

W. B. BANNING THE MAN FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

For many reasons The News is pleased to endorse the candidacy of William B. Banning for the position of lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket. There are many reasons why we like to give him our support, but chief of these is because we know he is a man that can be trusted in any position in which he may be placed. He has always proven faithful. He is an Otoe county product, born in Wyoming precinct September 18, 1869, and since then has either lived here or in Cass county. He has been engaged in several businesses and for some years was in charge of the machinery department at the Nebraska state fair, and it was there he met the most farmers. He has served as commissioner of Cass county, and was in the state senate in 1909 and 1911. It was there he proved the material of which he was made, as he showed that he was not only brainy but honest. He was the father of the commission form of government law, giving all cities of more than 2,500 benefit of the same. He made a most excellent presiding officer when called to the chair, which means that he will make an able lieutenant governor.

If the people of the state were one-tenth as well acquainted with Mr. Banning as those living in Otoe and Cass counties are, his election would be almost unanimous.—Nebraska City News.

SCHOOL CHILDREN AGAIN CELEBRATE

The girls and boys of the high school and Central building last evening celebrated the fact of the school bonds carrying by holding a large parade up Main street in which several hundred of the young people took part and gave vent to their enthusiasm by cheers and yells of the school in honor of the joyful occasion to them. On the high school grounds a mammoth bonfire was started and the flickering lights of the flames rose high in the air and were visible from all parts of the city as the joyful students gave way to their feelings of pleasure at the culmination of the school question. The students of the schools were among the most enthusiastic boosters of the proposition for the new school and felt that it is a red letter occasion for them as well as for the classes that will come after them and have the use of the new building.

MISS DELIA TARTSCH WILL TEACH IN OMAHA

From Tuesday's Daily. In the dispatches from Omaha this morning it was stated that Miss Delia Tartsch, one of the teachers in the public schools in this city, has been elected as a member of the teaching force of the metropolis for the ensuing term. Miss Tartsch is one of the most efficient teachers in the city school system and her splendid work here has received a well deserved recognition in her being called to the school work of the larger city. Miss Selma Marquardt, sister of County Superintendent Miss Eda Marquardt, who has been teaching for the past year at Beatrice, has also been elected to the Omaha schools as a teacher. Both of these ladies are qualified in every way for their chosen profession and rank very high where they have taught and while it would be with great regret that the schools part with Miss Tartsch every one will be pleased to learn of the well deserved compensation paid to her ability.

A Mighty Good Man.

L. G. Todd, from the vicinity of Union, who is a candidate for the democratic nomination for float representative for Otoe and Cass counties, was in the city yesterday for a short time looking after his interests. Mr. Todd has been given a clear field by the other candidates in Cass county and is the only candidate in this county remaining in the race and should without a doubt be nominated and if he is will be right in line for election. Mr. Todd comes from one of the pioneer families of Nebraska as his father, Hon. L. G. Todd, was for years one of the leading figures in the politics of the state, and the son has always taken a keen interest in all public questions, which insures his being on the job if elected to the legislature.

JOHN L. KENNEDY WILL TALK HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

On Saturday evening the republicans of this city and vicinity will enjoy a smoker and meeting at which Hon. John L. Kennedy of Omaha, one of the candidates for the nomination for United States senator, will be present to address the members of the party. All republicans of this section of the county are invited to come in and attend the meeting and hear the address of the distinguished guest of the evening. A number of the local and state candidates will also be present to take part in the meeting. It is probable that it will be held in the Modern Woodman hall if possible, but the definite place will be given out later and a good meeting is assured.

LADIES GIVE FINE ENTERTAINMENT AT THE T. J. SOKOL HALL

From Wednesday's Daily. Last evening the T. J. Sokol hall was the scene of a very pleasant gathering when the active Bohemian members of this organization gathered to enjoy a pleasant evening and a most sumptuous repast that would have tempted the appetite of an epicurean was placed on the banquet board for the benefit of the large crowd of gentlemen attending. The banquet was served in the lodge room of the hall and the young ladies of the Sokolky turning class had arranged the room in a manner which was most pleasing to the eye, without saying anything of the loads of good things to eat which the ladies served, and they saw to it that there was nothing omitted that might add to the delight of the festive occasion, and from the soup to the dessert the feast was most enjoyable, and there was plenty for the jolly party of hungry men, who made the feast mighty scarce in a short time. A number of informal addresses in Bohemian were made by some of the prominent members who have been so active in the work of the organization. A musical program was given during the course of the banquet by the orchestra composed of Roy Holly, Francis Whelan, Stuart Janda and Anton Bajcek and after the feast had been disposed of everyone proceeded to have a very jolly time. The young ladies of the Sokolky gave a number of very high class vocal numbers, while the gentlemen passed the time in visiting and playing various games of cards.

KEITH NEVILLE, AT HIS HOME TOWN, GETS AN OVATION

A Mammoth Parade of Military and Civic Organizations, Swelled By Citizens.

BORN AND REARED IN STATE

North Platte, Neb., April 4.—One of the banners in the monstrous welcome to Keith Neville by all North Platte that caused yells of delight read:

Nebraska born, Nebraska bred,
Keith Neville for Nebraska's head.

Neighbors and friends, and friends' neighbors and neighbors' friends of Keith Neville united here Monday night in giving that governorship candidate a monstrous welcome home.

It was a nonpartisan, nonfactional, nondivisive welcome by North Platte people to one of its sons. It was enthusiastic to the utmost, and citizens joined in from the oldest to the youngest, from the largest to the smallest, men, women, boys and girls and all.

