

MORE NEWSPAPER REPORTS ON "SEPTEMBER MORN"

A Very Classic Show, Whose Members Are All Actors and Musicians of the First Class.

From Tuesday's Daily.

Read what the Columbus (Ind.) Daily Republican has to say in reference to this popular musical comedy:

"To tell the story in the first paragraph, as all newspaper workers are instructed to do, 'September Morn,' which came to Crump's theater for a single performance Thursday night, is a good show. More than that it is an unusually good show. If there was anything poor in it, this material must have been eliminated quite awhile ago. As it was the big audience kept the company going until 11 o'clock and if the singers and dancers had been willing to respond as long as the applause continued it is probable the performance would still be going on.

"September Morn," as presented by Rowland & Clifford, is a musical melange with a very slight plot. To be sure there is a major who marries a widow. She has a son and does not tell him about it. He has a daughter and does not tell her about it. This furnishes the complication end of the piece. Then there is a tango dancer who would seem to be a living answer to the question of why boys leave the farm, and there are some others. But the plot could be eliminated and the music fun still would be there. That is what caught the audience anyway.

"The chief fun-maker is Leo Greenwood, a gentleman of Hebrew ancestry, who takes the part of 'Rudolph Plastic.' He is funny in such a natural manner that one almost forgets he is getting paid for being a laugh producer. His 'straight' work, his singing and his witticisms all go to place him in a class by himself.

"Furnishing the sparkle and the spice for 'September Morn,' is Miss Ollie Carew, who essays the role of 'Argentina.' She is a tango dancer on the bill and incidentally it might be said that she is a tango dancer in real life. Her dancing as well as everything else she does in this production, are up to a high standard and won her favor here.

"But the cutest little girl; the daintiest little girl and likewise the sweetest little girl in the play is Miss Georgia Ellen, who plays the part of 'Louise Storm.' In addition to being easy to look at, charming in her naive simplicity and an actress of ability, she possesses that elusive attribute called charm and her stock of that is considerably above par.

"John Patton, who has an unusually good voice; Curt Vance, who both sings and dances well; James Coghlin, who is eccentric while seeming to be natural about it; Mrs. Barbara Douglas, who does a small part in a rather large way, and Fred DeBois, who poses as an irate father and a none too diplomatic lover, all deserve special mention.

"As for the chorus, there were many of them and all knew how to sing and dance. Not in a blue moon—perhaps not in a couple of blue moons—have such gorgeous costumes been seen here as were worn in 'September Morn.' The scenic effects were lavish, pleasing and to some extent startling. The music is tuneful and lingers in one's memory.

"Just because 'September Morn' takes its name from a picture of a girl who went in wading without a bathing suit and then consented to stand there while somebody painted her picture, is no reason to draw the blinds and sit with year hands folded while the show is in town. You've all seen the picture in somebody's show window and thought nothing of it. You won't see anything worse in 'September Morn.' And the music, the fun, the costumes, the effects, in fact the whole thing mixed together and thoroughly done, makes a theatrical meal that certainly is satisfying.

"Just a word or two more. This show has no musical director. Instead it has a musical directress. She is May Valentine and while she is young enough in years, she is a veteran in the orchestra pit. She is a veteran because two or three weeks ago directing musical comedy are enough to bring grey hairs to a pink wig. But she retains her enthusiasm and that counts for a whole lot. However, she has more than enthusiasm. She has a great amount of musical ability and while people usually overlook the hand that wields the baton, it is not easy to overlook the splendid work Miss Valentine does."

Remember, this company, which is universally commended by the press and public throughout the country, will be at the Parmele theater, Wednesday night, January 13th.

THE DEATH OF JUDGE BARNES AN OLD CITIZEN OF WEEPING WATER

From Tuesday's Daily.

The death of Judge Barnes in Weeping Water last night deprived the residents of that place of a justice of the peace and this morning a petition was circulated there for the appointment by the county commissioners of R. G. Glover of that place to the office made vacant by death. There are a number of cases set for hearing and it is necessary to have the vacancy filled at this session of the county board. Mr. Glover has lived in Weeping Water for a number of years coming there from Springfield, Neb., and is a gentleman well qualified for the office. The commissioners will take action on the petition as soon as it arrives here.

A FALLING OFF IN THE NATURALIZATION DEPARTMENT IN GASS COUNTY

From Tuesday's Daily.

