

WHAT ABOUT A "HOME COMING WEEK" IN CITY

These "Home-Coming" Events Are Proving Pleasant and Successful in Other Towns.

From Friday's Daily. One attraction that would prove a most successful event if properly handled in this city would be that of a "home coming" week for those who now or have in the past called Plattsmouth "home."

These events when held elsewhere have drawn great crowds of former residents back to their original home town to spend a short time with their friends and old neighbors and in the discussion of the many happy days that have passed. Throughout this section of Nebraska there lives hundreds of old-time residents of this city who would be delighted with the opportunity of once again coming in touch with the old town and the old friends and meeting with them. Such a gala gathering could be confined to two days of entertainment of different kinds which would prove a pleasant feature to the visitors to this city. There are in Omaha and Lincoln a great many old residents of Plattsmouth who would like nothing better than an opportunity of gathering at the old town to meet with old friends of the past and once again renew the ties of the days when their lives were young and all were together here in the old town.

It has been suggested that the city hold a stock show this fall, or some other feature of entertainment, and while they are considering anything in this line they might do well to entertain the idea of the home-comers and try at a future time to arrange and place this event before the public, where it would soon become an annual feature and one looked forward to with interest by the residents of this section, as a time when they can meet with their old friends.

ATHLETIC CARNIVAL AT THE STATE FAIR ON SEPTEMBER 10

The management of the state fair has arranged for a number of athletic events which will occur on the occasion of the Athletic carnival on Friday evening, September 10, at the state fair at Lincoln. To assist in this work they have extended an invitation for the co-operation of the state Y. M. C. A. in securing entries from the young men of the state in the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes and the 880-yard run, as well as farmers for entries in the farmers' harness team race. Those who desire to take part in these events can secure information by inquiring of E. H. Wescott, the corresponding member of the Y. M. C. A. in this city.

MRS. FRANK SIVEY HAS CURIOSITY IN WHAT IS TERMED A SEA ONION

Mrs. Frank Sivey, who has just returned home from Portland, Oregon, where she had been enjoying a visit of several months, reports a most delightful trip and one that allowed her an opportunity of enjoying to the utmost the pleasures of the coast country. She brought back with her an unusual specimen of the vegetable kingdom in the form of a sea onion, something that one hardly ever sees in this section of the country. The plant is of course dried by this time and at a first glance reminds one of nothing as much as a large snake, which it resembles a great deal. The sea onion was secured by Mrs. Sivey while out fishing one day in the Pacific ocean, having gone out on an excursion, and when she first caught sight of it was of the opinion that she had landed a sea serpent, but was assured by the captain of the boat that it was nothing dangerous and pulled it in and brought it back to her home. The onion grows in the ocean and the one secured was seven feet long and had evidently been torn loose from its bed at the bottom of the ocean, and floated to the surface, where it was entangled on the fish line of Mrs. Sivey.

YOUNG HENNING'S UNDERGOES AMPUTATION OF ARM

From Saturday's Daily. Reports received here from the bedside of John Hennings, the young man who was compelled to undergo the amputation of his right arm at the shoulder, as the result of it being mashed in the accident at the farm of Philip E. Tritsch last Monday, states that he is getting along as well as could possibly be expected, although he has suffered greatly from the effects of the injury and the operation. Mike Tritsch, a brother-in-law of the young man, was at the Presbyterian hospital in Omaha yesterday visiting with him, and states that the surgeons in charge are hopeful that the amputation will be entirely successful in saving him from further trouble as a result of the accident and that he will recover.

REV. F. W. FAY, YALE, IOWA, AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH YESTERDAY

Rev. F. Walton Fay of Yale, Iowa, who delivered two discourses at the Christian church yesterday and last evening, while he had a very trying experience in getting here and returning to his Iowa home, where he had to preach a funeral sermon today, proved to be an exceptionally strong man in the pulpit. Rev. Fay was born in the city of London, where he grew to manhood, graduating from the University of London and later from the University of Ireland, and being engaged in the ministry for the past twenty-five years. In the morning he had for his subject, "The Eclipse of Faith," basing his discourse of the fact of John the Baptist sending messengers to the Master asking, "Art Thou He that should come or do we look for another?" This seems a striking delinquency of the part of John the Baptist, when he had declared just before he had baptized Jesus that "This is the lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world," and that had witnessed the spirit descending as a dove and alighting on the Master, reinforced with the declaration of the father saying, "This is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased."

In the evening his subject was, "What Shall I Do to Be Saved?" In the evening, like the morning, his reasoning was terse, and to the point, showing the well qualified mind, with a penetrating thought and keen perception of the value of the scriptural utterances and their value. He was well received by the members of the church, who recognize in him a forceful speaker and a man who knows the scripture to that extent that he is able to lucidly explain the scriptures which may be propounded to him. He had to hasten away immediately after the evening service to catch a train for home, in order to be there in time for the funeral, which occurred at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

JAMES W. SAGE LOSES A FINE PERCHERON STALLION

From Saturday's Daily. James W. Sage had the misfortune at an early hour this morning to have one of his most valuable horses die as the result of the animal suffering a rupture of the stomach. The horse was taken sick last night about 7:30 and Dr. O. Sandin, the veterinarian, summoned to give relief to the animal, but it was impossible to treat the case, although a veterinarian from Weeping Water was summoned to consult in the case, but owing to the seriousness of the case there was little that could be done and the horse died at 3 o'clock this morning. The loss of the animal was quite severe to Mr. Sage, as it was one of the finest Percheron horses in this section of the state and was valued at $2,000.

