

CELEBRATE FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

One of Most Pleasing Events of Season, and Which the Thirty-five Guests Highly Enjoyed.

From Friday's Daily.

Wednesday, September 1st, marked the fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hayes, and in order to commemorate the happy event in the proper manner Mr. and Mrs. Hayes entertained their immediate neighbors, some thirty-five, very informally at an evening party. Being fortunate enough to be in the vicinity of the city park, and the evening band concert was to be held in the park, the early part of the evening was spent out on the porch listening to the pleasing selections provided by the band. After the band concert the guests repaired to the pretty parlors of the Hayes home, where various diversions, which had been planned by the host and hostess for the entertainment of their guests, were indulged in.

The principal amusement was that of telling stories, which afforded much pleasure, laughter and merriment for the company. The husbands of the company gave a description of their wife's wedding dress, while the wives approved and disapproved, and then the wives described the wedding journey. The young ladies of the company who are yet unmarried told what they expected to have for their wedding dress and the wedding journey they expected to take. One of the older ladies, who was married in 1861, told of her wedding dress, the hoop skirt being the up-to-date style then, and of wedding trips made via the ox and cart route, and that the groom always had a home already prepared and furnished for his bride in those days. The guests then wrote a story entitled "The Newly Weds," describing the wedding, the wedding journey and their return to their new home and housekeeping. These stories were interspersed with some delightful Victrola selections, vocal solos by Mr. Fred Jones of Ruskin, Neb., and instrumental solos by Miss Estelle Baird. Light refreshments were served, at which time the story which had been written by the guests early in the evening, was read, which, like the stories which had been related provoked much merriment.

The guests then repaired to the parlors again, where they devoted some time in singing some of the old songs, which was greatly enjoyed by the older people of the company, as well as the younger ones. Along about the midnight hour and after wishing the host and hostess many more such happy wedding anniversaries and that they would be invited to participate in each one, the guests departed for their homes. As a memento of the occasion and of the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Hayes are held by their neighbors, the neighbors presented the Hayes with a handsome porch chair. *This story will be kept by Mrs. Hayes as a souvenir of this delightful evening's affair.

SAM WINDHAM DEPARTS FOR NEW YORK LAST EVENING

From Saturday's Daily.

Last evening Samuel C. Windham departed on No. 2 for the east, where he enters the National Preparatory Academy at Highland Falls, New York, to study for the next few months in preparing to enter the West Point Military academy, to which he was recently appointed by Congressman C. F. Reavis as the representative of the First Congressional district. There were a large number of the friends of the young man at the Burlington station to bid him farewell and wish him luck on his journey east to take up his work. Mr. Windham is a very bright young man and should make good in the position in the national military school and prove a credit to his state and himself in his new position.

MRS. P. H. MEISINGER OPERATED UPON IN OMAHA

From Saturday's Daily.

Yesterday morning at the St. Joseph's hospital in Omaha, Mrs. P. H. Meisinger, jr., was operated on for an ailment which has been of several months' duration, and at last reports was doing nicely and the operation was apparently a great success and the recovery of the lady is looked for in a short time. This will be most pleasing to the many friends of this estimable lady throughout the county, and it is to be hoped that in a short time she will be restored to her family and friends and will obtain relief from her illness.

To the Public.

"I feel that I owe the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy a word of gratitude," writes Mrs. T. N. Witherall, Gowanda, N. Y. "When I began taking this medicine I was in great pain and feeling terribly sick, due to an attack of summer complaint. After taking a dose of it I had not long to wait for relief as it benefited me almost immediately." Obtainable everywhere.

INJURED IN RUNAWAY EARLY THIS AFTERNOON

From Saturday's Daily.

This afternoon, about 2:30 o'clock a very serious accident occurred on West Main street, which resulted in the serious injury of John Koukal and his father-in-law, Joseph Svoboda. The two men were going to their home in the west part of the city, and when at the top of the hill at Thirteenth and Main streets the box on the wagon came off and threw the two men to the ground, with the result that Mr. Koukal received a severe cut of several inches on the top of his head, while Mr. Svoboda received two broken ribs. The injured men received medical attention at once and had their injuries dressed. The horses, frightened, continued on their way westward, leaving one wheel of the wagon near the west side fire house and there was little left when they were stopped near the store of John Kopka at Fifteenth and Main streets.

Biliousness and Constipation.

It is certainly surprising that any woman will endure the miserable feelings caused by biliousness and constipation, when relief is so easily had and at so little expense. Mrs. Chas. Peck, Gates, N. Y., writes: "About a year ago I used two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets and they cured me of biliousness and constipation." Obtainable everywhere.

PLEASANT PICNIC PARTY IN HONOR OF VISITORS IN CITY

After the enjoyment of the delightful picnic supper at Paradise park, the party spent several hours very pleasantly in an automobile ride over the city and surrounding country. Those composing the picnic party were: Misses Ione Dovey, Janette Patterson, Margaret Donelan, Adelyne Woods, Mildred Todd, Ruth Fitzgerald, Helen Van Dusen, Messrs. E. G. VICTORY AGAIN PERCHES UPON THE RED SOX

Large Attendance and a Fine Game, Resulting in a Victory for the Sox by a Score of 4 to 1.

