PREPAREDNESS TO BE CONSIDERED

Congress Will Have Little Time For Other Important Matters.

THEY MAY HAVE TO WAIT.

Ship Purchase Bill, Rural Credits, Revenue Legislation, Water Power Sites and Other Matters Will Not Be Considered Until Plans For Army and Navy Have Been Adopted.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.
 Washington, Oct. 29. — (Special.)—Members of congress interested in other legislation than preparedness see little hope for consideration of their favorite measures at the present session or at least not until the session is far advanced. It looks now as if the time of congress would be given over to a discussion of the subject of war preparation even before bills are brought forward for consideration. Each member will hasten to go on record as soon as he can, and on every measure there will be talk about preparedness.

Legislative subjects which are considered important are closure in the senate, rural credits, water power sites, ship purchase bill and revenue legislation. "It looks as if these important measures would have to wait," was the opinion expressed by one of the Democratic senators.

West and Water Power.
 Quite the most interesting and by far the most important in the opinion of the western men is the disposition of water power sites so that the water that is running to waste year after year may be utilized. "It is the most important matter to come before congress at the coming session," remarked Senator Walsh of Montana. "It is an important connection with preparedness. At present we do not make any provision in this country to supply the demand, and that is the foundation of preparedness, as it is necessary to make explosives. If the water power could be utilized nitrogen could be produced in necessary quantities."

Women and Weeks.
 Senator Weeks of Massachusetts has made no bones about his position on the subject of woman suffrage. He said he was against it, and that is all there is to it. Senator Weeks made his declaration before he loomed up as a presidential possibility, and every man has a right to change his mind on this subject of suffrage. Any presidential aspirant has a high example on that subject. The women will endeavor to make Weeks declare for suffrage before his campaign proceeds much further.

Talk Politics With Burleson.
 Almost any day—in fact, almost every day—one can find politicians encroaching in Postmaster General Burleson's room talking over Democratic prospects. Such men as Fred Lynch who seems to be slated for chairman of the next national committee; Tom Pence, who is the "resident political commissioner," besides senators and representatives, drop in to "chat with Burleson." And the p. m. g. does not deny that he is a politician. "Every time I can help a Democrat or do something that will help toward Democratic victory they will find me ready and willing," he remarked one day.

No Votes In Missouri.
 A few weeks ago, speaking of the campaign for preparedness, an officer of one of the associations working along that line remarked, "We have no votes in Missouri and very few in other southern states."

That was before the position of the administration was definitely known. It is doubtful, however, whether many converts have been made in Missouri, even with the president and his administration committed to large expenditures.

Might Be Bryan Luck.
 There have been signs for some time that nations are becoming tired of war. It might be that Bryan, if he should go abroad and preach peace, would hit it about right and get the credit of convincing the warring nations of the mistake they are making. At least that would be Roosevelt luck if he should undertake to bring about peace. He jumped in when Japan and Russia were both exhausted and pulled down the big peace prize for the year.

A Talkative Session.
 "The prospects are that there will be a lot of talk during the coming session of congress," remarked Senator Walsh. He had an idea that closure would not receive such consideration as to make it possible to be adopted. Evidently, in view of this being a talkative session, there will be senators who, ordinarily in favor of closure, will be against it just at this time.

Gardner Can Claim Vindication.
 What about the congressman from the Sixth Massachusetts district, the Hon. Augustus P. Gardner? The administration had no stronger opponent than he in the last congress. It will have no stronger supporter than he in the coming congress—that is, in the matter of war preparation. As to other matters it is presumed he will be a critic. Gardner, while not the actual pioneer in this matter of getting ready for war, went further than any except Hobson in advocating large expenditures.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; since cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. We will give you Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
