AUSTRIAN LEADER SEES PEACE NEAR

Victory for Teutons Predicted in Rumania, With Allies Then Willing to Concede.

Berlin, Nov. 13 .- (Via London, Nov. 15.)-Delayed.-The opening of peace negotiations may perhaps be expected with fair prospects of success in the course of the coming winter, according to Count Albert Apponyi, who is visiting Germany to deliver two addresses on Hungarian history, expressed his views in an interview given to a correspondent of the Associated Press in which he discussed the general European situation.

"We cannot expect," he said, "to see peace negotiations opened within the next few weeks, while the Rumanian campaign is still undecided. However, I regard our chances for success there as excellent and once Rumania s crushed, I think both sides will be willing to consider the question of peace. Rumania was the entente's last card and is proving a losing one We are massing a big army against the Rumanians and I think that the and will come shortly. Of course our progress on the Transylvania front is a bit slow, owing the the great difficulties of the country and particularly to the deficiency in rearward communications. These communications are far poorer than in the west or even in Galicia and Rumania. However, the entry of Rumania into the war has in New York, Nov. 15 .- The American many respects really been advantag-

To Welcome Neutral Mediation.

Count Apponyi was asked if he thought the impulse to start peace discussions could come within the camps of the warring powers or whether an outside impetus, in the form of a tender of good offices from a neutral personage or power would be necessary. He replied that he saw no reason why neutral mediation should not be welcomed when the opportune moment to which he had referred should arrive, and added, that he knew of no reason why President Wilson should not be acceptable as an

"We feel, of course," he said, "that President Wilson has not treated us fairly and that he had departed from the way of strict neutrality, but even though one floes not like a person, that is no reason for rejecting his services when these may be useful."

Sees Russian Menace.

The Hungarian statesman believes that the war should not only end because of what he regards as the futility of further hostilities, but because of his expressed conviction as to the menace of Russia. He declared that the western states of Europe bust band themselves together for defense against Russia, which country he characterized as the great menace to the future peace of Europe and the world. In his opinion, France's ef forts to regain Alsace-Lorraine are domed to failure and the republic may as well reconcile herself to peaceful and friendly relations with her eastern neighbors. He holds that Great Brit. through this conflict has departed ain has made an abortive effort to appeal to arms, but that there is noth- seeing diplomacy by which the westing essential in the character of the ern states of Europe can arrange for three nations to prevent their union protection against the disturbing eleas friends.