This was the only night within two weeks past that Mr. Neville has been home and he left early this morning to be gone on a state primary tour which will last until primary day, April 18. It was therefore the one night upon which North Platte people could show their affection and respect for him and although the time for arrangements was comparatively short, most every one of the 6,500 people of this city either took a part in the parade or went to the Neville home where the welcome took place.

The approach of the local settlement of the license policy of the city for the coming year was forgotten in this warm tribute of a loyal affection to Mr. Neville.

Those who do not agree with him on state issues closely related to this local contest attested his splendid citizenship and popularity among them. Those who agree with him by their manifest expressions of friendship emphasized all those qualities which they deem most important, most necessary in the selection of the executive of a great state.

The event proper was held at the Neville home, seven blocks from the business section of town. Mrs. Neville was at her husband's side throughout and the three little girls, understanding little about it all, but knowing it was some kind of an honor for their "daddy," were there, too.

Autos, Marchers, Bands in Parade. A long parade of automobiles and marchers and bands covered the downtown streets before the start was made for the Neville home.

On the line under the direction of Marshal of the Day Leonard Robinson were the local Spanish-American War Veteran's camp, the North Platte Military band, the two companies of high school cadets, the high school football team, last year the state champions under Mr. Neville's coaching; the national champion Yeoman drill team of this city, the North Platte volunteer firemen and then sixty-two auto loads of democrats, republicans, socialists, prohibitionists, progressives and independents and a number of veterans of the civil war were in this part of the crowd, too, some of whom had pioneered through this great west with Colonel Keith, the local man's grandfather, or with Judge Neville, his father.

Two hundred marchers of the rank and file of all parties carried torches, while along the line of march at intervals fireworks were set off to add to the illumination and to impress on the crowd the spirit of the celebration. Dozens of banners bearing different legends were carried in the parade.

Significant Banner. The one that brought most applause had upon it, "Nebraska Born, Nebraska Bred, Keith Neville for Nebraska's Head."

At Neville's home, where the yard and porches were covered with Mr. Neville's neighbors and friends and where the crowds surged out into the street in two directions, speeches were made by leading citizens whose contact with Mr. Neville has been intimate during most of the years of his life.

The appearance of the Neville family on the porch at their home was greeted with prolonged cheers when the great parade drew up.

Every reference to Mr. Neville's predominant characteristics was the signal for continued cheering, and before anyone in the great crowd left for home most of the men and women and children swept up to the porch to greet him personally and to pledge him support and wish him well.

J. G. Beeler, a well known attorney and an active friend of the prohibition cause, was the first speaker on the "welcome" program.

Prohibitionist's Welcome.

He welcomed Keith Neville home on behalf of North Platte. He spoke with apparent feeling of the connection of his parent stock with the settlement of the great west and the shaping of Nebraska history in the days when this section of the country was known for its wilds and its perils. He praised Mr. Neville as a citizen, as a business man, as the head of a home, as an influence among boys and young men. He expressed the faith which North Platte and Lincoln county and western Nebraska people have in Mr. Neville, and said that the same abilities he displayed here at home all his life would be displayed by Mr. Neville if he were elevated to the governorship of his state.

County Attorney George Gibbs pointed out the friendship of Mr. Neville for the young men of this city and country and declared that his candidacy for the state executiveship would bring recognition to the western part of the state and would give a good account of itself if it terminated in an election to the place that is sought.

Principal N. N. Redenbaugh of the high school, a church worker and student of boys' work, spoke on Mr. Neville's influence among the North Platte high school boys.

Clean, honest sportsmanship has been Keith Neville's motto, said the schoolman. He has instilled in the boys here the desire to win, but the desire to win manfully, so that opponents would respect plays and our players.

Principal Redenbaugh also declared that the need of an even balance between work and play and study had been emphasized upon the boys by Mr. Neville.

Praise From Republican Editor.

I. L. Bare, editor of the Tribune, a lifelong republican, praised Mr. Neville from the standpoint of his citizenship and business ability and desire to go out of his way to do things for others.

"For thirty-five years western Nebraska has contributed to Nebraska history, to Nebraska wealth and prosperity and to Nebraska upbuilding, and now we have a representative of the west as a candidate for governor," said Mr. Bare.

"Let us elect him to the place; here is the opportunity we long have sought. We have in Mr. Neville a clean man, a frank, courageous, businesslike man, the type of the sturdy, splendid pioneer. We know if he is chosen by Nebraska people as their governor he will give to them the same service his father and he, himself, have given us in the upbuilding of the west."

Democrats and republicans were here from other towns of Lincoln county, too, and all of them for the purpose of attesting their friendship for a man of such worth as Mr. Neville.

Keith Neville was the last speaker, and it was many minutes before he could respond to the welcome given him. Hats were thrown into the air, torches were dashed to the ground, children sang, parents applauded wildly. All North Platte, in short, cheered the favorite son whom they are backing for the governorship.

Mr. Neville's speech was in a measure his campaign speech and it was more than that, and his neighbors and friends here accepted it in full measure. They accept everything Keith Neville says and does.

JOHN S. McCARTY, CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS, HERE

From Tuesday's Daily. Judge John S. McCarty of Lincoln, who is a candidate for the democratic nomination for congress in the First district, was in the city today looking after his interests and seeing that his candidacy was placed before the voters for their judgment. Mr. McCarty was one of the speakers here at the Cass county democratic banquet in February and made a most favorable impression with the voters at the time. He is contesting for the nomination with ex-Congressman John A. Maguire and D. W. Livingston of Nebraska City. While in the city Mr. McCarty visited for a few minutes at the Journal office to chat with the editor.
