

A STREET THAT NEEDS ATTENTION OF BOARD

Washington Avenue, One of Principal Thoroughfares in the City, Sadly in Need of Renovation.

From Friday's Daily.

In attempting to attain a city beautiful there is one thoroughfare that should receive the attention of the boosters, and that is Washington avenue, which is one of the principal driveways of the city, and is also one of the poorest kept-up streets of the city, and instead of being one of the most attractive sections of the city, it is one of the least pleasing appearing sections in almost the entire city and really looks as though the spirit of civic pride in that section was lacking.

The sewerage of a portion of the creek along this avenue has added greatly to the possibilities that might be secured in the way of making it one of the show places if the residents along this thoroughfare and the city could co-operate in the effort to a general clean-up and improve the surroundings. Two new residences are nearing completion along this street, and everyone who owns property along the street should get busy and see that it is kept up in good shape and that the natural settings of a home, such as attractive lawns and yards, are maintained, and it will be found that it is as easy as in the present run-down looks of the buildings that stretch along this thoroughfare.

A great many of the residences present only the rear view to the passer-by on the street, with the general accompaniment of back yards, and these should be looked after without delay so that when next summer comes there will be only the most attractive view presented to those who may be passing through the city and travel over this road.

The old shack near the German Home is gradually tumbling down and it is possible that it may soon succumb to the ravages of time and be hauled away, thereby removing one of the eyesores along the avenue, and by the property owners getting busy with a little paint and seeing that their lawns are kept up can soon make Washington avenue as pretty a street as there is in the city, and it is ideally located for this purpose.

Let us hope that the city beautiful bug will get in its work along this street and arouse the property owners.

PLANNING IMPROVEMENTS FOR THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

From Friday's Daily.

The Christian church in this city is now planning a number of improvements which will, when carried out, add very much to the general appearance and comfort of the church building on Locust street. The structure is to have new carpeting in the aisles of the church, which will make it possible for the seating of the attendants at the services with much more ease and quiet. The windows of the church building are being stained and will add to the general plan of beautifying the church interior, and with the hearty support which the church members are giving to the plan for a more comfortable church they should soon have one of the best church buildings in the city. With the new pastor arriving shortly to take charge of the ministry, and an awakened interest in the church, the Christians should enjoy a most profitable future in their good work and an increase in the membership of their organization.

STEALS AUTO AT ST. JOSEPH AND IS CAPTURED AT EAGLE

From Friday's Daily.

A young man who claims that his name is Walter Harms and that he was working on a farm near Alvo, in this county, for some time, has gotten in bad in Lincoln, where he, together with a lady companion, has been confined in jail charged with the theft of an automobile from St. Joseph, Missouri. The young man and girl were arrested at Eagle Saturday and taken right on to Lincoln, where they were lodged in jail pending the settlement of the ownership of the car, which the authorities had been notified had been stolen. It was discovered Tuesday that the car belonged to H. Dubowsky of the Missouri city, and that it had been stolen Friday evening from its front of a theater in the Missouri city, and the two parties taking it had at once started westward toward the Nebraska state capital. When arrested at Eagle the young man and woman gave the names of Joe Bradley and Mrs. Fred Dill, but later the young man confessed that his real name was Harms. They were later taken back to St. Joseph, after the owner of the automobile had identified it as his property without a doubt, and the scene of the action was transferred to St. Joseph, where the two parties will be forced to stand trial.

MISS ELLEN LEYDA PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINS LADY FRIENDS

From Friday's Daily.

Miss Ellen Leyda very pleasantly entertained a number of her young lady friends at a delightful kensington last evening at her pretty home. Most of the young ladies came prepared to ply the busy needle on dainty fancy work, which furnished plenty of amusements for the jolly company, and which made time pass all too quickly. Some very pleasing piano selections were given by some of the guests, which were most highly appreciated by all and which greatly assisted in making the evening a most enjoyable one. A charming and daintily appointed two-course luncheon was served, which was likewise most thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by the guests. A few moments was devoted to a social time and then it being quite late, the guests extended their warmest thanks to Miss Ellen for the splendid evening's entertainment afforded them and departed for their homes.

