ATTORNEY GEORGE COVELL OF OMAHA DIED YESTERDAY

From Wednesday's Daily.

Yesterday afternoon at his home in Omaha George W. Covell, one of the old and prominent members of the bar of Nebraska, passed away after an attack of congestion of the brain and other causes incident to old age. Mr. Covell was for a number of years one of the leading attorneys of this city and during his residence in the state has always been in close touch with the old friends in this city.

George W. Covell was born April 2, 1835, in Hoosic, N. Y., and was for several years an instructor in Genesee college, prior to coming to the west in 1857. He then located at Maryville, Mo., and for a number of years engaged in teaching, later taking up the practice of law and rapidly forging to the front in this profession. He later came to Nebraska City, where he resided for a short time, and in the early eighties came to Plattsmouth, where he engaged in the practice of law. While in this city Mr. Covell was a partner of the late Judge Samuel M. Chapman, and while here was one of the forceful members of the bar. Mr. Covell was a man of rare attainments and his friends here were limited only by those who met him. He leaves to mourn his death, Mrs. Elizabeth Covell and a daughter, Anna Covell. Mrs. Covell has been one of the prominent ladies in the temperance work in the state in the last few years.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express to our kind friends and neighbors our deepest appreciation of their loving kindness and assistance to us at the time of the death of our beloved husband and father, John Kelly, sr., of Manley, and we also desire to thank the friends for the beautiful floral remembrances at the funeral. May these kind friends be treated as generously and kindly in their hour of grief. Mrs. John Kelley and family.

DR. J. S. BROWN TO REMAIN IN MYNARD FOR HIS HEALTH

Dr. J. L. Brown arrived in Mynard Saturday morning and will remain with his daughters, in hopes of regaining his health, which has been failing for some time. Dr. Brown was operated on in March at the Nicholas Senn hospital in Omaha, but failed to get the desired relief from his sufferings, and has been confined to his bed at his home in Burwell for the past five weeks, and was very weak from his trip. At present he is under the care of a South Omaha physician, and it is to be hoped that he will again be restored to his former health. Mrs. Leonard of South Omaha accompanied the doctor to Mynard. Mrs. J. L. Brown arrived Sunday afternoon on No. 2 from Omaha and will assist in the care of Dr. Brown, who is still in a very critical condition.

FROM NEAR WEEPING WATER.

Wm. Spangler, one of the Journal's mighty good friends from near Weeping Water, was in the city for a few hours last Saturday, visiting with old county seat friends. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Stella. The Journal acknowledges a pleasant call from him.

Attorney William Delles Dernier of Elmwood accompanied by "Ted" Jeary came up last evening and visited here for several hours with friends, while Mr. Delles Dernier looked after some matters in court.

OLD RESIDENT HERE.

From Tuesday's Daily. Theobald Rhin, a former resident of this city and vicinity, was here yesterday visiting with his old friend, Peter Madsen and other of the old associates, as well as his son, Phil Rhin. Mr. Rhin is now living at Highland, Ill., and is bound for Sidney, Neb., to look after some business affairs before returning to his home in the east. He left here seven years ago and was very much surprised to note the many improvements made here.

FARMERS' CONGRESS MEETS AT INDIANAPOLIS

Commends Administration for Handling of Mexican Situation—Eight-Hour Law.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 17.—Governor Ralston and Mayor Bell delivered addresses of welcome to the 1,500 farmers and delegates interested in the advancement of agriculture when the Farmers' National congress convened today for its thirty-sixth annual meeting. Every section of the United States is represented. Men of national reputation in agricultural circles are listed as speakers.

Prosperity, preparedness and conditions, including the Adamson eight-hour law, were among the subjects discussed by H. E. Stockbridge of Atlanta, Ga., president of the congress. In part he said:

"The American farmer has never seen so general or widespread a period of agricultural prosperity as that of the present year. Though the farmer may still fail to receive his fair share of the consumer's dollar, the milk producers of New York, the wheat growers of Minnesota, the hog raisers of the corn belt and the cotton growers of the south are too busy counting profits to worry much over the other fact.

"We are told by misinformed parties that the farmer is a mere incidental beneficiary from the general prosperity resulting from the foreign war demand for American products. Careful study, however, shows no justification for such assertion.

"It is primarily the products of our soil which have made profits for our merchants, and have overburdened our transportation facilities. Those who argued to the contrary have simply mistaken effort for cause."

Mr. Stockbridge in speaking of the danger of war for this country referred to Mexico and said: "I conceive that the threat of most imminent danger lies with our neighbor south of the Rio Grande." He praised the administration for its manner in handling the situation, but took occasion to condemn the poor facilities for mobilizing and equipping an army."

Referring to the recent railroad strike situation, Mr. Stockbridge said the farmers must be considered as employers of labor, and economically the farmer is not a laboring man. Calling attention to the assertions that the eight-hour work day is a non-arbitrable principle, he said no attempt as yet had been made to apply it to farm labor, "yet the farmer was the chief immediate sufferer from the recent attempt at enforcing this principle in another industry.

"I believe that there is no industrial or commercial disagreement which may not be equitably settled by arbitration. I believe that provision for enforced arbitration should be made for such disputes as cannot be adjudicated by mutual agreement. I urge this body to memorialize the federal congress to enact laws toward this and with provision for eliminating the objectionable delays allowed under the similar law of Canada."

ARE MARRIED IN OMAHA.

From Tuesday's Daily

The Journal has received notice of the marriage in Omaha on Saturday, October 14th, of William Albin of Union, Cass county, and Mrs. Mable Williams of Florence, Neb. The wedding was a very quiet one and came as a great surprise to the relatives and friends throughout the county. Mr. Albin has resided near Union for the greater part of his lifetime and is well known to a large circle of friends in that community.
