

EVERYTHING SEEMS LOVELY FOR THE HOME COMING WEEK

The success of the "Home Coming" week in this city seems to grow brighter each day as from all sides comes the most flattering reports of the awakened interest of the former residents, who are eagerly awaiting the time when they can once more gather in the old home town and enjoy pleasant associations with the old friends and neighbors as well as become acquainted with the younger generation that is now assisting in the life of the community. Chairman Windham is quite busy arranging this feature of the fall festival and developing a great many interesting facts that will prove very valuable in making the event a big success. It is hoped to be able to restore the oldest residence in the city as a part of the program of the celebration and have it as one of the points of interest for the great event. This is the Micklewait house, that as far as can be determined was the first house erected on the townsite of the city, and sheltered the family of one of the founders of the city and later the first mayor of the then struggling frontier settlement at the edge of the plains, where the wild Indians held sway who are now only a vanished memory. The committee having in charge this feature of the fall festivities met last evening with Chairman Windham and perfected their organization and will at once prepare the literature to be used in connection with the homecoming part of the program. It is expected that one day of the week will be devoted especially to this feature and the reunion of the old settlers and pioneers be made more pleasant with short addresses and stories by the old residents of the county and the former residents. Coates' hall has been placed at the disposal of the committee for meetings during the week of the festival and it is also expected if the weather conditions are good to have one of the meetings held in the park. The program will be prepared with a view of furnishing the best of entertainment to all those attending and the committee will at its meetings add different features until it is fully occupied for the entire week of the festival.

FRIENDS ASSIST IN CELEBRATING WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

From Saturday's Daily. On Thursday evening, June 15, a number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Barnard gathered at their home in Mynard to help celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Barnard were in Plattsmouth attending the band concert, and when they returned they found that their friends had taken possession of their home during their absence and were enjoying themselves while awaiting their return. The evening was spent in music and singing and social conversation. Mr. and Mrs. Barnard had a mock marriage for the benefit of their friends. They were attired in their original wedding clothes, of five years ago, and also the same flower girls that were in attendance at that time were on duty again. They were Miss Helen Livingston, Miss Mattie Gopen, Miss Opal Cole and Miss Loretta Propst. The wedding march was played by Miss De Ella Venner and the marriage lines were read by the "Rev." W. B. Porter in a very impressive manner. W. C. T. U. HELD INSTITUTE AT UNION ON THURSDAY

From Saturday's Daily. The ladies of the Women's Christian Temperance union held a most interesting institute Thursday, June 15, at Union, in which a number of the organizations of this county participated. The study for the day was "Plans for Campaign Work for Nebraska Dry in 1916," and was very much enjoyed by those in attendance. The state president, Mrs. Claffin, was present, and reported fifty-two new unions in the state. Those who were in attendance from this city were Mrs. P. E. Ruffner, Charles Troop, George A. Kaffenberger, Mrs. J. E. Wiles and Miss Elizabeth Spangler.

WALTER BOX CAUGHT IN A CORN SHELLER

From Saturday's Daily. On Tuesday morning at about 10 o'clock, while shelling corn at the Harry Marshall farm, Walter Box was working on top of the corn sheller when he fell into the feeder gear of the machine and the cogs took hold and were gradually biting out the skin and flesh under the arm at the shoulder on the side. Considerable flesh was torn away when fortunately the chain driving the gear broke. He most probably owes his life to the fact that this chain broke. A physician was called and his injuries were attended to. Mr. Box feels fortunate that he escaped as well as he did.—Elmwood Leader-Echo.

A COMPANY THAT IS DESERVING OF GREAT SUCCESS

From Saturday's Daily. The visit of the Moore-Eddings Stock company to this city has afforded the opportunity of witnessing a fine series of first-class plays, and while here the ladies and gentlemen of the company have felt the handicap of the bad weather, which has affected the attendance at their plays, but nevertheless they have labored to give the people the best in their command, and those who have witnessed the plays have felt well repaid as this company is composed of strictly ladies and gentlemen, as well as most clever performers. This evening the company will present as their last appearance in this city the drama, "Rob, Or Behind the Scenes." This play will be one of the best shown by the clever organization and with the exceptionally pleasing specialties makes an evening of rare entertainment. While here the actors and actresses have made many friends, whose best wishes they will take with them wherever they go.

