

BILLY BARCLAY IS IMPROVING HIS RESIDENCE PROPERTY

From Wednesday's Daily.
The three residences on South Fourth street belonging to Chief of Police William Barclay have just had installed in them a complete sewerage system as well as city water, which will be found a great convenience to those residing there. Mr. Barclay expects to add a large number of improvements to his property that will amount to several hundred dollars but they will result in making these homes strictly up to date. For a great many years these houses have been allowed to run down and it is fortunate for the city that Mr. Barclay has secured them as he will make them strictly up to date and ones in which anyone can reside. Their location will make them very easy to rent and the owner proposes to have them rented at a rate that will be in the reach of anyone and give them their money's worth.

SECRETARY OF STATE POOL RULES ON PRIMARY HOURS

Lincoln, Neb., April 12.—Conflicting provisions in the election laws are expected by Secretary of State Pool to result in some election boards misunderstanding the time the polls are to remain open at the coming primaries.
One provision of the law states that the time shall be from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. The Smith bill passed at the last legislature says that the polls shall remain open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock at night. That is the provision which Secretary Pool insists should govern.
The Smith law failed to repeal the other provision and that is why both appear in the election statutes. Secretary Pool will call this matter to the attention of the county clerks and will ask them to instruct the various election boards about their duties in this connection.

LADIES' AUXILIARY ENJOYS PLEASANT MEETING YESTERDAY

From Wednesday's Daily.
The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon and were entertained in a most delightful manner at the pretty home of Mrs. C. A. Rawls on West Pearl street by Mesdames Will Wurga and Rawls. There was a large number of ladies in attendance, many of them taking advantage of the pleasant weather. The ladies held a very interesting business session during the early hours of the afternoon at which considerable business was transacted and Mrs. Allison, the president, appointed a committee to see about getting flowers with which to decorate the church auditorium on Easter Sunday. There being no further business the ladies adjourned for a social time and at this time were very pleasantly entertained with some Victrola selections. Prior to the close of this delightful afternoon's entertainment the hostesses served a most tempting luncheon, which was very much appreciated by the ladies. Mrs. Agnes Chapman of Lincoln, a former member of this excellent organization, was present and gave a splendid talk which was thoroughly enjoyed by the ladies. A few moments were devoted to social conversation and then the ladies extended their warmest thanks to the hostesses for the splendid afternoon's entertainment afforded them and departed for their homes.

World Film corporation presents the five-part photoplay, "Marrying Money," in which Clara Kimball Young is starring, based upon the successful play of the same name.

Theodore Vandever and James Sweeney are two young lawyers without clients. Things are going badly with them, and when they are at the lowest ebb, Theodore Vandever gets a notice that he is one of the heirs to his rich uncle's estate. Theodore Vandever is not the only heir. He has a rich cousin, Archie, who is also named as an heir.

Though the will was a great disappointment, Theodore and Sweeney are far from discouraged. They pay their creditors and find that they still have $700 left. They determine, then, to go to Rockville, a fashionable summer resort. They arrive at Rockville and apply for rooms at the hotel. They find that a magnificent suite has already been engaged by Cousin Archie and his mother, who have not yet arrived. The hotel clerk, believing that Theodore is to be in Archie's party, gives Theodore and Sweeney part of the suite. This fact causes everybody in Rockville to believe that Theodore is rich and therefore the ambitious mothers of the pretty girls at Rockville consider him a great catch.

Among the girls at the hotel is Mildred Niles. She is the daughter of a man known in all the papers as "the King of Wall Street." He is reputed to be worth a fabulous sum. As it happens Mildred and Theodore are immediately drawn to each other, and Mrs. Niles looks with favor on Theodore, thinking him rich.

Meanwhile "the King" of Wall Street is engaged in some disastrous speculations in New York. Another suitor of Mildred's is a count, whom Mildred's mother also likes because of his title. He, of course, is principally interested in Mildred's money, but Mildred does not care for him.

Sweeney, when he sees how matters stand between Theodore and Mildred, urges Theodore to elope with her before she finds out that he is penniless. Sweeney is in a particular hurry, as the cash is fast dwindling. Matters go from bad to worse in Wall street with Mr. Niles, and finally he loses every cent. He comes to Rockville to break the news to his wife. She is prostrated. By this time, Mildred and Theodore have become engaged, each one thinking the other rich.

When Mrs. Niles hears of her husband's failure she insists on Mildred eloping with Theodore before the news is made public. Meanwhile, Sweeney gives Theodore the few remaining dollars and tells him he must elope or go broke. So it happens that Mildred and Theodore elope in Mr. Niles' car, each having a false impression of the other.

After they have gone, Archie Vandever and his mother arrive, and on hearing about Theodore having lived in their suite, charge him with being a penniless impostor. Immediately both Mrs. Niles and Sweeney try to catch the elopers to prevent the marriage. They do not succeed, however, and Mildred and Theodore are married.

By this time Theodore has no money left. He confesses to Mildred and she confesses to him. They are in a quandary as to how they will be able to live when the rich uncle's lawyer arrives and tells Theodore that there was a secret codicil to the will saying that in the event of Theodore's marriage he should receive one million dollars. But this fact was to be a secret until after marriage, so that no woman would marry Theodore for his money.

This great picture will be shown at the Gem theater on next Tuesday evening, April 18, and will be the first of the series of high class pictures which Manager Peterson has secured for his patrons. It is one that should not be missed by any one.

DR. TOWNE LECTURES ON BIRDS AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

The lectures delivered yesterday at the high school auditorium by Dr. S. R. Towne of Omaha covering the bird life in America, proved most interesting to the young people of the school and in the evening a number of the older folks attended to enjoy the very able address of Dr. Towne. The lecture embraced several subjects, "How to Attract Birds," "Migration of Birds," "Economic Value of the Birds to the Country" and "The Habits of Birds." Dr. Towne has been delivering these lectures twice a week in the Omaha public schools and was secured by the members of Fontenelle chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to visit the schools in this city, and as a result of his visit he has created an interest in the development and preservation of the bird life of the country which they have not had here before. The lecture was illustrated by a number of slides showing the bird life and the habits of the birds, and throughout was most interesting in every way. The bird life movement has been taken up by the schools here in the last few weeks and as a result the young people are devoting a great deal of time to this fascinating study.
