NEBRASKA'S GREAT-EST GOVERNOR VISITS PLATTSMOUTH

Notwithstanding the Threatening Weather, Governor Morehead Addresses a Large Audience.

From Saturday's Daily.
The visit of Governor John H. Morehead to this city last evening was the occasion for the outpouring of a large crowd of citizens of all parties at the Parmele theatre to greet Nebraska's chief executive, who in the discharge of his duties has well earned the title of the business governor. The party, including C. S. Aldrich, L. F. Langhorn, chairman of the county committee, and the county candidates, arrived in the city about 7 o'clock from an all day's trip out through the county, which started at Greenwood at 9 o'clock in the morning and continued all day without interruption, closing with the big meeting here in the evening. The trip and the open-air speaking had a decided effect upon the voice of the governor, who was hoarse, and it was with difficulty that he made his address at the theatre. There were a large number of the democrats of the city and county present at the Hotel Riley before the meeting to greet the governor, who was making his first visit here since a democratic congressional convention held here many years ago.

The members of the Burlington band gathered shortly before the hour for the speaking and gave a number of selections in front of the theatre that were very pleasing, and also one number upon the stage where the governor and county candidates and the chairman of the meeting, Col. M. A. Bates, were seated. Shortly after 8 o'clock Colonel Bates, in a few words, introduced Attorney C. H. Aldrich of Elmwood, who had accompanied the party on their tour, and this gentleman proceeded in a short address to point out the accomplishments of the democratic party in the nation under the guidance of President Woodrow Wilson and the extensive program of reforms that the administration had been able to carry out as well as many that were still to be enacted into laws. He made a short plea for re-election of Congressman Maguire to represent this district in support of party measures.

The governor was aptly introduced to the audience by the chairman as "Nebraska's greatest chief executive," and he at once launched into his speech, which was largely a statement of the condition of the state's finances during the time that he has been in the governor's chair, and some of the measures and appropriations made by the last legislature in their session. The governor pointed out the vast sum of money that entered into the maintenance of the state university and the normal school and which covered a large per cent of the taxes levied upon the state, but for which the legislature had made an appropriation that was necessary to maintain. Governor Morehead, in this section of his speech, did not hesitate to state that he did not believe that the removal of the university from its present location was a wise move, as the buildings in use were in good shape and the expense of moving was wholly unnecessary to the taxpayers of the state to gratify the desires of a few who were working for this purpose.

In response to the statements of the management of the different state institutions the governor pointed out the fact that when his administration went into office they were confronted with the fact that the Aldrich administration had left a deficit in a great many cases that was necessary to make good; in addition to this the present administration had succeeded in cutting down the running expenses of the institutions and making a saving of $100,000 to the taxpayers of the state. This is true in almost every one of the public institutions, and each year that the board of control has been in power has seen the saving of thousands of dollars to the state and its people. The governor stated that he believed the affairs of the state should be run with as great a care as a man would give to his own personal business, and for this reason had made this the policy of his administering of the affairs of the state, and if re-elected to the office would continue the policy in force. The meeting was enthusiastic throughout and the remarks of the governor, in giving an accounting of his administration, was frequently interrupted with applause in approval of the telling blows made against the weak charges of the republican state committee.

MRS. S. E. OLIVE, FORMERLY MRS. CAPTAIN MARSHALL, VISITING FRIENDS

From Friday's Daily.
This morning Mrs. S. E. Olive of Los Angeles, Calif., who has been here for the past few days visiting at the home of Mrs. J. C. Cummins and family, departed for Omaha, from where she will go to points in Iowa, as well as at Cedar Creek, where she expects to visit relatives and friends for a few weeks before returning to her home on the coast. Mrs. Olive was formerly Mrs. Captain J. W. Marshall, and was for many years a resident of this city, where Mr. Marshall was postmaster from 1867 to 1884. The family removed from this city some thirty years ago for the Pacific coast, where Mr. Marshall passed away several years ago. Mrs. Olive is interested in a large manufacturing concern on the coast and has devoted the most of the past few years in traveling over the country, but this is the first time in years that she has had the pleasure of visiting at the old home in Nebraska. The old friends here greatly enjoyed the short visit from Mrs. Olive and were delighted to see that she was enjoying the life on the coast.