During the year just closed in the naturalization department of the office of the district clerk there were eleven petitions for citizenship filed in that office and ten declarations of intentions filed there. This shows a falling off from last year, when the applications for citizenship were much more numerous, but most of the citizens here of foreign birth have already entered the fold of the American citizens and are now fully entitled to their rights as such. The law in regard to the securing of naturalization papers is much more strict than formerly and it requires a much longer time before the papers will be issued to the applicants.

M. FANGER BUYS THE DAMAGED EGGENBERGER STOCK

And Proposes to Dispose of It at Prices That Will Surprise the Natives.

From Wednesday's Daily.

The stock of goods that was in the L. B. Egenberger store building at the time of the fire here Christmas day has just been purchased by M. Fanger and he is preparing to offer it to the public at prices that will open the eyes of the purchasing public. The greater part of the stock is in good shape, as it suffered little from fire, most of the damage being done by the water, and a great deal of it was uninjured, and Mr. Fanger decided that he would afford the people of Plattsmouth a fine chance to secure some bargains in this line. The stock was first purchased by the firm of Palmer, Wheelock & Co., of Beatrice, but Mr. Fanger, not desiring to let the stock leave this city, repurchased it from this firm and will have it removed to one of the rooms in the department store which is being prepared to receive it.

The stock in the department store will be consolidated in one room for the time being and the Egenberger stock placed in the west store room, where in a few days the slashing of prices will be commenced and not end until everyone has had an opportunity to take advantage of it and secure such supplies as they need, and some very exceptional bargains will be offered that cannot be passed up by the wise purchaser. If the goods are not disposed of here it is the intention of Mr. Fanger to remove them to Omaha, where they will be offered for sale in his store building, which is being repaired and fixed up. There is no doubt but that many fine bargains can be secured by the shrewd shoppers from the Egenberger stock, and Mr. Fanger, with his usual policy, will see that every price advertised will be made good on the articles offered for sale.

The advertising of the prices will be made as soon as possible and the work of pushing the sale commenced, and on this occasion there will be no regard shown as to prices, as every article will be sacrificed at figures that will seem almost too cheap to be true, and the sale will be one that will establish a record for low prices in this city and which has never been approached before by any company or store in the history of the town. A further notice of the sale will appear in this paper later, and its appearance will be eagerly awaited by the wise shoppers.

FUNERAL OF MR. W. R. GARDNER, A FORMER RESIDENT OF PLATTSMOUTH

From Tuesday's Daily.

This morning the body of W. R. Gardner, a former resident of this city, was brought in from Minden, Iowa, where he passed away at his home there on Saturday last from an attack of heart trouble. The widow arrived here last evening on No. 14 to look after the arrangements for the funeral, which was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Hill undertaking rooms, the services being in charge of Rev. F. M. Drulliner of the First Methodist church. Mr. Gardner and wife left this city something like a year ago and have since that time made their home in Iowa, and their friends here were very much shocked to learn of Mr. Gardner's untimely death, as no one here was aware that he was ill, he being stricken suddenly with the dread malady that ended his life. He was 65 years of age at the time of his death. The interment was made in the Oak Hill cemetery, west of this city, in the family burial lot. Besides the widow, one son is left to mourn his passing away.

LADIES OF ST. MARY'S GUILD PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED YESTERDAY

From Wednesday's Daily.

Yesterday afternoon the ladies of the St. Mary's Guild were entertained in a very pleasant manner at the handsome Gering home on North Sixth street by their president, Miss Barbara Gerin, and the occasion was one filled with much pleasure for every member of the society. The ladies had come with their sewing and spent several hours in the plying of the busy needle and in social conversation, which served to pass the time most pleasantly. During the afternoon the company were entertained very pleasantly with music on the Victrola, which proved a most pleasant feature of the occasion. At a suitable hour a very delicious and tempting luncheon was served by the hostess which added greatly to the enjoyment of the afternoon. The ladies have closed a most profitable year and feel well pleased with their hard work for the good of the church that has been so successful.

VERY IMPORTANT SUIT WAS FILED YESTERDAY IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Yesterday a suit was filed in the district court by Benjamin B. Bryan, John G. Lonsdale, Stuart Logan, Howard H. Logan and Frank S. Hallinger, a co-partnership operating under the name of Logan & Bryan, on the Chicago stock exchange vs. William F. Gillespie. The plaintiffs allege in their petition that they were engaged in business on the stock exchange on July 14, 1914, and sold for the defendant some 5,000 bushels of wheat for December delivery at 79 1/2 cents, and that the price later rose and they advanced money to protect the investment, which, with the commission, amounts to the sum of $795, for which they ask judgment. They further allege that on July 16 they sold for the defendant 1,000 bushels of wheat at 80 3/4 cents a bushel, and to protect this was compelled to advance the sum of $150, which included their commission. On July 17 they sold 1,000 bushels of wheat at 82 1/2 cents, which later required them to protect in the sum of $136.25, and these sums which they allege to be due have had paid on them the sum of $452.55, and they ask that judgment for the rest of the amount, some $771.20, be given them against the defendant. Matthew Gering appears as attorney for the plaintiff.

