ANOTHER EXPLANATION OF THE CALF DOINGS AT THE PEOPLES STORE

Editor Journal: In reference to statement in Monday evening's Journal, where you state the proprietors of the People's Store were fined, etc., we kindly ask that you make the following correction (the little item in Wednesday's Journal far from gives us justice). As for us having for sale said calf is as false as hades. It is true we butchered a cow that contained an unborn calf; as it was getting dark out in the country where we butchered, we brought the calf to town for its hide. It could not be possible for us to sell such calf for meat—any fool could see that there was not enough meat on it to sell. Of course we pleaded guilty to having said calf in our possession, were fined and paid the fine. We admit we are greenhorns, having been in America only about three years, and know nothing of its laws. The reason for paying fine simply was we got scared—was afraid of trouble; never was before a court before and never had seen an attorney before we were taken before the judge, and really did not know what to do. They tried to get us for the Egenberger cow that came back, and it seems as though someone wants to ruin our business or run us out of town. Should we ever be caused any trouble again a fine will not be paid so easy. Our eye-teeth are cut now and experience is well worth the price we paid. THE PEOPLES STORE.

LAST SOCIAL EVENT OF THE CLASS OF '16 BEFORE GRADUATION

The last social event of the class of '16 before graduation was held at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dovey on Monday evening, when Charles Dovey entertained his classmates at their farewell. The members of the class, with the faculty and Superintendent and Mrs. W. G. Brooks, were in attendance, and the event will long be very pleasantly remembered. The evening was spent in games and great pleasure was derived from these pastimes for several hours. Superintendent Brooks gave a few very pleasing remarks to the members of the class on their pleasant association during the school life, and Floyd Stone favored the gathering with a fine vocal number. During the evening dainty refreshments were served, which added very much to the pleasure of the occasion. The color scheme used in the decorations was lavender and white, the class colors, and added a very pretty touch to the handsomely arranged rooms. At near the midnight hour the guests departed homeward, feeling that they had been treated most royally in this, the last class gathering they would hold as classmates in school.

VERY FINE STRAWBERRIES

The Journal office today received a box of very fine strawberries from the Alexander nurseries of this city that certainly are toothsome and delicious. Mr. Alexander and son are raising five distinct varieties of the berries and expect to have fifty bushels of the delicious fruit for sale. There is a box of the berries on exhibition in the show windows at the Journal office, where prospective customers can see them.

DELIGHTFUL MEETING OF KNIGHTS AND LADIES OF SECURITY TUESDAY NIGHT

The Knights and Ladies of Security held a most delightful meeting on Tuesday evening at the rooms in the Woodman building, and for the occasion a large number of the members were present. The chief business of the evening was the initiation of seven new members into the order and their instruction into the mysteries of the lodge by the degree team, composed of Misses Nettie Moore, Mrs. Emma Pease, Bertha Bonge, Helen Egenberger, Helen Hunter, Goldie Noble, Mrs. Drusella Franks, Ina Dalton, Opal Fitzgerald, Margaret Wohlfarth, Hermie Windham and Mrs. A. O. Moore. Fifteen applications were passed upon and the applicants will be initiated at the next regular meeting on next Thursday evening. After the business of the lodge had been disposed of the members enjoyed a pleasant social time and in partaking of the dainty and delicious refreshments that had been provided for the occasion.

CLAY TYLER IS IMPROVING

Clay Tyler, who was operated on a few days ago for an abscess in his side, is reported as being on the way to complete recovery and in a week or ten days will be able to be up and around. This is most pleasing news and the friends of this estimable gentleman will be mighty glad to see him back with them.

PICTURES OF TWO CLASS PLAYERS IN WORLD-HERALD

The Omaha World-Herald of yesterday contained a very handsome picture of Miss Doris Vallery and Philip T. Campbell, the two leading characters in the class play of the class of '16, which was presented here last Monday evening. The portraits are excellent of these two young people and very pleasing to their friends. Miss Vallery gave to the play a most charming personality and stage presence that did a great deal toward making it such a splendid success, and it is to be hoped that in the future she may be persuaded to afford the public an opportunity of witnessing more of her ability in this line. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Vallery and a member of one of the leading families of the county.

