

IN PLATTSMOUTH FORTY YEARS AGO.

The hail storm was very severe in the county several miles west of here, through the farms of Joe Gilmour, Mr. Craig, Mr. Holmus, and so on through the Mt. Pleasant district, and down into Otoe it did great damage.

Parmele & Johnson brought in a carload of fine horses on Tuesday, and propose taking them through on foot to Ashland; the B. & M. not giving them rates cheap enough to warrant their carrying the horses farther. Some of the horses were fine carriage animals.

Married—On the 27th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, in Plattsouth, by Rev. Chas. McKelvey, assisted by Rev. A. Wright, Mr. F. E. White and Miss Lottie Vallery, all of Plattsouth. This event has been casting its shadow before for some time in our little burg, and not often are two people united in the holy bonds of wedlock who carry with them more of the good wishes of the people of than do this couple. "Frank," as he is generally known, is one of our most enterprising and industrious young business men; and Miss Lottie is the daughter of one of Plattsouth's oldest settlers and staunchest citizens. The relatives of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends comprised the guests. The ceremony took place about 11 o'clock. The bride's dress was drab gros grain made with trained skirt and basque, the trimmings of tulle, arranged in sash ends and loopings at the back. After the ceremony and attendant congratulations, during which the bride and groom comported themselves with becoming dignity, a dinner was served of the most bountiful kind. Among the wedding presents were a handsome castor, a butter cooler, two very handsome napkin rings, inscribed with "Frank" and "Lottie," and the groom's present to the bride, a very handsome watch and chain. They left on the afternoon train for a short bridal trip, the good wishes of their many friends following them.

Dr. Dio Lewis, the great temperance reformer, has been visiting relatives in Plattsouth the past week, and at the earnest solicitation of the members of the Woman's Temperance association he consented to aid them in their work by addressing the people of Plattsouth on the subject of "Temperance," on Sunday evening. Although suffering quite severely from hay fever, on account of which he had refused hitherto to speak, he waived his objection in favor of Plattsouth. Sunday evening being stormy prevented so large an assemblage as would otherwise have done, but still there was a very fair turnout the Methodist church being comfortably filled. For lack of space we shall attempt no review of the lecture. We were very much pleased with it, however, and particularly with the moderation evinced throughout. Dr. Lewis, who it will be remembered was the leader of the recent crusade, stated that the crusade was a failure wherever it was not carried on in Christian love; that when conducted aggressively and persistently for many hours each day it was contrary to the original intention and worked far more harm than good. He also sketched a plan of quiet and effective work by means of committees of two composed either of men or women, which possessed many points of merit. Throughout all he continually enforced the mandate, "whatever you do, do it in a spirit of love, do not allow anger or impatience to possess you, for then all your power is gone." In the name of the people of Plattsouth, we thank Dr. Lewis for the "friendly talk" which so entertained and instructed us all, and hope that on his return from California in the spring he will not pass us by.

Judge Newell comes out and helps us again. May the fates be kind to the judge.

George L. Seybolt has returned from Idaho, and goes east soon to try his fortune.

William Agnews' train brought in the first carload of new wheat from near Beatrice last week.

Alonzo Cunningham has a—well we won't undertake to say whether it is a boy or girl until we receive further information.

Mr. Rasmussen of Omaha was down here last week and made it lively for Ben Hempel and the boys. That's what's the matter with Hannah.

The family of our genial county clerk has been increased by the addition of a daughter and they are undoubtedly happy some Mo(o)re.

A tramp called at the residence of our barber, Boone, and demanded breakfast and money. Mrs. B. presented a revolver and persuaded him to decamp.

The High school business for the next year is finally arranged, apparently satisfactorily. At one time the board decided to take the scholars from the High school building and return them to the wards. This came so near abolishing the graded system that the mayor thought it not safe to try. As it now stands there will be six months' school in the High school building, with Miss Johnson in charge of the grammar class, and the other grades to be left as they were essentially with most of the old teachers. Here is the law bearing on these points: It establishes the school board as a corporate body and vests all the authority in them—"In all cities wherein graded and High schools have been or may hereafter be established."

We established a graded and High school here under this law, that is certain. By this law our school system can only be revoked under certain conditions, as follows:

"That any city of the second class may suspend the operation of this law, by a majority vote of said city in favor of suspension, and the city authorities are empowered to submit such question of suspension at any municipal election of said town, when a petition signed by a majority of the citizens of said town shall be presented asking the same."

In Southern Division.

From Wednesday's Daily.

Yesterday the telephone system of this county was transferred from the Lincoln to the Beatrice division and will be under the supervision of the officials of the southern division, with headquarters at Beatrice. That means that in the future the large gang of men that have been working in this county will be transferred to the Lincoln division and all supplies will be drawn from Beatrice and all reports will be made to Beatrice, while the cable men will come from Plattsouth, which is in the same division. New officers are in charge of this division. The company will continue to shift things about until we find another move on hand to land another system in this city and county.—Nebraska City News.