The star-eyed goddess of victory Sunday smiled on the crimson hosed legions of Manager Johnson and gave the credit of another win against the aggregation representing Glenwood, which for the occasion had been especially prepared with a view of taking down the locals, but they were unable to produce the goods, as the fast and furious playing of the Sox had them going all the time and the all-star aggregation fielded their heads off back of Hull, the mound artist of the locals, and although the Glenwood batters were able to swat the ball at ease, they were unable to get anywhere with their taps and but for a bobble of judgment would have been blanked, as the Sox had them in the hole at all stages of the game and had their number for another defeat, and when the finale came to the contest Plattsmouth was the winner by a score of 4 to 1.

In the fielding for the locals Parker was the bright particular star, as he grabbed all chances coming anywhere near his station at shortstop and was in a class all to himself in heading off the hits of the Iowa team. Parriott, Beal and Cline were also some fielders themselves during the game, however, and took several very difficult and pretty catches that evoked the greatest of enthusiasm from the large crowd of several hundred that packed the grandstand and bleachers, including a large and enthusiastic crowd of the Glenwood boys, who certainly are loyal and earnest in their support of their team.

In the opening spasm of the game the hopes of the visitors were at fever heat and visions of a great victory caused the large crowd of Glenwood rooters to demonstrate how they felt in the matter and place a few shekles on the result. Hilt, the little left fielder, who has been one of the familiar figures here in the last few games, opening up the affray and retired on a fly to Graham at the first station, while Schultz was unable to solve the delivery of Hull and fanned out; Hall, the elongated Taborite, who played third for the visitors, was given a lease of life on a wild throw to first, but did no damage, as Butler, the backstop of the visitors, also took these trikeout method of ending their chances. In Plattsmouth's half of the inning there was not even a look-in, as both Beal and Parriott were stung on the slants of Speed and whiffed, while Graham lifted one to left field that Hilt grabbed, which left the score a blang on either side.

In the second act of the little drama Todd opened the engagement by lifting one to Parker at short, which was swallowed up, while Stimpson was able to beat one out to first, but was caught up a few minutes later when Linville hit safely to second base, but Lewis got one of his little grounders to Parker at short and was put out by Graham at first.

In the third inning the game was at a climax when the visitors came so close to scoring as to cause the rooters for the home team a spell of heart failure, but luckily they were retired without a run. Speed, the pitcher for the visitors, got on through a safe drive to left field and advanced when Hilt drove a grounder to Cline at second and was tagged at first; Schultz, who followed at bat, drew a walk, but on an attempt of Speed to score he was tagged, and Hall ended the performance by whiffing at the ball. The Sox, spurred on by the efforts of the visitors to cinch the game, got busy in their half of this inning and put away two nice little scores to their credit, which caused a sign of relief to go up from the loyal fans. Parker opened the inning by securing a walk off Speer of the Council Bluffs Imperials, who was attempting to pitch the game, and was followed by Smith, who found too many holes in the air and struck out; Hull was more fortunate, however, and was also walked by Speed, which looked mighty good for a tally for the Sox, and when Beal hit to Speed, Parker was compelled to run into a forced out at the third sack. Just here was where one Glen Parriott proceeded to do things to the smoothly working machinery of the Glenwood base ball team, when he clouted the ball to left field that brought in both Hull and Beal and made the hopes of the Sox go up 100 per cent; Graham ended the inning on a foul fly to the first sack, which was grabbed by the elongated Stimpson.

In the fourth inning Butler drove a grounder to Parriott, which was grabbed the runner thrown out at first; Todd lifted a little pop-up that Hull handled, and Stimpson was out on a fly to Beal in the center garden. Herold opened the engagement for Plattsmouth and was retired on a grounder to shortstop; Cline hit to Speed and was out at first; Mason was passed by Speed and Parker closed by a high fly to right field, which was gathered in by Linville.

In the fifth spasm Linville, the first man up, struck out, while Lewis lifted a pop-up to Cline at second; Speed was more fortunate than his teammates and secured a safety over third into short left; Parker grabbed the fly of Hilt by running back into left field and closed the scene for the visitors. The Sox retired in one, two three order, Smith going out on an infield fly to short, Hull fouled out to Butler, while Beal struck out.

The sixth saw the Sox again take two scores and put the game on ice, after the visitors had been blanked again, as not one of them in this inning were able to get on a base. Parriott opened the show with a hit over short, but was killed at second when Graham hit a little grounder to Speed; Herold was hit by the pitcher, with the result that Graham was advanced, and later scored when Butler failed to stop one of Speed's slants; Herold was advanced to second on the sacrifice of Cline, and when Wilhelm Mason poked the pill for two bags, Pete tallied with a run. Parker was out on a fly to shortstop, ending the agony of the visitors.

The seventh saw the visitors secure their lonely tally. Todd, the first man up, was able to secure a safety through short; Stimpson struck out, but Linville hit to Parriott at third and was retired at the first station, but through an oversight Todd was safe at second and scored when Lewis hit to short center. This was all, however, as Schultz ended the inning by striking out.

After the seventh there was nothing doing in the way of scoring, as the superb fielding of the Sox was such as to shut out all hopes of the visitors getting anywhere with their jabs at the ball. At the close of the battle the sterling members of the Hose were awarded the victory by the score of 4 to 1, which was certainly a delight to the excited base ball bugs who had been rooting so strongly for the home team.

The Glenwood boys have put up a strong showing each time they have been here and when their tournament opens tomorrow the Plattsmouth fans should return the compliment by going over and see what the Plattsmouth team can do to the Iowa boys on their own lot.