Fritz Fricke Returned Home from his Visit in the West Yesterday

From Friday's Daily.
Fritz Fricke, who has been visiting in the locality of Cody, Wyo., for the past few weeks, returned home yesterday and reports having had one of the times of his life in the enjoyment of the mountain atmosphere and in search of big game. The party, leaving Cody, struck out into the mountains in search of deer and other game and spent a few weeks there most enjoyably, although the game was not very plentiful, as it has been in the previous years. Mr. Fricke states that the oil industry is developing this section of Wyoming in great shape, as the oil fields are numerous and very productive of the highest grade of oil, especially near Thermopolis, where they have one of the finest wells in the country, producing a very high grade of oil. The hunting trip was abandoned by the party, owing to the snows which were quite heavy there, and the hunters returned to their homes. Mr. Fricke enjoyed the outing to the utmost and feels very much better over his vacation trip out into the fresh, bracing mountains.

Victims of Accident.
From Saturday's Daily.
A few months ago George, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garrison, suffered an injury to the third finger of his right hand, but it did not appear to be of a serious nature. Recently it became much worse, and the physician concluded that amputation was necessary in order to save the hand, and Saturday morning Mr. Garrison and Dr. Huston took the boy to Plattsmouth, where the operation was performed by Dr. Huston and Dr. T. P. Livingston of Plattsmouth, the entire finger being removed.

Ellis Daniel has been wearing a handsome pair of crutches the past few days on account of a puncture of his right foot by stepping upon a nail. The accident occurred last week and caused him very little trouble at first, but a few days later he found it necessary to have it attended to by a physician. He is the same jovial Mr. Daniel who "roasted" us a few years ago when we broke a leg playing ball, and he takes no offense when we "hand it back" to him and suggest that he get a stock of pencils and shoestrings and sell 'em on his street.—Union Ledger.

SUFFRAGE MEETING LAST EVENING WELL ATTENDED

The Famed Dr. Anna Shaw Spoke to a Full House, Most of Whom Were Women of the City.

From Friday's Daily.
The meeting last evening at the Parmele theatre, held in the interest of the movement in favor of woman suffrage, was attended by a large crowd, most of whom were ladies who were there to hear the message of Dr. Anna H. Shaw, national president of the Woman Suffrage association, who has come from New York to assist the women in their campaign in the western states. The meeting was presided over by Attorney W. A. Robertson, who in a few brief remarks introduced Francis A. Brogan of Omaha, one of the workers in the suffrage cause, who gave a short outline of the suffrage movement and presented a number of arguments in opposition to the statements made by anti-suffrage speakers and pamphlets circulated throughout the state against the cause. Mr. Brogan is a pleasing speaker and presented his views in a very able manner. The chief speaker of the evening, whom everyone desired to hear, was Dr. Shaw, and her remarks well justified the audience whether they were in favor of the suffrage movement or not, as she is a lady of keen intellect and her address covered thoroughly the grounds on which the women are striving for the ballot. The speaker pointed out the achievements of the reforms that were carried out by the women and showed the reasons for their asking for the equal right with the men in voting for the election of the officers that governed the state and country as well as the interests of the women in legislation that would tend to secure other reforms in the state and nation. Dr. Shaw and party departed this morning for Omaha, where they will take part in other meetings in the suffrage interests.