MRS. EDNA EATON RETAINS RECORD AS A SOLOIST

Mrs. Edna Eaton Demonstrates Her Musical Talents Before the Woman's Club at San Monica, Cal.

From Saturday's Daily.

The friends in this city of Mrs. Edna L. Eaton will be pleased to learn that in her new home at Santa Monica, California, her splendid talent as a vocalist is meeting with well deserved recognition, and her appearance in recitals have afforded rare musical treats to the people of that section of the state. The following from the Santa Monica Outlook, of October 19th, gives an interesting account of a recent program in which Mrs. Eaton was one of the artists taking part:

The splendid talent of our Santa Monica artists was never better realized than yesterday when the Santa Monica Bay Woman's club members were privileged to hear a wonderfully well rendered program in the hands of Mrs. Edna L. Eaton, soprano; Nathan Shutt, accompanist, and Miss Josephine Dodge, reader.

In a voice of wonderful quality, more soothing, than dramatic, but at all times pleasing, Mrs. Eaton gave as her opening number, "Wind in the Trees," by A. Goring Thomas, an offering of wide range and specially well rendered by Mrs. Eaton.

Following were two Carrie Jacobs Bond selections "Still Unexpected," one of those sweetly soothing melodies which instantly wins the hearts of the audience and "A Song of the Hills," different, but none the less delightful.

"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," so beautifully rendered, fairly carried one away with its wonderful rhythm and pleasing melody, showing to splendid advantage the quality and control of the singer's voice. "Sweet Kisses Tipperary in the Spring" was the pleasing little encore given.

The musical program was broken into by the reading of two scenes from Maeterlinck's "Bluebird," by Miss Josephine Dodge, who has appeared before the club on other occasions, each time exhibiting qualities of rare talent which so greatly endeared her to Santa Monica audiences.

Interpreting the many characters from the aged grandparents to the wondering and adventurous Tiffl and Matill, who visit the land of Memory where their grandparents and brothers and sisters, dead for some time, reside where the word death is unknown.

In the "Palace of Night" the youthful adventurers go in search of the blue bird, where all the terrors of darkness are revealed to them, and related by Miss Dodge in a manner which held her listeners spellbound. "My Thoughts of You," by A. L. Ashford, was another solo capably rendered by Mrs. Eaton as well as the song cycle, "Little One a Cryin'," Olney Seaks, in which the plaintive melody so well suited to the fretting of the child for the roses, hiding from the frost, and the birds, which were waiting for the spring. "Irish Lullaby," by Alicia Needham, and an exquisite offering of Carrie Jacobs Bond "His Lullaby," the pathetic lullaby of the father to his child who calls for the mother forever gone. To this splendid collection Mrs. Eaton responded with a catchy negro dialect number.

Van Dyke's "Wedding Ring," presented by Miss Dodge upon her second appearance on the program displayed to splendid advantage the magnetic qualities of the young reader whose flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes answered the description of the Canadian girl who loved almost to the point of destruction the husband who was brought to realize through once jealous eyes that she loved not too well but he too little.

The German offering "Die Loreley," Frank Liszt, was one of the afternoon's rarest treats, by Mrs. Eaton, who came to her last number, "Matana," by F. Paolo Tosti, in which the artist's many abilities found outlet, and for which the appreciative audience demanded an encore.

Through the splendid interpretation of the accompaniments by Mr. Shutt, who so readily responded to the varied moods of the singer, the musical success of the afternoon was in a great measure possible.

The club house was a bower of exquisite autumn blooms yesterday for as a cheery greeting upon entrance to the club house was a large bouquet of long stemmed yellow chrysanthemums the same blooms, combined with snowy beauties and plumose formed the attractive stage setting. Within the dining room where tea was served after the meeting, cosmos and smilax were used affectively.

CARLSON GETS JUDGMENT OF $300 AGAINST M. P. RAILROAD CO.

From Friday's Daily.

