VERY PRETTY JUNE WEDDING SATUR-DAY EVENING

The Services That United Miss Alice Irene Tuey and Mr. Ashel H. Barnette Very Beautiful and Impressive.

One of the prettiest of the June weddings occurred Saturday evening at the First Methodist church when Miss Alice Irene Tuey was united in the bonds of holy wedlock to Mr. Ashel H. Barnette of Linn Grove, Ia. these two loving hearts.

"Lohengrin" was played by Mr. E. be able to return home. H. Jennings of Springfield, Mass., as matron of honor, and Miss Hazel Bonine of Omaha, cousin of the greom, and Miss Clara Austin of Geneva, Neb., as bridesmaids. The groom and the members of his party met the bride at the platform, where the minister was awaiting the coming of the party. The groom was accompanied by Mr. C. C. Sherlock of Dea Omaha, J. R. Jennings of Spring field, Mass., and Chester Tuey of this city as groomsmen.

As the bridal party entered from the side aisles the two little ribbonbearers, Helen Wescott and Helen Beeson, entered the center aisle with their streamers of snowy white ribbons which stretched along either side of the aisleway where the bride was soon to come. Masters Edgar Wescott and Robert Hall came with baskets of rose petals which they scattered in advance of the bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, Mr. J. E. Tuey. At the station in front of the platform the minister, Rev. F. M. Druliner, pronounced the words that was to join until the JOHN JENKINS VISITS end of time the hearts and lives of these two most estimable young people. As the wedding party stood before the minister awaiting the ceremony that was to make them one, Miss Clara Mae Morgan sang very sweetly, "Oh, Promise Me," by De-Koven, at the close of which the wedding ceremony was performed.

As the wedding party left the church they were taken at once to the home of the bride's parents, on South Eleventh street, where a reception was tendered to the relatives, and the happy young people showered with the well wishes of those near and dear to them. The bride and groom left the same evening for Omaha by auto, and from that city departed for Colorado, where they will enjoy a two weeks' honeymoon, and on returning will visit in this city and in Iowa for a short time until they go to Linn Grove, Ia., where they will make their future home.

The ladies of the wedding party were all gowned most charmingly in white net, the bridesmaids and matron of honor carrying showers of white daisies and the maid of honor, Mrs. Ward, roses. The bride carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and wore the flowing bridal veil.