ANDREW RABB, JR., AND MISS ANNA MAURER MARRIED

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the court house occurred the marriage of Mr. Andrew Rabb, Jr., and Miss Anna Maurer, both of this city, the marriage ceremony being performed by County Judge Allen J. Beeson. The young people were attended by Miss Margaret Rabb and Mr. Max Pries. Following the ceremony the young people were tendered a reception at the home of the parents of the groom, in the northwest part of the city, where the newlyweds received the congratulations of their relatives and friends. Both of the contracting parties have made their home in this city since childhood and both have a large circle of warm friends, who will learn of their marriage with the greatest of pleasure and trust that the future years may be filled with the greatest of happiness. They will make their home here in the future, where the groom has a pleasant home awaiting the coming of his bride. Last evening a serenade was tendered the bride and groom-to-be at the Rabb home by members of the Bohemian band and a very merry time enjoyed until the wee sma' hours, when the friends departed, extending their heartiest best wishes for a happy wedding day.

A FINE LOCATION FOR A SMALL CITY PARK

From Saturday's Daily. To those who have visited the plot of ground where the old brick yard formerly was located, on Washington avenue, as well as the lot just west of it, there has come a realization that here would make an ideal location for a small park and recreation spot for the residents of the west and north part of the city, and its location makes it a central point for almost everyone in the city and it could at very little expense be made in a most acceptable place for a park. The tract of land is of good size for a park and is quite scenic, with several small knolls scattered through it that could be beautified, and already has a good start of grass that, with a little cultivation, should make a splendid appearing greensward. A few trees could be set out in the place that would add to the general beauty of the place and assist and make it a comfortable spot for the young and old.

The north and south sides of the city have small parks and it is time that the west side had a recreation sport of this kind, and one more centrally located could not possibly be secured and it being located on one of the principal avenues of the city it would make a great addition to the appearance of that section of the city.

MORE PARTICULARS REGARDING ZACH T. SUTLEY ELOPEMENT

The Sixty-Eight-Year-Old Nebraskan Hesitates to Break News to Father-in-Law.

From Saturday's Daily. St. Louis, Mo., June 16.—Convention week means much more to Zach T. Sutley, 68 years old, of Plattsmouth, Neb., than the mere nomination of a president and the selection of a party platform. It begins his honeymoon with his 35-year-old bride.

The wedding has been kept a secret because Sutley does not want his 86-year-old father-in-law to know of the elopement.

The bride until Monday was Miss Anna M. Bard, she came all the way from Ganado, Tex., to wed Sutley and visit the convention.

Mr. Sutley was a former member of the legislature of South Dakota. His first wife died several years ago. His only son is a namesake of William Jennings Bryan, a personal friend.

Mrs. Sutley is the daughter of a wealthy land-owner at Ganado. Her father is critically ill at his home and Mrs. Sutley will be unable on this account to accompany her husband to Nebraska after the convention. Instead she will return to her home to care for her father.

Sutley met Miss Bard two years ago in Omaha, Neb., while she was visiting a sister.

Sutley, who has attended three other democratic national conventions, received a visitor's ticket to the St. Louis session, and invited his prospective bride to meet him in St. Louis.

AN INTERESTING PROGRAM AT THE M. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL

A very interesting program of music was given yesterday morning at the opening hour of the Methodist Sunday school by the members of the men's Bible class, under the leadership of Attorney A. L. Tidd, their teacher, as the men took full charge of the service, and with a chorus of twenty-five voices proceeded to render a well selected program.