Yesterday in the district court the case of Nils John Carlson vs. the Missouri Pacific Railway company was brought up for trial before Judge Begley, and after hearing the arguments in the case the court granted the plaintiff damages in the sum of $300, although he had sued for $2,999, for what he alleged was the amount due for his injuries, which he alleged were due to the negligence of the defendant railway company. Carlson was employed by the Missouri Pacific in Omaha and was engaged in working on some scaffolding on January 31, 1914, when a large, heavy plan fell, and striking his leg injured it in such shape as to render it useless for a long period of time, and the suit was filed for $2,999 to cover the loss occasioned to the plaintiff. The plaintiff was represented by C. H. Taylor of Omaha, while one of the attorneys from the office of J. A. C. Kennedy of Omaha represented the defendants.

A DEFECTIVE FLUE THE CAUSE OF A SMALL FIRE

From Friday's Daily.

This morning about 9:30 the fire department was called to the home of August Bradley, where a defective flue had caused a small fire, but owing to the cool-headedness of Mrs. Bradley the fire was put out before any very serious damage could result. A small fire of waste paper had been started in the heating stove, and shortly after when Mrs. Bradley stepped outside she noticed the smoke coming up through the roof, and after the neighbors had turned in the alarm she secured a few buckets of water, and with the aid of a few neighbors was able to extinguish the flames before the arrival of the fire department. The loss will be very small from the fire, although it will be necessary to have the chimney placed in better shape before it can be used.

CAUSE FOR DISCUSSION IN SCHOOL CIRCLES

From Friday's Daily.

There has been considerable discussion in school circles in the past few days over the outcome of certain festivities recently held by one of the classes of the High school, and which resulted in the matter getting to the attention of the school authorities, and they have been busy attempting to locate the parties who were responsible for causing the trouble, and it would seem were rapidly drawing the net tighter on those who were at the head of the affair. It seems too bad that at these class parties those occasions must be spoiled by the efforts of a few that not only detracts from the enjoyment of those who attend, but leads to reflections on the class that is not really merited. It is to be hoped that the experience this year of the young people will be heeded in the future when they gather for their little social events.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM SLIGHTLY INTERFERRED

Young Romeo Taken to City Bastille by the Police, While Dad Goes Back Home With Daughter.

One of our young men, who has not yet attained his majority, Saturday evening ran into considerable difficulty in his endeavors to get with the young lady whom he desired, and as a result of his allurement of the young lady from her home he spent several anxious hours in the city jail.

The time of the escapade was near onto the midnight hour, and at the home of the young lady all was wrapped in silence when the youth in whose breast the desire for conversation with his lady was overpowering, drew near the home and sounded a few bird-like notes which brought the lady to the casement, as the heroines in olden times were wont to do, and she listened to the sweet voice of the wandering Romeo and softly crept from the window and was soon happy in the company of the youth, but here is where love's young dream was rudely shattered by the angered father of the lady, who had been aroused by the conversation of the two young people, and dressing in a hurried manner he hastened forth in pursuit of the lad and lassie, and came on them as they were enjoying the felicity of love, and it is needless to say that this brought to a close the happiness of the two young people, as the father notified the police, who carted the young man to the city bastille, while the young lady was taken home by father to be worked on in the family circle, as she certainly had something coming from the looks of the parent.

The young man was kept in the city prison until near the morning hour, when he was allowed to go, with a warning not to be caught in another act of this kind.

THE POLICE COURT WAS A BUSY PLACE THIS MORNING

This morning there was quite a number of celebrants of Saturday evening on hand in the court of Judge Archer to answer to the charge of having been imbibing too freely of the cup that cheers, and as a result of their experiences they were each handed a little package of $5 and costs as their share toward helping maintain the city government.

T. J. Delaney, whose hair has been whitened by the snows of seventy-nine years, was the first to come before the judge, and he acknowledged his wrong-doing and out of his generosity of heart the judge allowed him to depart from the city with a promise to avoid evil ways in the future and leaving behind a small part of his coin to assist in settling the amount of the fine.

Charles Sheldon and George Box, two local parties, were also before the court on the charge of being intoxicated, and both were ready to plead guilty to the charge and were allowed to go forth and attempt to raise the necessary amount to win them their liberty.

The young man is feeling very much improved in health and will visit here at the farm home of his uncle until his strength is sufficient to allow him to return to his home in the north. He will find the pleasures at the farm of Mr. Greamer a great aid in his restoration to health.