GREAT ATTRACTION AT THE PARMELE THEATRE TUESDAY NIGHT, OCTOBER 27

From Friday's Daily.
"Alma, Where Do You Live?" is the only attraction which ever was played in three languages in one city at one time. While this attraction was being played at Joe Weber's theatre in New York in English, Adolf Phillips was playing it in German and a French company was also playing it in that language. This is a record held by no other attraction and only goes to show the popularity of this fascinating musical comedy surprise. The famous "Alma" waltz, the strains of which run all the way through the piece, has a great deal to do with this popularity, as it is a waltz which when once heard can never be forgotten. In all there are fourteen big song hits of the singing and whistling kind. At the Parmele theatre Tuesday night, October 27.

A Fine Son at Fuller Home.

From Friday's Daily.
This morning the stork made a most happy visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Fuller, bringing with him a fine nine and one-half pound son. The advent of the little stranger was the source of much happiness to the proud parents, and they are willing to wager that he is the finest little man in the whole state of Nebraska. The mother and little one are getting along nicely and the father is just about the proudest man in the whole country, as this is the first child in the family and is therefore the object of a great deal of admiration from both the parents. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller will extend their best wishes for his future welfare and the wish that he may live to be a joy and comfort to his parents in their old age.

S. C. HOBACK APPOINTED POSTMASTER AT NEHAWKA

From Friday's Daily.
The announcement has been made from Washington of the appointment of S. C. Hoback as postmaster at Nehawka, succeeding J. M. Palmer, who has held that position for the last few years in a very acceptable manner. Mr. Hoback is a bright young democrat and a gentleman who will give the good people of Nehawka a splendid administration of the office to which he has been appointed. He is a son of B. F. Hoback, one of the most prominent residents of that precinct, and the friends of the new postmaster will be pleased to learn of the honor that has been bestowed upon him by the president. This is the last appointment in this county to be made, as President Wilson has filled all other positions.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF MRS. ROSA HEIN, WHO DIED IN SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

From Friday's Daily.
The Journal office has just received the following short biography of the late Mrs. John Hein of Seattle, Wash., and a sister of Frank Rauon of this city:
"Mrs. Rose M. Hein died at the home of her daughter at 5427 Forty-fifth avenue, Seattle, Wash., September 23, 1914. She was born at Waldhausen, Germany, in 1857, and came to this country while an infant in 1860 in company with her parents. Most of her lifetime was spent in Plattsmouth, Neb., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rauon, located and where they resided until their death a few years ago. She departed for Tacoma in September, 1909, where she resided for three years until she came to Seattle some three years ago and where she has resided at the home of her daughter. The husband and a daughter as well as two brothers, Frank Rauon of Plattsmouth and R. P. Rauon of San Francisco, California, survive her. She was married to John J. Hein October 15, 1876, at St. John's Catholic church in Plattsmouth, of which church she was a life-long and devout member.

"The death of Mrs. Hein was quite sudden, as she was in apparent good health on the day of her passing away and was out walking in the afternoon, later in the evening retiring to her room, where she talked for a short time with her daughter, and about 10 o'clock was seized with a severe coughing spell which greatly alarmed her family and a doctor was summoned to her bedside about 10:10, but Mrs. Hein was beyond all assistance and passed away at 10:30, peacefully falling asleep with a clear mind as to what was transpiring around her. The cause of her death was diabetes, from which she had suffered for some years past. The interment was made at Mt. Pleasant cemetery, Seattle."

Goes to New York.
From Friday's Daily.
Joe Mik, superintendent of the Burlington station, left Wednesday for New York, where he will meet his daughter, Marie Mikova, who is returning from Paris, where she had been studying music and giving concerts up until the outbreak of the war. Miss Mikova is expected to arrive at New York Saturday.—World-Herald.

