

A VERY PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING

Miss Gertrude Beeson and Mr. Herbert Cotton United in Holy Bonds of Wedlock at the Methodist Church.

The First Methodist church last evening was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Miss Gertrude Beeson was united in the bonds of holy wedlock to Mr. Herbert H. Cotton. The ceremony was simple, yet impressive, and a large number of the friends of the contracting parties were present to witness the nuptials.

The bride was very charmingly gowned in white satin with lace and wore the flowing bridal veil of lace which was trimmed in pearls and held in place with a cap effect of the lace.

Following the wedding the guests were entertained at the home of the mother of the bride, Mrs. Allen Beeson on North Sixth street, where a reception was tendered the newly weds. The Beeson home was very prettily arranged with decorations of chrysanthemums and ferns, making a very pretty setting for the delightful occasion.

During the hours of the reception Jennings Scivers gave several very delightful vocal numbers as did Miss Clara Mae Morgan in her usual charming manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Cotton departed last evening following the reception for Des Moines, Ia., where they will enjoy a brief honeymoon before returning to this city where they expect to make their home in the future.

WILL PROP UP STATE HOUSE

If Walls Fall, Floors and Ceiling Will Remain Uncertainty With Law-makers Safely In Seats.

The east wing of the state house is to be propped up so that it will be absolutely safe as a meeting place for the members elected to the house of representatives this winter.

Governor Morehead, Secretary of State Pool, State Treasurer Hall and Land Commissioner Beckmann met after the returns were nearly all in, and decided upon this course. Attorney General Reed is a member of the board, but he was not present.

The board acted upon a report and recommendations signed by State Engineer George E. Johnson and J. H. Craddock of Omaha, member-elect to the house, and an architect selected by Governor Morehead to advise the state board.

The board will prop up the floors and ceiling of the defective east wing in which representative hall is situated. This will be done from the basement floor upward, so that the floors will be supported independent of the outer walls.

The story of the work that is to be done to prop up the floors and ceiling is told by Mr. Johnson and Mr. Craddock in their own peculiar style in the following report, which the state board agreed to follow:

"That we put a heavy timber for a sill in basement and a timber plate at ceiling, using 4x4's not over four feet center to center, and shore up basement floor."

"In hall of representatives plate to be braced on floor and at ceiling. Studding on each side of window, 5x6's, to be tied to the window sill of second story windows, and to have lateral braces, making the building absolutely safe. The floors to be free of any bearing upon walls. In this manner we will remove from the minds of the people all fear of collapse."
