NOTICE!

From Wednesday's Daily.

In the Plattsmouth Journal of Monday, September 20th, was published a list of each and every merchant and individual who contributed towards the band concerts during the summer, and as I failed to see my name in the list, I take this means of notifying the public that I contributed my services by putting on my vaudeville act on Main street, which was witnessed by a number of citizens who were and are under the impression that the amusement committee paid me for it, and I wish to place myself right before the public, as a merchant I contributed my share, not in actual cash, but I was there just the same, as I gave my act as a donation by request of committee.

Ben Harkinson,
Plattsmouth Fruit Store.

Painting Store Front.

From Wednesday's Daily.

William Holly, the clothier, is getting into the improvement class by having the front of his store building at Fourth and Main streets treated to a coat of paint, which is adding very much to the general aspect of the building and will be found to add to that section of the city. J. W. Bookmeyer is the artist looking after the work for Mr. Holly.
