

If you are irregular in physique or if you've got a hankering for details you can't satisfy in ready made garments, we want you to see our Ed. V. Price & Co.'s woolsens. Here you can see over 500 sample swatches of fabrics from which these Chicago tailors make garments for your individual requirements, according to the measurements and descriptions that we send them.

Twelve seasons ago when we first sold this line we sent in six measurements the first six months, this Spring our orders will reach almost ten times that many. This splendid increase in our tailoring department is a natural growth, coming from the satisfaction of customers in by-gone seasons.

We have men on our books now for whom we have made the 5th Ed. V. Price & Co. suit, and several customers for whom we have made the 3rd and 4th. Not a few citizens who formerly had their clothes made in Omaha are now on our regular list—more satisfied with their clothes and about $5 to $7.50 better off on every suit bought than before.

Come in any day and we'll show you patterns and made up garments showing quality of workmanship. Prices range from $20 to $45—strong showing at $30.

THE RED SOX ADD ANOTHER SCALP TO THEIR BELT

The Ramblers of Omaha Failed to Ramble Fast Enough to Defeat the Red Sox.

The Ramblers, leaders of the National Amateur Base Ball League of Omaha, came valiantly down yesterday to our little city, flushed with their successes over the teams of the metropolis and confident of again adding a scalp to that record, but in this they were sadly disappointed, as the Johnson tribe of Red Sox tore large and gresome holes in the reputation of the Ramblers, and the descendants of the Vikings were sent home humiliated by the score of 9 to 5. The members of the Hose were busy in the opening innings in putting the game on ice, which was well, as the Ramblers developed a batting streak in the closing innings.

In the opening inning the Sox were able to grab two runs. Beal, the head of the batting list, developed a fine batting eye and placed a Texas leaguer over the infield in the left garden; Parriott was out on a fly to third, but on a wild heave to fire base Beal romped down to the second sack; C. Smith placed a safe one to left, which advanced Beal to third; Herold was out on a foul to third, and then the slaughter was commenced by Greko, who poked the sphere to left field and score both Beal and Smith, but died at second, as Mason was out, McAndrews to Norgard.

The visitors gave signs of scoring in the third as the result of several errors. Roncka, the slab artist of the Ramblers, placed a fly to center which Beal dropped, and this was repeated with Kemmey, giving the visitors two on the sacks; McAndrews failed in a pinch and was whiffed by Greko, but Hanson proceeded to make things look blue for a few seconds, but Beal, handling the fly in lightning-like manner, threw in to Herold, who nailed Roncka at the plate, shutting the side out.

The Sox, spurred on by the signs of life in the visitors, got busy in their half of the third and gathered in four soft runs, as well as fattening their batting average at the expense of Roncka. Parriott, the first man up in this inning, retired through the strikeout route; C. Smith placed an infield hit to third that was not handled in time, and Herold was able to send one through Swanson at short; Greko was out, third to first, but advanced the runners one station; Mason was walked to the first station, filling the bases, and when Craig rapped the pill along the third base line, two runs were scored, and then Parker was successful in placing one in the center garden for two bays, scoring two more. L. Smith hit safe over short, but Parker ended the agony when caught at the home plate.

There was more doings in the seventh for the Sox, which finished their scoring for the game and netted three runs. Parriott rapped one to short and was safe on the juggle of the ball by Swanson; C. Smith opened things up with a bunt that was not handled by the first sacker and Parriott advanced to third; Herold struck out; Greko was out on a fly to right field, but Parriott registered with a run; Mason lined a nice safe one to left field that scored Smith, and a few minutes later was himself over the plate through the wild throwing and poor fielding of the visitors. Mogenson, the receiver for the Ramblers, heaved the ball to second base to catch Mason stealing, but it kept right on going over into center field, and Bill raced madly for the third sack, and as Kemmey at second base threw to third to nip him on the error of McAndrews he came home with the needed run.

The visitors were able in their half of the seventh to push one over the plate, and in the eighth, taking advantage of a general ascension of the Sox, gathered in four runs while Greko was being touched up, but fortunately this did little damage, as they were not in any dangerous proximity of winning, and in the ninth were blanked, leaving the score 9 to 5.

The tabulated score was as follows:

PECULIAR CHICKEN FREAK DISCOVERED AT ELMWOOD

From Saturday's Daily. Monday morning G. W. Worley brought to this office a peculiar freak in the shape of a chicken with three legs. The two natural legs were all right. The third leg was growing from the tail. It seemed to have a long tail, something on the order of a rabbit's, and from this projected the third leg. The leg was perfectly developed and differed from the others only in that it was webbed. The chicken was of the Rhode Island Red variety and seemed hearty and strong.—Elmwood Leader-Echo.

IMPROVEMENTS AT POST-OFFICE PROPER CAPER

From Friday's Daily. The postoffice has had the wall writing desks in the lobby improved a great deal in the last two days by the installing of plate glass tops for the desks, as well as a large section on the wall back of the desks that will cut out a great deal of the annoyance caused by persons writing their names on the woodwork of the desks or on the wall back of them. This habit has occasioned a great deal of trouble to the postmaster and employees since the new postoffice was opened and the new glass tops and backs of the desks will do away with a great deal of this trouble in the future.

MRS. HANKINSON HAS AN EXPERIENCE WITH TARANTULA

While unpacking a bunch of bananas yesterday, which had just arrived from the south, Mrs. Ben Hankinson had a rather startling experience with a large and active tarantula which had secreted itself in the bunch of bananas, probably before they were picked for shipment. Mrs. Hankinson touched the spider with her hand and thought at first that it was a piece of straw used in packing, but taking a look discovered the large and dangerous member of the spider family and lost no time in getting Mr. Tarantula out and in a bottle, where he could do no harm. It is of good size and is on exhibition at the Basket store, and from its appearance would not be very pleasant to get on intimate terms with.

DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. STANDER TO BE MARRIED

This morning a marriage license was issued to Mr. Mike Homer of Leavenworth, Kansas, and Miss Anna Stander of Manly, who will be married at Weeping Water tomorrow. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stander, one of the leading families of the central part of the county, and is a most charming and highly esteemed young lady.

REV. J. H. STEGER AND FAMILY ENJOY AN OUTING IN COUNTRY

Yesterday Rev. J. H. Steger, wife and children enjoyed a most delightful outing in the country, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Rummell. Immediately after the service at the St. Paul's church Mr. Rummell took the family out with him in his auto and they were able to enjoy a real old-time country dinner, where all the good things imaginable were served to add to the pleasure of the day. After the sumptuous dinner the afternoon was spent pleasantly, and after supper the minister and family returned home, well pleased with the hospitality shown them at the beautiful Rummell home.

Attorney C. E. Tefft of Weeping Water was here today for a few hours looking after some matters in the district court.

HENRY ZEIMAN AND BRIDE OF PEKIN, ILLINOIS, VISIT HERE

From Friday's Daily. Yesterday morning Henry Zeimen and bride arrived in this city and will spend a few weeks here visiting with their relatives and friends in this city and vicinity. Mr. Zeimen and wife were married in Pekin, Illinois, Wednesday afternoon, and at once boarded the train for the west to visit here with the families of Jacob Meisinger in this city, and at the farm home of George P. Meisinger, jr., near this city. Mr. Zeimen is a brother of Mrs. George P. Meisinger, and the visit of the newly weds here is being much enjoyed by their relatives and friends.

MASTER GORDAN REED ENTERTAINS FRIENDS AT A PORCH PARTY

From Friday's Daily. Master Gordon Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Reed, entertained a number of his schoolmates and friends at a most delightful porch party at the pretty Reed home on High School Hill yesterday afternoon. The pretty porch had been appropriately decorated and arranged for the happy occasion. The little guests had come prepared to have a genuine good time and their anticipations were fully realized in the entertainment provided by their thoughtful host. They participated in various games and amusements which children find so much delight in, which produced much frolic and merriment. At a convenient hour a charming luncheon was served, which was most thoroughly enjoyed. A little further romp and frolic and then the little guests, after thanking the host for the happy afternoon they had spent, departed for their homes.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIETY ENJOY OUTING AT STREIGHT FARM

From Friday's Daily. Last evening the members of the Epworth League society of this city enjoyed a very pleasant outing at the Straight farm, northwest of this city, that will be a very pleasant memory for a long time to the young people taking part. The event had been arranged only a few days ago by the entertainment committee, of which Miss Florence Balsler is the chairman, and was in the nature of a wienie roast. When the large hayrack, which had been so kindly furnished for the occasion by Byron Babbitt, as well as a number of private rigs and the trusty Ford of Jesse Perry, arrived at the farm, the members of the party got busy at once and arranged a large campfire on the hills overlooking the pond, and here the wienies were roasted in a most toothsome manner and the other good things provided by the party were disposed of in record-breaking time. The young people then enjoyed themselves to the utmost for a number of hours and several of the party, including a well known barber and the minister, were tossed by the boys in the party, and other antics served to keep everyone in the best of humor until the time for departing for their homes. This was certainly one of the most enjoyable occasions that has ever been held by the League and all were delighted with the good time enjoyed.

BERNICE NEWELL ENTERTAINS COURT HOUSE LADIES

From Friday's Daily. Last evening the young ladies employed in the county court house and a few invited friends were given the opportunity of enjoying a very pleasant picnic dinner at the home of Judge and Mrs. W. H. Newell, when the ladies were the guests of their daughter, Miss Bernese. The girls all came provided with very dainty lunches, which were enjoyed greatly at the supper hour on the large, handsome porch of the Newell home, where a regular picnic "feed" was enjoyed and several pleasing selections on the Victrola were given that added very much to the enjoyment of the occasion. The ladies passed the time in visiting until about 8 o'clock, when the party proceeded to the Air Dome, where they enjoyed the pleasures of the show for a few hours and finally, at a late hour, all wended their way homeward, well pleased with the result of the evening's entertainment.

GO TO MONTANA TO ATTEND SUMMER SCHOOL

From Friday's Daily. This afternoon Misses Ellen and Kathryn Windham and Miss Lucille Gass departed for Missoula, Montana, where they expect to enter the Montana State University summer school and study during the next few months. Miss Ellen Windham will take up art work at the university, while Miss Kathryn will study normal training, and Miss Gass takes up a course in mathematics, for which she is fitting herself for teaching. All three of these young ladies have devoted themselves to lines of higher education and should secure some very desirable results from their work at the Montana university.

MISS EUNICE DRULINER CELEBRATES TWELFTH BIRTHDAY

From Saturday's Daily. Yesterday was the twelfth birthday of little Miss Eunice Druliner, and in honor of the occasion some fourteen of her little friends gathered at her home to assist her in celebrating the pleasant event, and the occasion was one that was thoroughly enjoyed by the little folks present. There were many of the games of childhood indulged in by the happy little guests during the course of the afternoon, which assisted in making the occasion one of rare pleasure, and at a suitable hour very dainty and delicious refreshments, served by Mrs. Druliner, aided in completing the happiness of the guests. As tokens of the day Eunice received a large number of very handsome presents. The Druliner home was arranged very prettily for the occasion with large bouquets of handsome roses.
