A MODISH "FLAPPER."

Extremely Good Lines For Fifteen-year-old Girl.

BROADCLOTH AND BEAVER.

African brown, set off with beaver bands, ball buttons and a corded belt is the interesting feature of this attractive suit. The skirt is cut circular, and two balls of beaver jauntily finish the belt. The hat is brown velvet, banded with ostrich tips.

DEMURER UNDERWEAR.

The Average Woman Wants Dainty and Durable Lingerie.

Underwear has been more interesting than discreet in recent seasons. There are always the practical and demure garments for those of practical and demure bent, but a casual stroll through the underwear department of any shop that keeps pace with fashion's whims will give one a vague and uncomfortable suspicion that the practical and demure have lost prestige.

"Do nice people really wear them?" said a little old lady with a move of her hand toward certain filmy foolishness labeled robes de nuit.

"Our best customers buy them," the saleswoman announced superciliously. "The little old lady sighed. 'I was afraid so,' she admitted. 'Please show me something that isn't transparent and that will boil.'"

And, after all, the average woman also wants for general wear something that isn't transparent and that will boil. She may lay a foundation of tulle or voile de soie or chiffon for her party frock and she may refuse even to consider the sturdy enveloping underegarments of olden times, but she wants at least a wisp of sleeve and she doesn't consider the waist line the desirable limit for décolletage and she doesn't approve of neckties slit all the way up to the waist or melting into a single layer of tulle above the knees.

There are charming things, there are even impractical and coquetish things that meet these objections. Almost all of the batiste and lawn used for modish underwear now is very sheer, but at least some of it makes a pretense of opaqueness, while scallops and hand embroidery are taking the place of frills, gauze and laces.

Baby Flannels.

Most mothers find that it pays to wash the baby's expensive little woolens themselves instead of letting them go into the regular wash. It takes little strength or time to wash out a tiny shirt after the baby has donned a clean one, and it pays, because it does not shrink so much if washed carefully. A baby can do with three shirts if one is washed out each morning.

This allows a clean shirt after the daily bath, one used the day before to be put on at night and one to be washed, with time to dry thoroughly before being put on the next day. With only three shirts the mother can afford to buy a good quality, which pays always in baby things, and, as they are in constant use, there is not much danger of their being outgrown.

Baked Apple Pudding.

Peel, core and cut eight apples the same as for apple sauce, put them into a stewpan with just enough water to keep them from burning and stew until they are reduced to a pulp. Weigh the pulp and to every half pound add half a pound of sugar, six ounces of butter, the rind of one lemon and six well beaten eggs. Beat these ingredients all together. Line a pudding dish with puff paste, fill with the mixture and bake half an hour. The butter should be added last; then the pudding is ready for the oven.

How to Fringe.

When fringing a table cover or anything with deep fringe first tear it up as deep as you want the fringe at intervals of a finger or so all the way across the end; then fringe out these short pieces one by one, which is a much easier way than pulling out a long thread every time, having it break and being obliged to hunt for the end with pin or needle.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Ned Harris, Pennsylvania's Efficient Captain.

Although Pennsylvania university's football team has been a disappointment in many respects to its supporters, no criticism has been directed at Ned Harris, captain and right tackle of the team. On the whole, the team has played good ball, but hard luck has seemed to follow it. As an aggregation Pennsylvania has displayed skill and power in straight football, but has shown weakness in the making of forward passes. That seems to be the chief failing of its game. Captain Harris, with Harry Ross, right halfback, has been the mainstay of the Pennsylvania attack. He is a good ground gainer and a sure tackler.

Rube Oldring Retires.

Another member of the once invincible Mackmen has decided to retire from baseball. Rube Oldring, the big outfielder, says that he will devote his time in future to his farm near Bridgeport, N. J. Oldring was a prime favorite in Philadelphia until he fell down hard in the world's series with the Boston Braves a year ago. He was so weak with the stick in that memorable struggle that Mack lost much confidence in him. Oldring continued to play inferior baseball this year in spite of the fact that he tried his level best to make good. In time he was forced to sit on the bench, where he realized that he was rapidly going back. Mack attempted to include him in a trade last September, but Oldring was turned down. Mack advised him of this fact, and Oldring, fearing a trip to the minor leagues, concluded to leave the Athletics at the end of the campaign.

Griffith Will Let Gandil Go.

It is a foregone conclusion that Clark Griffith of the Washingtons will sell or trade his veteran first baseman, Chick Gandil. Griffith picked up a star first sacker in Joe Judge last September. Judge was purchased from the Buffalo International league club, and as soon as he joined the Senators he created a sensation. Judge, by the way, was in general demand. If Griffith had not secured his release he probably would have gone to the Boston Braves, as George Stallings was prepared to make a fancy bid for him. Gandil was purchased from the Montreal club several years ago for $12,000. He fell off in his batting this year, and Griffith now thinks a change will benefit him. The Cleveland club may get Gandil if C. W. Somers will pay the price.

A Season of Football Records.

This seems to be a season for wonderful football records. Not only has there been an unusual number of big scoring games, the hundred mark in points having been passed on several occasions, but there have been a number of individual exploits that are regarded as world's records.

The records for both punting and drop kicking have been shattered. Mark Bayne of South Dakota Wesleyan college made the new drop kicking record for field goal against Northern Normal, when he booted a field goal from the sixty-three yard line. The best previous record was held by Pat O'Dea of Wisconsin, the distance being sixty-two yards.

Mack Thinks Future Is Rosy.

Manager Connie Mack is not doing much worrying about baseball just now. In fact, the lean Athletic manager is spending his time reading and watching football. He has become quite an enthusiast on the sport, but once in awhile it is possible to extract some baseball information from him. The Athletic leader said in reply to some questions as to the future of his club that he felt sure that the Athletics would be up in the race next season, and that in 1917 he would have a champion team.

Kiviat Case Appealed.

The athletic committee of the Irish American Athletic club of New York city has appealed to the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic union in behalf of new trials for Abel Kiviat, its track captain, and Harry Smith, both of whom were expelled from the A. A. U. for having demanded excessive expense money to appear in an athletic meet in Schenectady, N. Y.

Lester Burrows, who is employed by the firm of J. H. McMaken, and was assisting in driving a team this morning when he met with a rather painful experience. Mr. Burrows was riding in a dump wagon loaded with dirt, and while he was not watching closely the doors of the wagon were dropped and Lester was bruised up considerably in falling as the doors were opened up, but will not be laid up to any extent.

Son at Will Rummell Home.

Yesterday there arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Rummell, southwest of this city, a fine new eight-pound son and heir, who is of the regulation size and weight, and as fine a little lad as can be found in Cass county. The mother and little one are doing nicely, and the little stranger has occasioned a great deal of happiness to the proud father.

Select Your Winter Furs Now!

There are two reasons why we very strongly advise to make an early selection of your Furs.

In the first place we have a wonderful line of the very choicest Furs it is possible to obtain, and we are offering them at specially reasonable prices, even though all fur goods have gone up. We placed our order nine months ago and took advantage of the old price, and now are glad to give our customers the benefit.

The second reason is that owing to the unusual conditions of the dyes and fur markets, the later productions will be inferior and the prices far higher than those we are able to offer now.

Our Muffs are of the new shapes in flat and round.