MIKE WARGA, JR., FOREMAN OF THE MACHINE SHOPS

Mike Warga, jr., a former Plattsmouth young man, who has been employed in the Burlington machine shops at Havelock, has returned to this city and on September 1st will assume the foremanship of the machine shop in this city, taking the place of Joe Wales, who resigned a short time ago from this position, and Mr. Warga will be prepared at once to enter on his duties. Mr. Wales has not fully determined just what he will do in the future, but expects to remove from this city soon.

THERE IS NOTHING TO WORRY FARMERS NOW

No one Can Control the Elements and Farmers Should Feel Fortunate in Getting a Half Crop.

From Saturday's Daily. Yes, there's been a lot of rain of late. Too much, we think, and we growl and complain about the damage it is doing to the crops. Whenever the high water reaches our pocket-books, then there's too much rain. When the crops were growing and needed lots of rain, rain was all right and mighty welcome. But when the crops matured and harvest came, we wanted sunshine and clear skies instead of rain. We wanted things to come our way—we wanted all the fish to swim into our nets. We are just selfish enough to want the weather man to resign his job in our favor—at least during the crop season. Most any of us think that we could improve the service if we only had the chance. At any rate, we should not let the rain spoil the crop after it had produced them. The cow would never kick over the bucket of milk, if we had our way about it. There has been a lot of worrying about the weather, but nothing much has ever been done about it. Worrying does just about as much good as anything else could do, so we worry and hope for the best.

But in speaking of the crops, there's not so much to worry about. It is true that there will be heavy loss because of excessive rains, but we can lose one-third of all the grain produced and still have more than an average crop left. Providence set a new high mark this year and we were expecting too much. We were expecting Providence to stand by us all the way through and turn off the leak when the threshers came. We were building upon our prospects and counting our money before it was coined. And when we do this we may count on disappointments. Providence never gives us a mortgage on the future. We may raise our big crops of grain, but we have no assurance that they will ever reach the granary. And so it is with everything we plant. There are very few "sure things" in our short span of life. When we plant our crops we do not know who will harvest them, nor that there will be anything to harvest. The whole plan so far as we are concerned is pretty much of a leap in the dark, and we may well consider ourselves lucky if we get only an average crop. It is for us to plant and to do what man may do, but the increase and the harvest are not of our making. And it is for us to prepare and to plan for the future, but we must expect that many prospects may produce only an average crop, maybe nothing at all. Crop failures come to all of us. Rain and cloudy weather come just when we are expecting to reap the harvest of a life of toil. That's a part of the game. But there's always a chance to win, and the good farmer sows the grain and does his part. And the man who does his part will reap an average crop, rain or shine.

ANOTHER PLEASANT PICNIC IN HONOR OF MRS. JENNINGS

From Saturday's Daily. Last evening a pleasant picnic party was held down near the big Burlington bridge by the young ladies employed in the offices at the shops, in honor of Mrs. J. R. Jennings of Hartford, Connecticut, who has been here for a few weeks visiting with friends and relatives, and the occasion was one of much pleasantness to all those who were present. The jolly party wended their way at the close of the afternoon down along the cool and pleasant roadway to the river bank, where they at once collected the material for the roaring campfire, and soon the fire was ready for the preparation of the good things to eat, and over its bright glowing embers beefsteak was broiled and potatoes roasted, which formed the main features of the pleasant and delicious repast. The evening was spent in enjoying the restful calm of the twilight hours along the surging waters of the river, and as the stars stole out into the evening's sky the jolly party broke camp and came back to the city, after a delightful time. Those in attendance were: Misses Leona Brady, Madeline Minor, Nettie Moore, Hazel Cowles, Mayola Propst, Hazen and Alice Toney and Mrs. Jennings.

PLATTSMOUTH GIRLS ENTERTAINED AT THE MOORE HOME

Last evening the C. I. S. girls and the F. H. S. J. B. Q. boys of this city motored to the pretty country home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore, near Murray, where they were entertained in a most delightful manner by Misses Margaret and Vera Moore, returning during the wee small hours this morning. Various games and amusements had been planned and these were entered into with much enthusiasm and interest and produced much merriment and frolic. These were interspersed with both vocal and instrumental music, which was a pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment. At the proper time a delicious luncheon was served. An hour or so devoted to a little further social time and then the guests departed for their homes, thanking the Moores for their kind hospitality and for the splendid evening's entertainment afforded them.