SANITARY CONDITIONS IN THIS CITY HAVE RESULTED IN A GREAT DEAL OF GOOD

One of the things that the residents of this city can feel truly thankful for in the past few years is the decreasing number of cases of contagious diseases that in the past have prevailed over the city and whenever a few cases were reported they soon spread into an epidemic which generally resulted in several deaths before it was over. It seems that the conditions here have become more healthful as there are now very few cases of diseases reported save an occasional case of some childish malady, where formerly there were hundreds reported to the health authorities. The public, however, have gradually become more used to taking safeguards against these diseases and while scattering cases may appear they are mild and generally easy to handle. Modern medical treatment and the constant campaign for the best possible sanitary conditions has cut down the contagious disease to the very lowest figure possible and as the years go on science will carry out yet greater triumphs over these maladies that have all been such a menace to human life.

THE RETIREMENT OF A MOST EFFICIENT OFFICIAL

The Ladies in the Various Offices Tender Miss Foster a Surprise in the Way of a Farewell Banquet.

Yesterday afternoon a most pleasant surprise was given Miss Mary E. Foster, the retiring county superintendent of schools, at the court house, by the young ladies employed in the different offices there. The affair was planned several days ago by the ladies, and it required great skill in preparing the event so that the guest of honor would not get wind of it. The ladies' rest room was transformed into a bower of beauty for the occasion, a large table being spread in there which was decorated very handsomely with candles and a tempting two-course luncheon spread thereon.

The surprisers had been kept worried all day that their "victim" would leave the building before the surprise was sprung, and Miss Marie Kaufmann was assigned the task of seeing that she was kept in the office until the witching hour, when she was called out into the hall and lured into the room, in which the ladies had prepared their dainty luncheon in farewell of their friend and co-worker. Miss Foster was greatly touched by the feeling of friendship of her friends and expressed her appreciation of the dainty treat prepared for her and trusted that their good feeling might continue through other years.

The ladies spent some time most agreeably in visiting with their friend and much enjoyment was had by all gathered around the festal board, although the occasion was tinged with sadness over the departure of the estimable lady who has filled the office of superintendent so acceptably for the past seven years.

Those who participated in the surprise were: Misses Mia Gering, Jessie Robertson, Marie Kaufmann, Alice Tuey, Florence White, Gertrude Beeson, Miss Eda Marquardt, superintendent-elect, and the guest of honor, Miss Foster.

M. E. CHURCH SENIOR LADIES BIBLE CLASS ENTERTAINED BY MRS. KAFFENBERGER

From Tuesday's Daily.

The Methodist ladies' Bible class of the Methodist church met with their president, Mrs. George A. Kaffenberger, at her home on High School Hill yesterday to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. This class meets with each member on their birthday, and they always look forward to such gatherings with much pleasure, and the only thing that mars the day is that some member is unable to attend. It was a great pleasure to the members to have the past of the church, Rev. F. M. Drulliner, with them, even though for only a short time, as his reading and prayers lead the members of the class on and encourages them in the work of the society. The regular business of the session being finished the members were invited into the dining room and treated to a very delicious luncheon. After wishing the hostess many more happy birthdays they all departed homeward.

A Good Advice.

We received a letter from Mr. Andrew Skripec, which we consider well worth publishing, because it contains a good advice to every family. It says the following: "I have many times used Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine and it always had a good effect in stomach troubles. Everybody should use it when the stomach is out of order. Andrew Skripec, Ligonier, Pa." We cannot give a better advice. This remedy will not tolerate any waste matter in the body, but cleans out the intestines and makes them to work. In poor appetite, cruetations, vomiting, constipation, pains in the bowels, it will usually give a quick relief, as also in many diseases of the stomach. Price, $1.00. In drug stores. Jos. Triner, Manufacturer, 1333-1339 S. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Weak muscles, overworked, will find the best help in Triner's Liniment, which will strengthen and refresh them. Good in neuralgia and muscular rheumatism. Price, 50c or 25c, by mail, 60c or 35c.