SUNDAY SCHOOL DAY PROPERLY OBSERVED IN PLATTSMOUTH

Yesterday being the day set apart by Governor Morehead as "Come-to-Sunday-School and Stay-for-Church Day," the different churches of Plattsmouth had put forth unusual effort to attract to the houses of worship as many as possible of those who are not usually found in the Sunday school or church, and as a result of the efforts of the people of the churches a record-breaking crowd was present at almost every service of the churches, together with two special meetings in the afternoon for men and women.

The day was one ideal for the purpose and the mild and pleasant weather was such that everyone could come out and gather at the church they might prefer without the slightest degree of inconvenience from the elements, and the invitation so extended was taken up with eagerness by a greater part of the residents of the city, and in fact the occasion was a red letter day in the history of the religious life of the community.

At the Methodist, Presbyterian and Christian churches the presence of a number of religious workers from Omaha added to the occasion by their efforts and proved an unusually pleasing feature of the special services, as two of the party were in charge of the services for men at the Methodist church, while the two ladies of the party were at the Presbyterian church in the afternoon at the ladies' meeting, both of which were well attended and proved to be of the deepest significance in arousing the interest and spirit of the citizens as to the betterment of their lives and circumstances surrounding their fellow man.

In the members of the gospel team visiting this city yesterday from Omaha were Elmer E. Thomas, the Omaha attorney; Robert Smith, clerk of the district court of Douglas county, as well as a number of others, and the whole organization numbered some fifteen and they attended the services at the different churches during the day.

GLENWOOD AUTO-IST TRIES TO DOWN SALOON BUILDING

Being Unable to Do That He Skips Out, Leaving the Ford Badly in Need of Repairs.

Saturday evening as the moonlight hour was drawing nigh the residents of the down town districts were startled by the sound of an explosion that was a startling reminder of the warfare in the trenches, and it seemed as though a bomb had been exploded, but it proved to be only the result of an inexperienced driver of one of the time wagons of Henry Ford attempting to shatter the building occupied by the Egenberger saloon in his wild flight up Main street, and for a short time there was a great deal of excitement in the vicinity of Fifth and Main streets, where the mishap occurred. The driver of the car, after the head-on collision, made his getaway and could not be found for some time, but the car, which was one belonging to the Glenwood auto livery, was towed down to Manners' garage for repairs.

It would seem from all reports that a party of some five young men, including a driver, motored over from our neighboring Iowa city and decided to take in the sights and attend the dance, and all went well to this stage of the game, until some of the party decided to come back to the city and get the car and run out to the dance hall to pick up the rest of the party, and here was where the jig was up, as the party taking the car was without any experience in running the gasoline wagon and did not think to wait for the driver, but cranking up the machine started west on Main street at a good rate of speed, and in trying to avoid the hole in the street in front of the Barclay restaurant, the man at the wheel ran the car onto the sidewalk and came near colliding with the building occupied by William Schmidtman's harness shop, but the car was finally steered back into the street, and when it was desired to turn up Fifth street the Ford was again ran onto the walk in front of the Cass County bank, and from there tore across the street and into the brick wall of the Egenberger building, bursting both front tires and causing a report like that of a cannon, and battering up the car somewhat in addition to the bursting of the tires.

The two men who were in the car hastened out to the dance and secured the regular driver of the machine, and took it to the garage, where it was repaired, and about 3 a. m. the party were able to start homeward, safe and sound, but rather startled by the effects of the contact with the brick building. The men were all sober and the accident was due wholly to the fact that the driver was not onto his job.

Saturday evening was a gala occasion at the Woodbine school, northwest of this city, when the pupils of the school, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Jennie Patton, gave a very pleasant and enjoyable program, which reflected great credit on the young people taking part. Following the program there was held a big box supper, as a result of which the school will realize a neat sum from the sale of the various daintily prepared boxes which the young ladies had brought for the occasion, and which were auctioned off by Will Rummell, and the young men in the audience were not slow in bidding in for the ones which had been prepared by their friends. The occasion was a success in every way and reflects great credit upon the pupils and their efficient teacher.