FINED $100 FOR SPEEDING AND RESISTING AN OFFICER

This afternoon, before Judge Eason, John Riley, the man who was arrested at Eagle last week, charged with speeding and resisting an officer, was arraigned and, after the submission of the evidence, was given a fine and costs amounting to $100, which he paid and was released. This is the case where Marshal Fred Spahnle of Eagle was injured, by falling from an automobile whose driver he had placed under arrest for speeding through that village, and as they turned the corner of the O street road in Eagle the marshal was pushed or fell from the running board of the car, and an attempt made by the driver of the car to dash for liberty back to Lincoln, but was prevented by the car running into a ditch.

WOULD GOVERN RETAIL PRICES

Measure Intended to Protect Standard Goods.

MEETS MUCH OPPOSITION.

Advocates Hold That Some Stores Sell Well Advertised Goods at Loss So as to Induce Customers to Buy Other Things—Opponents Say It Would Drive Little Men Out of Business.

Interest in the so called "Stephens bill," which will legalize contracts between producers and merchants for the resale of articles sold under trademark or special brand at a standard uniform price, has been renewed by the result of the referendum recently held by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The history of this referendum dates back to October, 1914, when a committee was appointed by the National Chamber of Commerce to investigate the subject of the maintenance of resale prices.

After several months' investigation it returned a report giving with detail the arguments for and against price maintenance and ending with this conclusion: "Your committee is convinced that legislation permitting the maintenance of resale prices, under proper restrictions, on identified merchandise, for voluntary purchase, made and sold under competitive conditions, would be to the best interest of the producer, the distributor and the purchasing public or consumer."

Objections were heard from merchants who are opposed to the enforcement of uniform resale prices. The committee was instructed to make a further investigation and submit another report. Percy S. Straus of New York and Frederick H. Rike of Dayton, O., were added to the committee to represent the opposition, and their attitude was well known.

A second report was divided, seven of the members of the enlarged committee reiterating the conclusion of the year before, while Mr. Straus, Mr. Rike and Mr. Armstrong signed a minority report declaring they were "unable to approve of the principle of price maintenance as being in the public interest. We recommend therefore that no federal legislation be enacted on the subject at this time."

Chamber Holds Referendum. As a result of this divided report the National Chamber of Commerce held a referendum to learn the position of its members, and the result of the balloting is a victory for the advocates of price maintenance.

The fight for and against the uniform price principle has been lively. The American Fair Trade league, an organization of wholesalers and retail merchants and producers, was aggressive in the affirmative, while the big city department store, mail order house and trading stamp associations did effective work in the negative. Speakers engaged in joint debate before various local chambers of commerce and boards of trade.

The opponents of standard uniform prices on well known goods are found in the large cities—mail order houses, big department stores, cut rate drug stores and chain grocery stores that insist they have a right to sell goods at any price they please and to use them in any way they please once the goods have been paid for. The smaller retailers and merchants doing business in the smaller towns, as a rule, have favored the standard price proposition, as they seldom cut prices on advertised trademark goods, and they feel the competition of the larger stores that use cut prices as an advertisement and to give the impression that they sell all articles at correspondingly low prices.

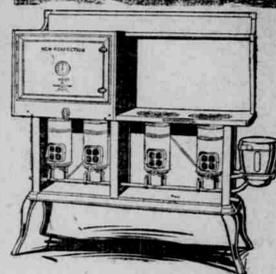

Advocates of the principle of uniform prices have urged that cut prices were used by big business to crush little competitors; that low prices on well known brands of goods were made solely with the intent of luring customers into their stores where they would buy other goods on which the prices not only had not been cut, but had actually been raised.

Several bills relating to the subject are now pending in congress. Two bills, similar in general tenor, but different in details, were introduced by Representative Dan V. Stephens of Nebraska. Senator Ashurst introduced in the senate a bill identical with one of the Stephens measures, and Senator Borah of Idaho has also introduced a bill along the same lines.

The Stephens bill is permissive in its provisions and is in no sense compulsory. It merely provides that a grower (meaning the farmer) or producer of an article sold under a trademark or special brand may register it in Washington and file a schedule of the prices at which the article is to be sold at wholesale and at retail. The producer or manufacturer is required to make uniform terms to all dealers and all consumers. Merchants who desire to handle the goods must sell them at no more and no less than the schedule prices.

Objections to the bill are based on the claim that it is in the interest of producers and that it will give them the power to control prices to their own advantage and to the detriment of the retailer. The measure is also declared to be cumbersome in its provisions and to have such an endless amount of red tape that it would complicate simple business affairs.
