MRS. A. C. CAREY RECEIVES SAD NEWS OF HER BROTHER'S DEATH

From Wednesday's Daily.

Mrs. A. C. Carey, residing near this city, received the sad news Monday afternoon that her brother, Theodore Barker, had been killed by a train at Atascadero, California. The message did not give the particulars of the accident which had caused his death. The deceased was a son of the late Samuel Barker and was reared to manhood in this county. He leaves to mourn his untimely death a wife and three children, besides six brothers and five sisters, as follows: Lewis and James Barker, Manard, Idaho; Harve and Ratio Barker, Atlanta, Nebraska; Steve Barker, Eight Mile Grove; Edgar Barker, Peery, Oklahoma; Mrs. Martha Wetenkamp, Mynard, Nebraska; Mrs. Anthony Howard, Ravenna, Nebraska; Mrs. George Meisinger, Mrs. Emma Shaw and Mrs. A. C. Carey of this city, and Will Barker of Tekamah, Nebraska.

ST. MARY'S GUILD ENTER-TAINED AT M'DANIEL HOME

From Wednesday's Daily.

The ladies of the St. Mary's Guild were entertained very pleasantly yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. McDaniel, and the occasion was one thoroughly enjoyed by the members present. The meeting was purely a business session and the afternoon was spent in sewing and the discussion of the plans of the Guild. During the afternoon light refreshments were served, which added greatly to the pleasure of the ladies in attendance, and the members appreciated to the fullest extent the delightful hospitality which was afforded them on this pleasant occasion and felt that the meeting had been one of pleasure and profit to all the members present.

ROGERS IS EASY FOR JOE STECKER

Succumbs to Nebraskan's Scissors Hold in Eight Minutes and Five Minutes, Respectively.

ROGERS ALWAYS ON DEFENSE

From Wednesday's Daily.

Omaha, Feb. 16.—It's the same old story over and over again. This time Joe Rogers of Buffalo, N. Y., and pupil of Emil Klank, maker of champions, was the victim of the same old story.

Rogers essayed to give Joe Stecker a little battle on the wrestling mat at the Council Bluffs Auditorium. But Rogers, like all the others, proved no match for the Nebraskan and lost two straight falls. The first fall came in eight minutes and twenty seconds, and the second fall came in five minutes and thirty-seven seconds.

The wonderful scissors, aided and abetted by an English bar lock, proved to be the fatal hold for Rogers, as it has for all the other grapplers who locked horns with Joe.

After the two men shook hands before the first tilt Stecker and Rogers felt each other out for three minutes, with Stecker doing the leading. Joe then tripped Rogers to the mat and promptly started after the scissors. He had it in a twinkling of an eye and the deadly pressure began.

Lays in Scissors.

Rogers weathered the scissors for five minutes. He kept Stecker from turning him over by stretching himself out flat or by doubling into a knot. But it was of no avail. With but eight minutes ticked off the clock the Dodge phenom spun Rogers around without losing his scissors grip, and then secured the bar lock.

Rogers couldn't stand the torturing grip and lock and slowly turned over on his shoulders. Eight minutes and twenty seconds.

The second fall came quicker. The men were on their feet but two minutes before Stecker threw Rogers to the mat. As before, he immediately clamped the scissors on and began to work for the bar lock. He got it and it only took three more minutes to turn the Buffalo man over.

Stecker Is Aggressor.

Rogers never had a chance. Stecker was on the aggressive every minute. Rogers did not make one offensive move, he was always on the defensive. He did not get behind Stecker once and in fact didn't break a single hold, for it was the original scissors that did the work in each tilt.

Stronger Than Cutler.

After the match Stecker declared that Rogers is the strongest man he has ever met, even asserting Rogers is stronger than Charley Cutler. But Rogers couldn't stay as long as Charley Cutler. In fact, he was more helpless against Joe than was Husane or Americus or Westergard or any of the rest of them.

Other wrestlers have wriggled out or broken away from the scissors when first clamped on them even though they eventually succumbed. But Rogers didn't do a single thing. He looked like a big sack of grain who couldn't fight back, he was that helpless under the scissors.

Between 2,500 and 3,000 wrestling fans filled the Bluffs Auditorium to see the match and cheer Stecker's victory. Long before the match started every seat in the house had been sold and the doors were locked. Several hundred were turned away as no accommodations could be found for them.

In a preliminary go Cal Wood of Stanton, Neb., and Joe Geshout of Chicago wrestled an hour to a draw.

Jolly Time at the J. R. Vallery Home.

From Wednesday's Daily.

Sunday evening a jolly sleighing party invaded the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Vallery, where they proceeded to make things lively. They had come well laden with many good things to eat and at a late hour they partook of a delicious three-course luncheon and then returned home. Those who composed this jolly crowd were: Misses Madeline Minor, Ben Alderman of Fremont, Gretchen Donnelly, Janet Clement, Dorris and Martha Vallery, Marie Donnelly, Messrs. Henry McMaken, Carl Schmidtman, Marion Dickson, Ray McMaken, Guy Reese, Fred Mann, Don Arries, Edwin Fricke.

