New School House Nearly Finished.

Murray's new school house is almost completed, and it is the present plan to open school in the new rooms next Monday morning. The new school building is certainly a valuable addition to Murray, and will be pointed to with great pride by all her people. It will be a joy for the young folks and a pleasure to the older ones. The building committee which was composed of the three directors—W. G. Boedeker, Dr. G. H. Gilmore and C. D. Spangler—with the addition of O. A. Davis and John Edmunds, certainly deserve a great deal of credit for the manner in which the erection of the new building has been looked after. There is no doubt that the taxpayers have saved money by their close attention to the work, and in the selection of the contractor. The building complete with heating plant will cost in the neighborhood of $5,500, and is certainly cheap for structure and the workmanship received. There will be ample room to accommodate the schools for future years, as there are five large rooms, well ventilated, and excellent light, three of which will be used at the present, with two in reserve for increased enrollment.

The ladies of the vicinity are arranging for a dedication service and dinner on next Friday, November 13. An excellent program is being prepared and a dinner will be served by them, the proceeds of which will go to a fund for the purchasing of school equipment. At 10:30 a. m. Miss Lathrop will deliver an address, which will be followed by others. There are sports of various kinds, including a ball game on the program for the young people. It will be a gala day for Murray and Murray people, and everybody in this locality should be in attendance. Come, and bring your families and stay all day.

REPAID THE FAVOR.

Grant Did Not Forget the Man Who Did Him a Good Turn.

"General Grant's most pronounced characteristic, perhaps, was his regard for the friends who had stood by him in his early days," said Colonel S. A. Holmes of St. Louis. "While Grant was doing the best he could after he had quit the army and was down and out he wanted to get the job of county surveyor of St. Louis county. This job was in the keeping of the three county judges, and Grant could get only one of them to vote for him, so he didn't get the place.

"After the war, when Grant was serving his first term as president, a delegation of Missourians visited the White House to urge the appointment of a St. Louis man for collector of internal revenue, the most lucrative position in the state. Grant listened to the arguments and looked over the petition presented. Then he scratched his head and remarked:

"Isn't there an old fellow out there of the name of Long, who used to be a judge of the county court?"

"Nobody in the delegation could recall Long, but Grant told them to go back and find out. Some time later he was told that Judge Long was still living in the county, but was not conspicuous.

"Get up a petition for him," advised the president, "and I will appoint him internal revenue collector."

"The friends of Long lost no time in presenting the requested petition, and the old judge was appointed.

"Grant had never forgotten the favor done him when he was less prosperous,"—Washington Post.

FOUR GREAT HEROES.

Their Fall From the Giddy Heights of Ambition and Power.

History records that Alexander the Great, who was the pupil of Aristotle at fourteen, and who reigned over the Macedonians at sixteen while his father was absent, and who succeeded Philip when he was nineteen, after climbing the heights of his ambition, fell from his lofty eminence. Alexander, with his temples bound in chaplets dipped in the blood of countless nations, locked down upon a conquering world and wept that there was no another one for him to conquer, then set a city on fire and died amid scenes of debauch.

Hannibal, one of the greatest soldiers who ever lived, after having passed the Alps to the amazement of Rome, and having successfully fought and conquered the armies of the mistress of the world, stripping three bushels of gold rings from the fingers of her slaughtered warriors, fled from his country. He died by poison administered by his own hand, unlamented, in a foreign land.

Cæsar, considered as a general, a statesman and a ruler, had few equals and probably no superiors. After conquering 800 cities and dyeing his hands in the blood of millions of his enemies, after having pursued to death the only rival he had, was assassinated by those whom he considered to be his best friends.

Bonaparte, the greatest general of modern times, after having filled the earth with the terror of his name deluged it with tears and blood and clothed the world, as it were, in sack cloth, ended his days in banishment upon a lonely island in the South Atlantic.

MOSLEMS NOT WITH TURKEY

Aga Kahn Says Sultan Has Lost Job as Trustee For Islam.

London, Nov. 5.—Aga Khan, who is known as the spiritual head of the Mohammedans in India, east Africa and central Asia, has sent a cablegram from London, addressed to the Moslems in India and other British dominions, in which he expresses his deep sorrow that Turkey has joined hands with Germany in the war.

In this message Aga Khan says: "This is not the free will of the sultan, but the will of the German officers and other non-Moslems, who have forced him to do their bidding."

He declares further that Turkey has now lost its position as the trustee of Islam. It has drawn its sword in an unholy cause and the duty of the Moslem today is to remain loyal and faithful to their temporal and secular allegiance.

CANADIANS ARE SCARED

Presence of Five German Warships in Pacific Dominion.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 5.—The presence of five German warships in the Pacific off the coast of Chile, and the probability that two more, the Dresden and Emden, are on their way to join them, created considerable apprehension here for the safety of Canadian cities on the Pacific coast. To meet the situation the naval authorities at Ottawa were in conference all forenoon. Measures of some sort, it is said, will likely be taken.

The fact that the German warships had been gathered into one fleet was taken here as a clear indication that Germany had perfected arrangements for coaling the fleet, and it was felt that little could be done to round up this fleet until British and Japanese warships now at Tsingtau are relieved.

It is feared that the German fleet may steam north and under threat of long distance bombardment attempt to levy tribute on the city of Victoria. The only danger to which the fleet would be subject in carrying out such an enterprise, it is pointed out, would be an attack from the two submarines which Canada brought from Chile at the opening of the war and which are stationed in the waters about Vancouver island.

Pipefish.

The pipefish take care of their young in a manner that is entirely peculiar. The newly laid eggs are taken care of by the male, which has a sort of fold on each side of its body. Beneath the "flaps" he keeps the eggs until the young are hatched and sufficiently grown to take care of themselves. While in the "flap" they are fed by the mother, upon whom falls the duty of foraging around for food.

No Postmortem Touch.

"Loan me $5 until Thursday, old man. If I live till then I'll surely pay you."

"All right. But if you succumb don't send anybody around to touch me for the funeral expenses."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.