This active participation of the men of the church in the Sunday school work is most pleasing to every member of the congregation and demonstrated what a force the men can be in a Sunday school when they throw their whole energy into the work. The attendance was quite large and the occasion one that was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

FINE ATHLETIC EXHIBITION AT K. S. HALL SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Yesterday afternoon a most pleasing athletic exhibition was given at the K. S. hall on West Locust street that was attended by quite a large number to enjoy the drills and exercises which were put on by the turners representing the K. S. organizations of Omaha, South Omaha and Plattsmouth. The men's turning classes from the metropolites were on hand and put on a very pleasing exhibition with their exercises, both on the apparatus and in the different drills, while the girls' gymnastic class of the local society put on a number of most pleasing drills that demonstrated their skill in this line of work and won the hearty approval of all who were fortunate enough to be present. The girls' teams of Omaha and South Omaha failed to catch the train to reach this city in time to take part in the exercises of the occasion, but the teams from that city which were here put on some very interesting as well as difficult work and won much applause from the auditors. The close of the afternoon was spent in dancing and the enjoyment of a fine social time that was indulged in by a large crowd. The Plattsmouth orchestra furnished the music for the occasion.

ONE OF THE VERY EARLY PIONEERS OF CASS COUNTY

While in the city Saturday, in conversation with D. A. Young, one of the old residents of the county, we learned a few facts of much interest as to the early history of Cass county and Plattsmouth. The father of Mr. Young, William Young, came to Cass county in 1854 and pre-empted the farm that is still in the possession of the Young family, and where W. R. Young, a grandson of the original possessor, is now engaged in farming. At the time the Young family came to Cass county Plattsmouth was only a sparsely settled community, with five or six families and a few log buildings that served as stores and trading posts. Mr. Young relates that his father told of seeing the wild prairie hay cut and stacked where Main street in Plattsmouth was later laid out, and as the settlers arrived the town was laid out. The Young family were residing at Glenwood when the husband and father decided to locate in the new territory of Nebraska and it was near the Iowa city that D. A. Young was born, and in 1855 the family removed to this side of the river and settled on the place they still own and farm. The first house erected there was of logs and for many years sheltered the sons and daughters of Squire William Young until they grew to manhood and womanhood. This log house later was torn down and reconstructed, and still stands in the yard at the old home with the great logs defying the ravages of time and is an object of great interest to all who have seen it as one of the earliest homes in the entire county.

NEW DAUGHTER MAKES HER APPEARANCE

The many friends in the county of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Baumgart will be pleased to learn that they are now the proud and happy parents of a fine little daughter that arrived at their home at LeMar, Neb., on last Monday, and the mother and little one are both doing nicely. Mrs. Baumgart was formerly Miss Dora Kaffenberger of this city.

Bowel Complaints in India.

In a lecture at one of the Des Moines, Iowa, churches a missionary from India told of going into the interior of India, where he was taken sick, that he had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him and believed that it saved his life. This remedy is used successfully in India both as a preventive and cure for cholera. You may know from this that it can be depended upon for the milder forms of bowel complaint that occur in this country. Obtainable everywhere.

There is no better time than this to stop and think of the advantages of "shopping at home"—in Plattsmouth. With all markets upset, merchandise scarce and many colors not fast, there is necessity of substitution in many stores.
But when you buy at home you are among friends and the quality of all merchandise is guaranteed and all claims are quickly adjusted. Because of this personal, year in, and year out contact with our trade we refused to buy inferior qualities and colors when we selected our stocks, and you'll find that here all merchandise is of the kind that is trustworthy in the broadest sense of the word. Plattsmouth and this store is particularly this year your safest place to trade.

DARING ENTERTAINMENT WITNESSED BY HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE

From Friday's Daily. Last evening Artilla, the "daredevil," furnished a great entertainment for a large crowd of people on Main street when he performed his famous feat as "the human fly" by climbing up the front of the Bank of Cass county building, as well as the First National bank building. This young man uses no ropes or ladders in his work, but scales up the sides of the buildings with only the use of his hands and feet, and certainly is remarkably clever in this line. He does the work rapidly and one has scarcely time to realize the feat is being carried out until he is on top of the building. He not only climbed up the First National building, but also ascended the flag staff on top of the building, and did several stunts for the entertainment of the crowd. Artilla will return to this city, probably on Saturday, June 24, when he will climb up the side of the Cass county court house, and this will be well worth seeing as the building is of a style that is quite difficult to scale and the "human fly" will give a great thrilling exhibition.