How Two Men Cured LaGrippe

"Last winter I suffered with a terrible cold and a case of la grippe," writes E. C. Rhodes of Middleton, Ga. "When getting well of the grippe I still had a hacking cough and for several months could get no relief. Finally I began taking Foley's Honey and Tar and soon I was well of both cough and cold and it never returned."

G. Prevo, Bedford, Ind., writes: "After having an attack of la grippe it left me with a severe cough and I tried everything. I lost in weight and got so thin it looked as though I would never get well. I tried Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and two bottles cured me. I am now well and back to normal weight."

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a healing family remedy and seldom fails to relieve coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, raw and inflamed throat, tight and sore chest, irritated and tickling throat and bronchial coughs.

IN PLATTSMOUTH FORTY YEARS AGO.

Mrs. Babbington accidentally stepped off the sidewalk into the ditch, opposite the Bonner stables, as she was returning from church on Sunday evening, wrenching one of her limbs severely. We trust she is not seriously injured. Some young gentleman assisted her home.

Will the city marshal try and stop people from throwing things in the gutters? Sixth street is a long street and it soon gathers enough to stop any culverts that can be made at the lower end. Even well informed people do this trick. The Herald picked up limbs and branches of evergreens the other day and carried them out of the way.

"Pestle, Mortar, Pound Ye." Such a crazy lot of fellows as gathered down at Buttery's store yesterday we haven't seen since '59 when someone calimed to have discovered Color on Omaha creek. Merchants, clerks, lawyers, doctors and preachers threw off their coats and dug the banks of the creek up as the sweat poured down their strained faces and the blisters grew on their tender-footed palms. Gen. Cunningham brought home several specimens of ore from Capt. Bennett's mine in which some of our townsmen are interested, and Barnes, W. Bennett, Dr. Geo. Black, stockholders, we believe, pounded it up in a mortar. From one specimen about as large as a hen's egg they got eight distinct specks of gold and such a hurrah you never saw. All the town rushed down there. Never was "Josephine" so sought after. Shares rose as the golden specks went down in the corner of the pan and fortunes gleamed in the glim future like will o' the wisps on the bogs of Kilkenny. Then John Shannon, an old miner, worked out another chunk from another mine, that didn't turn out so well, but it gave just as much fun and excitement, and the Herald left them on their knees around a dirty pan with little glasses (magnifying) jammed into their eyes, as eager as boys playing marbles for keeps. While they were getting the color from the second pan someone came in and drank up the first "wash" by mistake, it having been poured into the glass used to drink from—for safe keeping. It's safe now and a returning board are hunting for the chap that helped swallow Josephine. Oh, my, how old days come over us. We've got the fever, bad!

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD—A CENTURY OF STEADY PROGRESS

Louisiana, Mo., Feb. 14.—In commenting recently on the election of Lloyd C. Stark, vice president of Stark Bros. Nurseries & Orchards Co., to the presidency of the Western Association of Nurserymen, the St. Louis Republic said:

"This adds additional interest to the fact that this great Missouri enterprise is just ready to begin the celebration of its one hundredth anniversary, a century of progress and growth on the site of the original nursery. From a few Pike county acres it has developed into the largest concern of its kind in the United States."

For a business to have lived 100 years is a noteworthy accomplishment. To have lived 100 years and been a constant factor in the increased production of more and better fruits for the family is even more noteworthy.

Stark Brothers are pioneers in encouraging the planting of more fruit for the good of the people, rather than individuals, and not from purely commercial motives. Due to an awakening of the value and importance of fruit if only "a little backyard orchard," home builders today figure on a few trees when the house plans are drawn instead of making no provision for them whatever, as was formerly the case. It used to be that the town and city resident had a mistaken idea about how much space it required to plant and grow a few trees and bush fruits. It is really surprising what one can do with the new varieties of trees on a few feet of ground. This coupled with the fact that the consumption of raw fruit in the past few years has greatly increased is directly responsible for the planting of three home orchards where only one was planted before. A new meaning and a new interest is now attached to that ancient admonition: "Be sticken in a tree, Jock, it will grow while ye're sleepin'."

The pure food experts have said that the children of the country must have all the apples they can eat if they are to be perfectly health. The little home orchards of only a few trees will come nearer supplying this want than the commercial orchards whose crops go to the fruit stands where the price is prohibitive to many or are exported to foreign lands. Although never planted for profit, even the smallest of the backyard plantings will produce more than one family can use, allowing a surplus for sale to neighbors.

It has remained for Stark Brothers to spend over $250,000 in advertising an apple—Stark Delicious—and $100,000 in advertising another—Black Ben. Other trade mark fruits introduced by this nursery are: Stark King David, Champion, and Senator apples, Gold plum, Gold cherry and Gold Nugget pear.

BRYAN ORGANIZATION BUSY TRYING TO FIX A SLATE

Petitions From the Commoner Office With Bryan, Dahlman and Others on It.

