IN PLATTSMOUTH FORTY YEARS AGO.

Two sensible men have appeared at the office of the county treasurer this year, who did not grumble about their taxes, so says Cummins. They were Wm. Lloyd and Andy Taylor; who both said their taxes were about right, and they paid 'em without a grumble.

The oldest landmark of civilization in Nebraska has been overwhelmed by the unprecedented flood in the Missouri valley. We refer to the building between the track of the B. & M. R. and the river, not far from Bellevue, which was used for years as a trading post by Peter A. Sarpy, and was the first frame put up on Nebraska soil. It is now making its way toward the Gulf of Mexico, riding the tumbled waters of the Big Muddy.

Frank Carruth, the well known P. O. jeweler, has moved over in the handsome new office adjoining Wm. Stadelmann's clothing store, and there, as snug as a bug in a rug, sits Frank and his new man, and the sound of their little files and tiny hammers can be heard from early morn to dewy eve. Such is life.

Married—Ballance-Buttery, on the 9th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, by the Rev. Mr. Burgess, of St. Luke's, Mr. George Ballance to Miss Elizabeth Buttery, both of Plattsmouth, Neb. After the marriage and we had all kissed the bride and the Herald had kissed the groom, and the old folks had all looked wistful because they couldn't do it all over again themselves, and the young folks had all looked sheepish because they wanted to and couldn't, Mrs. Buttery threw open the dining room doors and there was the fattest table, the biggest turkey, and the most good things we ever saw. Mr. Burgess asked a blessing and we mentally added, "may the Buttery family have a wedding every week, if this is the way they get it up." Major Wheeler presided over the carving knife, and Mr. Puttery, blushing like a rose, threw in the vegetables and other good things. My stars! what an appetite it gives a fellow to get married; that table was a wreck before—before we could eat half as much as we ought, and then we had some toasts and good wishes and desert. The happy pair, and we know they were happy for they looked it all over, left us on the afternoon train for Michigan.

On Wednesday evening a temperance meeting was held in the Presbyterian church; after the opening exercises by the Rev. J. T. Baird, Mr. Hayes was called to the chair, and called on the Rev. C. McKevey, who made a few pointed remarks, after which Mrs. Newman of Lincoln read a very eloquent essay. The ladies present then organized a local branch of the Woman's National Christian Temperance Union, and elected the following ladies as officers: Mrs. Prof. Wise, president; Mrs. Pollock, vice president; Mrs. Geo. Smith, vice president; Mrs. B. Spurlock, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. MacMurphy, recording secretary; Mrs. Phillippi, treasurer. Miss Donnelly and Mrs. Newell were appointed a committee to visit the ladies at their homes to solicit their membership. A meeting will be held at the Presbyterian church on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SENATE PUTS LID ON EXPENDITURES

Upper Chamber Starts With Reduced List of Workers.

BILLS MAY GO IN FREELY.

Stock Yards Fight Up in the House. Regan Asks Permission to Withdraw Resolution and Substitute Bill For Investigation.

Lincoln, Jan. 14.—The senate now has forty-one employees upon its payroll. Seven had been appointed before to attend to the preliminaries, and after a long controversy, during which the committee on employees submitted a report which the senators amended and added to, thirty-four more workers were put on the list.

Two years ago the list of employees numbered seventy-eight.

The senate stood pat on the right of any member to introduce any bill he saw fit, virtually turning down the resolution of Senator Beal of Custer for a committee for the elimination of all duplicate bills.

Senator Bushee's motion, which was in the nature of an alternative, carried. It provided that the senate secretary upon first reading of any bill that he should find to be a duplicate of another previous bill, should notify the member introducing the bill to this effect, giving him the number of the first bill.

House Adopts Rules of Last Session.

Rules to be used by the house are the same as last year, except where the legislative reform report has been adopted. Richmond of Douglas was called to the chair by Speaker Jackson while the latter made his report as chairman of the rules committee.

The first copies of the new journal proceedings, which are to be furnished the members each day, were found on the desk. The proceedings covered five days.

The first move was made by the house in the contest cases, on motion of Fuller of Seward, the secretary of state being instructed to deliver to the house the ballots and other information in the Kelley-Fultz contest from Furnas county. No action has yet been taken in the Queenan-Drusdow contest from Douglas county, the papers being in the hands of the secretary of state for action if a call comes.

After sleeping over night on their resolution to have the South Omaha Live Stock exchange investigated, Representatives Regan of Platte and Anderson of Boyd concluded that a resolution would not fit the conditions and asked permission to withdraw it. They had concluded a bill introduced in the regular way will force the South Omaha people to come down here and fight it and thus the facts will be gotten at in a much better way.

Snyder of Adams was against an investigation because he had helped conduct an investigation two years ago and after it all nothing had been done.

Reischick of Richardson said he had a tip from the railway commission that they would announce its findings in a complaint brought along the same lines by J. W. Shorthill of the Farmers' Live Stock and Grain association. On motion of Mockett of Lancaster the matter was laid over one day.

The chiropractic bill was introduced in the senate. It provides for a board of examiners, who are to be appointed by the governor.

Home For Dependent Children.

In her biennial report filed with the governor, Ella Caton, agent in charge of the state home for dependent children, strongly urges a return to the former plan of caring for the state's wards in an institution instead of placing them out in private boarding houses. For the purpose of building such an institution, Miss Caton asks an appropriation of $40,000.

Governor Talks to Farmers' Union.

The Farmers' union, which is holding its state meeting in the city Auditorium, was addressed by Governor Morehead, after which it went into executive session. It is understood that the warehouse bills, of which several will be introduced in the legislature, will be closely watched by members of the union.

Dodson Heads Health Secretaries.

Dr. P. F. Dodson was elected president of the board of secretaries of the state board of health, following the custom of the board in giving the position to its oldest member. Dr. Dodson's term expires next July. The retiring president, Dr. E. Arthur Carr of Lincoln, was recently reappointed to the board.

Goehner Hearing Held by Hall.

Railway Commissioner Hall went to Seward for the purpose of hearing the application of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company for permission to abandon its exchange at Goehner, proposing to substitute service over lines connected with other exchanges.

Praises Parole Board.

The State Prison association, which met here, gave a full indorsement to the work of the parole law and the work of the state board of pardons. The board is commended very highly for the work it has done and an indorsement of the law given.

SPRINGTIME.

It was springtime when he met her; She was standing by the gate, For she looked so young and handsome, And he softly whispered, "Kate."

Her eyes so soft and tender Looked as if to read him through, Then she turned and walked back slowly, Scarcely knowing what to do.

"Come," he said, "don't go back, Katie, For I've been looking everywhere; Now I've found you, you can't leave me, For I'll follow everywhere."

She came slowly walking toward him; Then he opened wide the gate. He was a merry farmer boy And a Jersey cow was Kate.

Thoroughness.

Thoroughness is the foundation of success. Whatever we undertake should be done in a thorough manner. This is especially true in matters pertaining to our health. If your indisposition comes from your stomach or is a complication of constipation, you should select Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine. Sometimes a few doses suffice, while at other times a longer course is indicated. You should also use this remedy in loss of appetite, colic and cramps, distress after eating, weakness. Price $1.00.
