The Red Sox Do the Visiting Omaha Team to the Tune of 5 to 1 in the Presence of Good Crowd.

Yesterday afternoon the Kohout's Colts of Omaha got mixed up in the machinery of the Red Sox, and as a result were defeated by a score of 5 to 1 in a very interesting contest that was largely attended by the fans. The visiting team were accompanied here by quite a number of loyal rooters, who attempted to cheer on their favorites, but their fond hopes were dashed by the mighty Sox. Greko on the mound for the locals, whiffed nine of the visitors and in the fourth inning assisted materially in pulling out of a bad hole by retiring two men at third by dropping a small pop-up fly and putting the ball down to Parriott at third, who touched the two frisky Colts and retired the side. Herold, the backstop of the locals, was also in the game in fine shape, and in the third inning made a rather thrilling play when he plucked a foul off of the netting of the grand stand, which brought forth great applause.

In the opening spasm it was a case of Murphy did it, as he opened the second and first, which was side-stepped by the fielders, and he rested safe on the initial sack; Parriott struck out, but Parker placed a short fly to third, which scored Murphy and Parker was safe on first and advanced to third on the safety of Herold to the second sacker, which was not handled in time to retire the runner, who attempted to reach home on the bunt of Greko to Ashburn, but was retired at the place on a throw from McQuade at first.

The fourth was a very busy inning, with lots doing on both sides in the local's half of the inning, which put the game on ice for them, was largely due to the errors of the visitors and their poor judgment. In the first half of this inning the visitors got very busy with their sticks and put their lonely tally over the plate. Jewel opened the inning by retiring on a fly to third base, but Podescek, who followed, hit for a safety down the third base line and was followed by McQuade, who placed a two-bagger to the left field fence, and Podescek came home on the bunt of Rasmussen, and this ended the business for the Colts.

In the Sox's half of the inning, after Craig and Arries had been retired, they were able to register three runs on the demoralized Colts. Ashburn, the slab artist of the visitors, walked Louie Smith, and Murphy again was a factor in the game when he secured first on a safety to the second sacker, which was not handled in time to retire the runner, and was followed by Parriott, who placed a nice long drive to center field and Smith and Murphy scored, and when Brown, the doughty catcher of the visitors, heaved the pill in the direction of the second sack, Parriott took second, and on another wild throw was able to come in home with the third run. Parker closed the inning by striking out.

In the eighth the locals registered their fifth and final score of the game with some timely stick-work. L. Smith placed a two-bagger along the third base line that was good, but was retired at the third sack on the hit of Murphy to shortstop; Parriott was retired on a grounder to third, but Parker saved the day with a timely rap to the second sack that scored Murphy. Herold retired the side by a fly to left field.

The tabulated score of the game was as follows.

Things to Consider in Buying a Car!

SERVICE—Every Overland Car sold in this vicinity since 1908 is still in service.

PRICE—No car today gives as much real value for the money as the Overland. You can satisfy yourself on this subject by comparing specifications with competitive cars.

UP-KEEP—No car was ever built that did not at some time or other need some repair. Repairs for the Overland can be obtained the same day as ordered, and at prices far below what other manufacturers charge. This fact does not occur to the average buyer until he needs some parts and finds it takes from one to three weeks to get parts and in many cases at prices two and three times what the Overland asks. Automobile factories have declined in numbers from 270 in 1911 to 119 in 1915. In other words 151 factories out of 270 have quit making cars in the last four years, and well informed men in the automobile business predict that the change in the next two years will be still more startling, which means that it will be still more difficult and still more delay on parts for cars that are not being manufactured at that time.

There is only one manufacturing plant in the world that produces more cars than the Overland Company, which has increased its production from 400 cars in 1908 to over 100,000 cars per year now. If the Overland car had not given far better average satisfaction to the buyer in the past it would not have outstripped all its competitors, many of which were in the automobile field twice as long.
