUE SETTING

"Where the Trail Divides" at Parmele Theatre Thursday Night, October 3.

A beautiful love story in a picturesque setting and with the central figure an educated Sioux Indian and a rich young New Yorker as rivals for the love of a beautiful Western girl, is told in "Where the Trail Divides," a new Indian play of which Robert Edson, "the actor" is the author. Love stories no matter in what setting always make attractive plays. The audiences seem never to tire of the hero clasp the beautiful heroine in his arms and whisper the oft repeated—"I love you"—and love stories are all the more fascinating when the hero is a romantic and manly type of American.

Mr. Edson whose "Strongheart" will always be remembered as the greatest characterization of the American Indian, in writing "Where the Trail Divides," made How Lander, the educated Sioux Indian, a most fascinating figure. He received the suggestion for his play from Will Lillibridge's novel of the great Western Ranch country. He has transferred the characters from the book to the stage, taken a suggestion of the story and written a play that fairly breathes the spirit of the west.

There is no character on the American stage that is exactly like How Lander, yet it is a character that might have been taken from real life.

The late Henry B. Harris made the original production of "Where the Trail Divides" for Mr. Edson and the play was presented in the theatres last season with great success. On presentation at the Parmele theatre, under the management of C. S. Primrose, Thursday night, October 3, a more elaborate, than the original scenic production will be used, and the cast will be one of exceptional merit.

A COZY HOME FOR MR. AND MRS. J. H. KUHN, ON NORTH SIXTH STREET

Among the cozy homes of the city that has been remodeled and occupied during the past few months are none more tasty or homelike than the new residence property of J. H. Kuhn on North Sixth street. The house purchased by them has been remodeled and fitted up in a strictly modern style with everything that could possibly tend to make the home perfectly comfortable in every way. The home has been well named, "The Nest" as it is homelike and cozy in every sense of the term and Mr. and Mrs. Kuhn can look forward to enjoying much comfort in their new home, and their friends are delighted to see that their worthy friends are comfortably settled in their new home.

Keeps Many From State Fair.

The disagreeable weather of the past three days has served to keep many from attending the state fair from this city and county and the crowds going, lacked greatly the numbers that has characterized the excursions in the past few years. The special trains over the Burlington were could hardly hold the crowds. Many of the farmers expected to attend the fair by going in their automobiles, but the heavy rains this week made this out of the question, and as a consequence been unable to be in attendance. The city officials of Lincoln have made an appeal to the residents there to turn out and attend the fair to take the place of the strangers from outside who have been unable to be in attendance.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BRADY RETURN FROM THEIR OHIO VISIT

This morning John Brady and wife returned home from Ohio where they have been visiting among their relatives and old friends there for the past two weeks. The former home of Mr. and Mrs. Brady was at Manchester, Ohio, and here they enjoyed themselves to the utmost in reviewing the scenes where they spent many happy days and as some forty-six years had lapsed since last they visited there the occasion was one that will long be remembered by them most pleasantly. One of the points of interest visited by them there was the famous snake mound of Adams county, Ohio, which has attracted a great deal of attention from scientists in the east owing to the peculiar formation of the soil that gives the mound its name. A snake shape formation of the earth some 1,380 feet long rests on top of a large mound and here hundreds of visitors repair each year to view the extraordinary sight. The soil forming the serpent is different from that in other parts of the mound and it is supposed was brought there by a tribe of snake worshipping Indians in an early day.

Extra Gang Laid Off.

There was a large number of men in the city yesterday for a few hours who have been employed on the work of laying new steel on the Burlington lines east of the Missouri river and who have made their headquarters at the Junction. They all departed for Omaha from where they will scatter to different parts of the country having been secured through labor agencies. The Burlington has suspended work on a number of their track improvements and this gang will be laid off. The force employed on the work at Chalco was also placed on the shelf for the winter.

Notice.

The W. M. A. will give a missionary program at the U. B. church, 2 miles south of Plattsmouth, Sunday evening Sept. 13th. Everybody cordially invited.