FRIENDS OF WILSON ACTIVE

Omaha, Feb. 16.—The following from Kearney is one of numerous reports of similar purport received from various portions of the state:

"A petition from the Commoner office in Lincoln arrived here yesterday for a slate of delegates-at-large to the democratic national convention. On the slate are the names of W. J. Bryan, W. H. Thompson, J. J. Thomas of Seward, and Louis Piatti of Omaha. There goes with it, as a part of the slate, a petition for Mayor James C. Dahlman for national committee man. These petitions were sent to F. W. Brown, jr., of the Kearney Times, and are now being circulated by him. They also have petition from the same source for Frank Taylor of St. Paul and F. W. Brown, jr., of this place, for district delegates. It is supposed the Commoner has similar petitions for district delegates in all the other five districts.

A Bryan Slate.

In a word, the Bryan organization is making a slate. It comprises up to date Charles W. Bryan for governor, Dahlman for national committeeman, delegates-at-large and district delegates to the national convention. Strenuous efforts have been and are being made to induce Governor Morehead to become a part of the slate by accepting a filing for United States senator, and Morehead-for-senator petitions are being widely circulated. Close friends of the governor say that he will hold fast to his declination to be a candidate for the governorship, for the senatorship, or for congress from the First district, for all of which posts he has been mentioned. Efforts to induce Congressman Stephens of the Third district to file for senator on the slate have met with failure, as did earlier efforts to draft Congressman Shallenberger. Reports are numerous in circles close to the Bryan organization that I. J. Dunn of Omaha, as a last resort, will be presented to contest with Senator Hitchcock in the primaries.

Bryan and Dahlman.

To what extent the prohibition line will be drawn in the completion of the slate is not yet clearly revealed. Some weeks ago the Bryan headquarters issued the ukase that none but prohibitionists would be tolerated. In Iowa, last year, Mr. Bryan laid down the rule in a public letter that no one not for prohibition would be permitted to represent the democratic party on the national committee. The rule, however, has been abrogated in Nebraska, since Mayor Dahlman has been taken up by the Bryan organization for national committeeman. Neither is the rule enforced as to candidates for delegates-at-large. Of the four on the Bryan slate—Mr. Bryan himself, Thompson, Thomas and Piatti—all but the leader are reputed to be opposed to prohibition.

The rank and file of Nebraska democrats are still in the dark as to Mr. Bryan's intentions with regard to the national convention. There is widespread speculation as to whether he will support President Wilson for renomination or oppose him on the one-term plank, coupled with the preparedness issue. The idea prevails pretty widely that Mr. Bryan may not commit himself definitely until after the time for filings has expired, which would be about the time of the Bryan birthday banquet at Lincoln on March 20.

Wilson Men Active.

Meanwhile, however, there are signs of activity on the part of democrats who believe that the delegation from Nebraska should be first of all a Wilson delegation, made up of men of unquestioned loyalty to the president. From this source it is insisted that enough candidates should be put in the field so that democrats may have a chance to make a free choice, and not be bound by a slate. For delegates-at-large numerous names have been suggested, including Governor Morehead, Richard L. Metcalfe, William V. Allen, J. E. Miller of Lincoln, Judge Tibbets of Hastings, John C. Byrnes of Columbus, W. D. Oldham of Kearney and Mayor Ryan of Grand Island. There are also many suggestions for district delegates other than those included in the slate.

For national committeeman it is regarded as practically settled that Arthur F. Mullen will present himself in opposition to Mayor Dahlman. Mr.

Mullen's experience as the head of the Bryan Volunteers in 1908, as private secretary to Governor Shallenberger, as attorney general and as manager of the Champ Clark campaign in Nebraska in 1912, has given him a very wide acquaintanceship and a reputation for political sagacity and energy that his friends claim peculiarly qualify him for a place on the national committee, where he would be in position to bring much aid to the election of the democratic ticket in Nebraska.

W. E. Rosencrans and wife and daughter, Miss Nora, were among those going to Omaha this morning, where they will visit for a few hours with friends.

Another splendid social dance will be given at the German Home Saturday evening and the public is cordially invited to be present. A good time for everyone.

SLAVS TAKE NINE ERZERUM FORTS

Strong Turkish Fortress Can Hold Out for Several Weeks, However.

BUILT ON THE MOUNTAINSIDE

Petrograd, Feb. 16.—The great Turkish fortress of Erzerum, which has stopped Russian invasion of Armenia in all previous wars, is threatened with capture by Grand Duke Nicholas' Caucasus army.

Nine of Erzerum's forts have been stormed and taken in a fierce struggle on the mountain sides in zero weather. The Slavs now can train their guns at close range upon the other forts. A Turkish garrison of 160,000 is reported inside the walls.

Erzerum's fall would pave the way for a great spring advance by the grand duke's army through eastern Armenia and perhaps force Turkey to sue for peace.

Assault Will Last Several Weeks.

Three years ago the city was defended by six great forts along the eastern outskirts, but other probably have been built.

Erzerum is so strongly fortified that several weeks more of heavy artillery battering and infantry fighting probably will be necessary to capture it.

The city, with a 40,000 population, lies at the end of a valley on a high plain. It is surrounded by a stone wall, built three centuries ago. A high mountain ridge protects Erzerum from the east. The strongest forts were constructed along this ridge. At each end is a high peak, preventing flanking attacks.