MISS OLIVE JONES RETURNS FROM GENEVA, NEBRASKA

From Friday's Daily.
Miss Olive Jones, the efficient librarian of the Plattsmouth public library, has just returned home from Geneva, Neb., where she was in attendance at the twentieth annual meeting of the Nebraska Library association, which met there on October 19-21. Miss Jones reports a most interesting session of the association with an attendance of some forty-seven librarians representing thirty-six libraries as well as twenty members of library boards throughout the state. Among the interesting talks given by the lecturers was one by Miss Charlotte Templeton, secretary of the Nebraska Library commission of the public libraries of Nebraska and which was illustrated with a number of the different libraries and which proved most interesting. On Tuesday the visitors were entertained at luncheon at the state industrial school for girls, where a most delightful time was enjoyed in looking over the workings of the school, which has accomplished such a great good. The visitors were also given an automobile drive over the city and its surroundings that came as a most pleasant feature of the convention, and on Tuesday evening a sumptuous banquet was tendered to the librarians by the board of trustees of the Geneva library that was one of the most successful ever held in that city. The orchestra of the Geneva High school, numbering some twenty pieces, furnished the music for the banquet in splendid shape. The meetings were filled with the greatest interest to everyone in attendance and much good will doubtless be accomplished in the mingling of the librarians who have charge of the work in the different towns of the state.

EDITH MILLER WEDS RATIO TAYLOR, OF HAVELOCK, WHERE THE CEREMONY TOOK PLACE

From Friday's Daily.
Yesterday afternoon in Havelock occurred the marriage of Miss Edith Miller of this city and Mr. Ratio Taylor of Havelock. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a number of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties who had gathered to attend the happy event. The wedding comes as quite a surprise to the friends of the young people in this city, who while they have been awaiting news of the event were not aware that it was to occur so soon. Miss Miller departed yesterday morning for Havelock, where the ceremony was performed. They will continue to make their home in Havelock, where the groom is employed by the Burlington there in the shops. Both of the contracting parties were born and reared in this city, where their friends are legion. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Miller, and is a most charming and accomplished young lady of rare attainments, and the groom is a young man who has made many friends by his splendid traits of character and in his daily walks of life. The best wishes of the friends here will go out to them in their new found happiness.

Visits Here With Friends.
From Friday's Daily.
Yesterday afternoon Fred Carey, one of the members of the editorial staff of the Omaha Daily News, came down from the metropolis to visit here for a few hours with his old friend, Mont Robb, the proprietor of the Hotel Riley. Mr. Carey was formerly engaged in the newspaper business at Nebraska City and where he became acquainted with Mr. Robb. While in the city Mr. Carey called at the Journal establishment in company with the general hotel man and we greatly enjoyed the visit with him.

I have several tracts of from 3 to 15 acres adjoining Plattsmouth, all well improved. For sale on easy terms.

Installs Valuable Machine.

The tailoring and repairing department of Fred P. Bush in this city has just received a most valuable addition in the shape of a new gas pressing machine which will be used in the pressing of the clothes that are sent to his place for repairs. The machine is one of the latest models and cost some $250, which shows that Mr. Bush proposes to give his patrons the best possible service and allows nothing to interfere with securing the most up-to-date methods of looking after his business and the welfare of his customers.

THE SPIRIT OF DISCONTENT RAGED SATURDAY NIGHT

Several Had the Pleasure of Viewing the Inside of the New Jail in Consequence of Much Spirits.

Saturday night seemed filled with the spirit of discontent and desire to war as well as to see how much disturbance could be created on the main street. The first trouble occurred early in the evening, when several parties became involved in a chewing match and desired to settle their wrongs by physical combat, but this got no farther than a verbal battle that was subsided when the police entered where the war was waging and quieted down the warriors. Later in the evening one of the men who had been engaged in the wordy battle got in wrong with the police and was escorted to the jail to repose there until his spirit of rebellion at the authorities had had time to quiet down. The man was warned several times before to behave himself and quiet down from his loud talk and attempts to provoke a fight from someone, but this he did not do, and not taking the advice of the police to go to his home, he retired to some quiet spot and proceeded to taken on some more noise developer with the result that when he came down Main street about 11 o'clock he was seized with a desire to speak publicly on the indignity that had been offered him in requesting him to go to his home and proceeded to announce his contempt of the law and officers that attempted to interfere with his desire to celebrate. The man had only given a short oration when the night force of police swept down on him and dragged him over to the frowning jail where he languished, resting up from his strenuous exertions of the vocal chords.