JOHN H. BECKER VERY ILL AT HIS HOME IN THIS CITY

The many friends of John H. Becker will regret to learn that he is lying at his home in this city quite ill as the result of a sudden attack of summer complaint, with which he was taken down last night. The condition of Mr. Becker grew such that it was necessary to summon medical assistance and this morning he is still very sick. A trained nurse has been summoned from Omaha to assist in the care of Mr. Becker and all that is possible is being done to relieve his suffering. It is to be hoped that Mr. Becker will recover from the attack in a short time, and his friends will anxiously await word from his bedside.

RUNAWAY PREVENTED BY LEVEL-HEADEDNESS OF MR. RAY McMACKEN

Last evening about 6:30 a rather exciting time was had at the corner of Sixth and Vine streets, and but for the cool-headedness of Ray McMacken, a serious runaway would have occurred. Ray and Bryan Snyder were driving down in a buggy from the McMacken home and had just turned from Vine street into Sixth street when one of the front wheels on the buggy came off and this frightened the horse, who started to run, and for a few seconds it looked very serious, but Ray jumped from the buggy, still holding the lines, and Bryan followed him in jumping from the vehicle, while Ray was holding back on the lines and succeeded in turning the frightened horse up the alley back of the Riley, where the animal was finally stopped and the buggy fixed up again. There was plenty of opportunity for a very serious runaway and in nine cases out of ten the driver would have lost his head, but in this case the coolness of Mr. McMacken saved himself and companion from a serious accident.

Mrs. Major A. Hall and daughter, Miss Elizabeth, were among the Omaha passengers this morning to visit for the day with friends.

DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT OF PLATTSMOUTH

Gustavus Schnasse Passes Away at Rapid City, N. D., at Advanced Age of 87 Years.

The following from the Rapid City, (S. D.) Journal contains an excellent biography of Gustavus Schnasse, who many years ago was one of the prominent business men of Plattsmouth and a distinguished figure in the history of the city in the early seventies, where he had established himself in the mercantile business and resided here until the Black Hills excitement of the late seventies, when he removed to Rapid City, where he spent the remaining years. He will be well remembered by a greater number of the old residents of this city as a most energetic and capable business man and a gentleman held in the highest esteem by those with whom he had come in touch: Died—In Rapid City, August 25, 1915, Gustavus Schnasse, of paralysis, aged 87 years, 11 months and 21 days.

In the death of Gustavus Schnasse Rapid City loses one of its oldest and most prominent residents, he having come here in May, 1877. Mr. Schnasse was born in the central part of Germany, August 31, 1828. In 1848 he came to America, stopping for a short time in Williamsburg, N. Y., but before the year was out he moved to Watertown, Wis., where he remained until about 1867. In 1865, in Almira, Wis., he married Dorothea Lenhoff, and a few years later moved to Plattsmouth, Neb., then to Rapid City. Mr. Schnasse was in the mercantile business during a large part of his life, though often was called to official positions. He was for one term registrar of deeds of Jefferson county, Wisconsin, and city treasurer of Watertown, Wis., for two terms, defeating Carl Schurz.

During his residence here he served as president of the board of education, on the first board of trustees of the School of Mines, and was postmaster of Rapid City for a number of years, under democratic administration.

During the first years of his residence in Rapid City Mr. Schnasse was associated in business with the late William Gramberg. He was one of the organizers of the Rapid City Railway company, and also of the Rapid City Electric Light company. He had been president of the Rapid River Milling company from its organization. It will thus be seen that he was progressive and always ready to help in anything that had to do with the upbuilding of the place where he made his home. He was in the prime of life when he first came to Rapid City and he was ever alert to do his part in making things move. In proof of this it may be stated that he was a subscriber to the first issue of the Journal, and from that time to this continued to be a subscriber, his death leaving but one person still living who put his name down for the first number and has kept it there ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. Schnasse were the parents of three children, one of whom died before they came to the Hills, and one other, Rudolph, dying July 15, 1895. The remaining son, Gottlieb, of Spokane, Wash., survives his father. He is married and has two daughters. For a number of years Mr. Schnasse has been in very poor health, having been confined to his room for the past three or four. On the twenty-third of January, this year, Mrs. Schnasse laid down the burden of life and passed on to await the coming of him with whom she had lived for fifty years, lacking a few months.

John and Ed McNamara have been the same as sons to the aged man who has passed away and it will be a sorrow to them that they happened to be in California at this time. Arrangements for the funeral will not be made until word is received from Gottlieb Schnasse, who with his family will arrive as soon as time and train service will permit. Mrs. Schnasse, jr., has only been away a few weeks, having been here looking after her father-in-law for most of the time since his wife's death.

IT IS NOT YOUR TOWN, BUT IT IS YOU

If you want to live in the kind of a town That's the kind of a town you like, You don't have to slip your clothes in a grip And start on a long, long hike. You'll only find what you've left behind, For there's nothing really new, It's a knock at yourself if you knock your town; For it isn't your town, it's you.

Real towns are not made, by men afraid, Last somebody else gets ahead; If everyone works and nobody shirks, You can raise a town from the dead.

And if, while you make your personal stake, Your neighbor makes one, too; Your town will be what you want to see, For it isn't your town, it's you.
