THE RESIDENCE OF THE PARTY OF T

TERRIBLE AUTO-MOBILE ACCIDENT AT LOUISVILLE

Mrs. E. F. Steinhaus Probably Fatally Injured and Her Little 1-Year-Old Babe Instantly Killed.

A tragedy that threw the entire ity into a feeling of the deepest gloom occurred Saturday afternoon at Louisville and caused the death of the 1-year-old babe of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Steinhaus.

It seems that Mrs. Steinhaus was standing in the door of the automobile garage at her home, where her husband has quite an extensive business in the way of looking after and repairing machines, and the little babe was in a small perambulator beside her when the accident occurred that cost the life of the little one and the injury of the mother. William Lau a prominent farmer of that section had stored his car in the garage and was just preparing to start out and was cranking the machine, the engine of which was in reverse gear, and as oon as the crank was turned the mathine shot backward through the door of the garage and knocked Mrs. Steinhaus down and the heavy wheels pass ed over her chest, crushing her in bad shape and inflicting very serious nternal injuries from which it is not thought she will recover. The perambulator in which the child was sitting was demolished by the car as i struck it and the little babe thrown to the walk with its little neck broken as the result of the force of the machine. The runaway car then backed on across the street, where it was stopped when it crashed into a group of trees and was gotten under control the wounded lady and the lifeless form of the little babe were borne to the house, where medical assistance was summoned for the mother. The blow was almost paralyzing to the friends of the family with its sudden shock and their grief/was most profound and in their affliction the parents will have the sympathy of all.

Mrs. Steinhaus is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Haynie, residing near this city, and the accident came as a severe blow to them. As soon as word was received they hastened to Louisville to be at the bedside of their daughter and assist as far as possible in the battle for her recovery. It is certainly to be hoped that she may be able to come forth from the ordeal safely, although her condition is most

Mrs. Steinhaus when struck by the automobile was hurled several feet in advance of the machine and the car backed over her helpless form, and it seems a miracle that she was not killed, but the most serious injury sustained seemed to be her right hand, which was badly lacerated and torn, as she was holding the buggy of the IN THE SUM OF $111.60 babe which was demolished by the auto, with this hand. Mrs. Steinhaus, it seems, had gone to the garage to Still Undergoing Treatment.

Ben Horning, who has for the past everal months been suffering greatly from a growth on the side of his face, and who was operated on there several weeks ago, was in Omaha today for a short time, having treatment for his affliction. The case is a very vere one and Mr. Horning has sufered greatly from it, but his friends are hopeful that he may receive the much-looked-for relief.

OMAHA INDIANS AGAIN DEFEATED BY THE RED SOX

Wet Ground Interfered to Some Extent, but Red Sox Were Victorious by a Score of 5 to 4.

Despite the downpour of rain yesterday at frequent intervals there was quite a number present at the base ball park at the time the quarrel between the Omaha Indians and the Red Sox was started at 4:30, after several hours' delay, due to the dampness. The grounds were certainly very meddy and the game dragged through two hours and a half and it looked as MISS GLADYS SULLIthough it would be necessary to take an adjournment for lunch in order to finish up the game, but in the twilight the players and fans rushed home to a belated supper about 7:15.

The game was decidedly ragged throughout, and the Red Sox, by securing an early lead in the second inning were able to cop the contest by a score of 5 to 4, as the visitors operated in a little better form in the last stages of the prolonged battle.