Shortly after 11 o'clock the residents along lower Main street were aroused by more loud talking and rather blue language, as a number of men came down the street and one of the number was evidently of a very excitable nature, as his loud demands for protection rang for several blocks and the police coming to the scene decided that the protecting walls of the jail would best protect him from "the dangers that he knew not of" and took the gentleman over to the bastille. No sooner had he been lodged in jail that remorse overtook him and he decided that the danger to his person on the street was less to be feared than the confinement in the jail, and loudly demanded that he be released. This was declined by the officers unless an order was received from the police judge or a cash bond of $10 placed up for his appearance in court this morning. This was finally arranged for after much difficulty, and the man allowed to go on his way.

Lincoln Parties Secure License.
From Friday's Daily.
This morning County Judge Beeson was called upon to issue a marriage license to Mr. Henry Wade Swain, aged 44, and Mrs. Eliza J. Overton, aged 42, both of Lincoln. The bride is a former resident of Weeping Water, where the marriage will take place this evening at the home of a sister of the bride, but for sometime past she has been residing in Lincoln. The groom is an employe of the Lincoln street railway company in the capital city, where they will make their home.

THE DEATH RATE ON THE RAILWAYS OF THE COUNTRY

"Safety First" Bureau of the Burlington Furnishes Some Startling Figures by Carelessness.

From Friday's Daily.
The following timely suggestions looking toward the preventing of accidents along railroad tracks and trains has been furnished by the "Safety First" bureau of the Burlington and contains some very startling figures as to the number injured each year along the lines of the railroads throughout the country as well as a few simple means of preventing or lessening the number of accidents:
If you are a mother or father, it is important that you know that 25,000 children in the United States have been killed, crippled and injured during the last twenty years (enough to make a milepost for every mile in a trip round the world) by playing around the tracks and trains of railroads. Every town and village has some child without an arm or leg, or has a little grave in the cemetery, of some child killed while hopping on cars.

If you don't want to lose one of your children, or have them suffer the dreadful affliction of losing an arm or leg, you will keep your children away from the railroad tracks and trains. Grown up people also run a danger from trespassing on the tracks of railroads as the following figures will show. During the last twenty years in the United States, 86,733 trespassers were killed; 94,646 trespassers were injured; 181,879 total trespassers killed and injured on the railroads of this country. Divided as follows: 21,000 young people under 18 years of age, residing in the vicinity of the accident, many of them under 10 years of age; 36,276 tramps and hoboes; 120,105 citizens of the locality in which the accident occurred, mostly wage earners.

More persons are killed while trespassing than are killed in all other ways together on the railroads. It would cost less to stop this carnage by passing and enforcing laws against trespassing than it does to pick up and bury the dead and care for the injured.

Follow these few simple suggestions and you can save yourself a fatal or serious accident:

1. Never walk along the track.
2. If you must cross the track, always STOP, LOOK and LISTEN.
3. Never steal a ride on a freight train in order to get home sooner, for if you do you may arrive home—but on a shutter.
4. Never crawl under a freight car or over the couplings. PLAY SAFE AND WAIT.

SUGGESTIONS OF NOTE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE TO THE VOTERS

The office of Secretary of State Addison Wait in Lincoln has just sent out notices to the different county clerks in regard to the counting of the votes for the congressional amendments that will appear on the ballot this fall. The straight party tickets will all be counted for the amendments that were endorsed by the state conventions of all the parties and includes the one providing for the revising of the methods of taxation as well as the one fixing the term and salary of the governor of the state. The referendum questions of the Fort Kearney armory, the employers' liability law and the equal suffrage amendment will have to be voted for in order to have the count made for them and in these cases all votes cast that are neither for or against these questions will be counted as against them as they must have a majority of the votes cast in order to win. These facts will be a great aid to the judges and clerks of election in determining the way to count the votes on the night of the election.
