U. S. SCOUTS AND CARRANZA ARMY IN BATTLE

Nearly Score of Pershing's Cavalry-men Slain By Machine Gun Fire of De Factos Near Carrizal.

DEFACTO LOSSES ARE DOUBLE

Seventeen Taken Prisoners By Constitutionalists, Juarez Commander Reports.

El Paso, Tex., June 21.—American and Carranza troops fought a bloody battle today only a few hours after President Wilson's 6,000-word rebuke yesterday to General Carranza had gone forward to Mexico City. With which side victory rested is not known.

The engagement took place on the Santo Domingo ranch, near the Mexican town of Carrizal, which is nine miles southwest of Villa Ahumada, the Mexican field headquarters in northern Chihuahua. This is about ninety miles south of the border.

The number of dead, American or Mexican, was not definitely known here tonight, but nearly a score of General Pershing's men are said to have been killed, and the Mexicans are said to have lost more than two score.

Seventeen Taken Prisoners.

Seventeen Americans are declared by Mexican officials to have been captured and to have been hurried to Chihuahua City under adequate guard. A machine gun used by the Mexicans is reported to have done heavy execution.

The Americans engaged are thought to have been members of a troop from the Tenth cavalry, a negro regiment, returning from a scouting trip to Guzman. The size of the Mexican force, whose commander, General Felix Gomez, was killed, is not known.

News of the battle was received in Juarez early this afternoon by General Francisco Gonzales, Carranza commander of the military zone of the border.

Keeps News Secret.

For some reason or other, General Gonzales kept the story secret until late in the afternoon, when an American, J. C. Hubble, returning to the border from the interior, brought to El Paso the news that he had seen numbers of Mexican dead along the Mexican Central railroad tracks at Villa Ahumada, and had been told that there had been an encounter with the "Gringos."

General Gonzales' first step after confirming the news was to issue a statement placing the blame on the American commander. He charged that the American troops fired first on the Mexicans, and that their shots were directed at a courier who had just presented to them a request that they retire.

Do Not Believe Statement.

American army officers declared absolute disbelief tonight in General Gonzales' assertions. The opinion was expressed that if the Americans fired on the Mexicans they did so because it was necessary in order to insure their own safety. General Trevino's recent warning to General Pershing not to send his troops east, south or west of their positions was recalled.

Excitement spread in El Paso as extras were issued and the news became known. Quiet was maintained, however, in view of General Bell's frequent admonitions that his soldiers could take care of any situation that would arise. While awaiting instructions from headquarters at San Antonio, General Bell kept his entire force in readiness for instant action. In the meantime, however, word came from Juarez that all was quiet, although the news of the battle was widespread there.

Crosses the River.

Andres Garcia, Mexican consul in El Paso, crossed the Rio Grande following the first reports of the engagement and remained with General Gonzales through the night. He kept in touch with General Bell on the American side by telephone, however. Neither the consul nor the Mexican military authorities would discuss reports of the proposed evacuation. A large number of citizens of the town were busy loading their household goods on vans and other vehicles, ostensibly to transport them to the south.

Numbers of persons gathered about the plaza immediately when the news of the battle became public, but there were no demonstrations.

Mexicans apparently confined themselves to speculation as to the consequences. Heavy patrols were thrown into the streets with instructions to put down any disorder.

At General Gomez' headquarters a victory for Mexico was being claimed. The scene in the front room of the comandancia, where the younger officers were gathered, was holiday-like. Several of them, speaking of the battle, said "we won."

Retain Composure.

They remained composed, however, and made little other reference to the incident.

Juarez first learned of the fight in vague form in the early afternoon. The civilian population then began to pack their household goods. Many had already left for interior points by the morning train in anticipation of the trouble. Others crossed to El Paso later in the day.

A curious scene of the late day was a procession of civilians carrying arms. In age they ranged from small boys, not as tall as their guns, up to bent old men. Most of them were in the ragged dress of the peon, but some belonged to the better class and wore good clothes.

Warlike activity was first noticed at the railroad yards, where a string of freight cars lay coupled to several day coaches that bore the name of the army corps of the north. A number of men were employed there in stowing sacks of beans and flour, bales of forage and other army supplies. Late in the afternoon a rather large body of Mexican cavalry passed through the town toward the hills. Many wagons filled with women and children were bound also in that direction.

RECRUITS WANTED FOR IOWA COMPANY IMMEDIATELY

This morning Lieutenant W. C. Rathke of Company I, Iowa National Guard, and D. N. Barnett of the same company were in the city visiting and seeking recruits to complete the full strength of their company. Company I now has an enlistment of fifty-five members, and it is desired to have it reach the full war strength of sixty-five men, and should anyone here desire to enlist in the service they should call on Lieutenant Rathke or Mr. Barnett this evening as the boys from Glenwood will leave tomorrow morning for Des Moines, to join their regiment, the Fifty-fifth Iowa, which will be encamped there preparatory to being sent to the border. The state of Iowa will have in the neighborhood of 4,000 men in camp and ready for service by the middle of next week.

Those who are desirous of seeing service in the army should look up the members of the Iowa company this evening as their supply will soon be made up.
