Pollock Parmele arrived home last night on No. 10, suffering from a fractured right leg which he sustained yesterday while at work on his ranch, located between Hay, Springs and Alliance. Pollock was engaged in rounding up several yearlings on the ranch to brand them, and while he was engaged in branding one of the animals in the branding lot on the ranch the animal launched a vicious kick that resulted in the fracturing of the right leg between the knee and ankle. Realizing his condition, the injured young man remained quiet until the arrival of a surgeon from Alliance, who had him taken to that city, where the injured limb was set in the hospital in that city and Mr. Parmele placed on the east-bound Burlington train for Lincoln, where he was met by his father, C. C. Parmele, and was able to make connections with No. 10, reaching here last night. He is getting along nicely and resting as easy as possible under the circumstances, and everything seems favorable for his speedy recovery from the accident. At the time of the accident Jack Parmele and George Dovey of this city, who are at the Parmele ranch visiting, were the only ones present to assist the injured young man, as the other men on the ranch were engaged in their work in other sections.

BURLINGTON ASKS EMPLOYES TO CON- SIDER BEFORE VOTING

From Wednesday's Daily.
Trainmen and yardmen of the various railroads have been notified that they will be asked to vote on whether they will support by a strike the demands made by the four brotherhoods of the railroads regarding the eight-hour day. The conference in New York last week between the representatives of the railroads and of the trainmen, enginemen and yardmen terminated without an agreement being reached.

The Burlington railroad, through H. E. Bryam, the vice president, has issued a statement to its employees, asking them to weigh the facts carefully before casting a vote that might destroy the amicable conditions that prevail on the road at this time. The circular states that all of the present road schedules are based on a ten-mile-an-hour basis, and that a change to a twelve and one-half-mile-an-hour basis in road service, at the ten-hour rates, would be entirely unfair to the company.

VAUDEVILLE SHOW GIVEN AT GRAND THEATER TONIGHT

From Wednesday's Daily.
The vaudeville attraction which was billed to appear at the Airdome last evening found the weather conditions not favorable for showing and consequently did not attempt a performance, but this evening they will show at the Grand theater, which will be prepared for them, and here they can put on their excellent and refined performance with comfort to themselves and their audience. This company is perhaps the best of its kind that has appeared in this city and it is to be regretted that they have suffered the handicap of bad weather as everyone in the company is an artist and deserves a full house to witness their performance. Those who desire to spend a short time in the enjoyment of a first class show should not miss it tonight. The company is the best that ever visited Plattsmouth—and as musicians they just can't be excelled.

From Wednesday's Daily.
Z. T. Sutley of this city, who was in attendance at the national democratic convention, has returned home and feels very well pleased with his sojourn at this great meeting of the hosts of the democracy of the nation. His presence at St. Louis was the source of great pleasure to his old friends from our neighboring state and he was selected as the vice president to represent South Dakota in the convention, and from his seat on the platform was able to hear clearly the speeches of the leaders of the party. He states that the ovation given Colonel Bryan as he delivered his speech before the convention was one of the most thrilling features of the gathering and the masterly addresses of Chairman Glynn and Senator James were such as can be heard only once in a lifetime. ## ORCHARDS MUST GET MUCH CARE

Nebraska Fruit Grower Says That Drainage and Pruning Are Two Essentials.

TREES SHOULD BE SPRAYED

From Tuesday's Daily.
J. Smith, recognized as one of Nebraska's authorities upon fruit growing, has written the marketing committee of the Commercial club in Omaha a letter outlining the possibilities of commercial apple orchards in Nebraska.

He says that commercial apple growing in Nebraska is not an easy enterprise, and requires careful preparation of ground in order to gain successful results.

The land must be fertile, with good drainage, and should be carefully cultivated for at least one season before planting the trees.

Prepare the Soil.

The fall before the orchard is planted the ground should be deeply plowed. Then in the spring it should be disced and harrowed and the trees set hole about sixteen inches square, thirty feet apart in every direction, in All broken and damaged roots should be removed before planting, and most mellow earth should be placed about the roots.

Mr. Smith advises careful consultation with market experts and with the Nebraska Experiment station at the state farm at Lincoln in order to determine varieties to be planted.

Pruning is Essential.

Trees should be properly pruned and headed back when planted, and pruned annually afterward. Corn, Potatoes and other crops may be grown between the rows for the first six or seven years.

The trees will then begin to bear, and after that should have a clear field, unless they grow too rapidly, when the orchard may be seeded down with red clover for a couple of years.

The clover may be mowed, but should be allowed to rot on the ground.

Bear for Fifty Years.

The trees will increase in bearing, and at ten years of age should yield four bushels of first grade apples annually, if they have received proper care. They will continue to increase in yield until they reach a maximum of about fifteen bushels per tree. There are some bearing trees near Omaha fifty years of age.

Twig blight and canker are the two most feared diseases. Smith says that the Illinois canker, the most contagious of the apple disease in this district, can be cured if cut out in the early stages of growth, and the wound carefully disinfected and painted.

FINEST VAUDEVILLE COMPANY EVER SEEN IN PLATTSMOUTH

The Musical McDonalds appeared at the Grand theater last evening and the occasion was one that attracted quite a good sized audience to enjoy the rare treat offered by this fine aggregation of ladies and gentlemen. The company offers a number of pleasing specialties during the progress of the evening's entertainment that are all first class and well worthy the time of anyone as they are clean and refined in every way. The McDonalds offered a comedy and music sketch last evening, "Getting Murphy's Goat," which gave them an opportunity of introducing some very clever work. Smith and Lewis in their song and dance number were very pleasing and won much approval for their efforts in this line. The scream of the entertainment was the sketch "The Boss of the House," in which the members gave a most laughable takeoff on the woman suffragette in her management of the affairs of her household, which served to bring a hearty laugh from everyone. Don't fail to see them tonight.
