ADAMSON LAW TO HIGHEST COURT

Court's Action Merely Step to Place Law Before United States Supreme Court to Test Its Constitutionality.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 22.—Judge Wallace C. Hook, in the federal court here today, held that the Adamson "eight-hour" law is unconstitutional and invalid.

Judge Hook refused to grant the motion put by federal attorneys, asking that the application of the receivers of the Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf railroad for an injunction against the Adamson law, be dismissed.

Judge Hook made his decision at 11:18 o'clock this morning. "My decision was merely to rush the case to the supreme court as rapidly as possible," Judge Hook said after the decision. "I have given the government until 3 o'clock to perfect an appeal to the higher court."

Francis M. Wilson, United States district attorney, and Frank Hagerman, special counsel for the government, intimated that the appeal would be ready "by or before 3 o'clock."

The Court's Decision.

Judge Hook's decision follows: "This is an independent suit to enforce the enforcement of a recent act of congress, commonly called the Adamson law, upon the ground that it is contrary to the constitution. In the character of the averments, the plaintiff's bill of complaint is stated to be typical of a number of bills recently filed by railroad companies in various district courts of the United States. A motion to dismiss has been presented on behalf of the defendant United States attorney. The sole question raised by it is that of the constitutionality of the law. The court is informed that the other cases stand on application for temporary injunctions. To Get It Before High Court.

"An appeal from an order granting or refusing a temporary injunction goes to the circuit court of appeals and not further by ordinary procedure, while an appeal from a final order or decree in such a case would go direct to the supreme court of the United States. In the former a decision would be inconclusive; in the latter a decision would definitely settle the question for the whole country. The motion to dismiss the case here, however it is decided, will promptly result in a final decree from which an appeal will be taken to the supreme court. The assistance of this court has been invoked to facilitate a final and authoritative determination of the constitutional question. The case was presented but yesterday and a decision is desired today. It is far from being an agreeable duty for a judge to record a judicial conclusion without the care and deliberation essential to a conviction that he would stand to in every circumstance. Upon the merits of a case the government neither asks nor receives from a court greater consideration than is required by the settled rules and presumptions of law, but a request by the Department of Justice to aid the progress of a case consistently with the rights of everyone cannot be declined, certainly not for personal consideration.

Law Is Not Valid.

"Upon a consideration of the Adamson law and of what is said of its practical effect and what was intended to be accomplished by it, the judgment is that, as the court construes the terms of the law, it cannot be sustained. Since both parties have said they would not plead further, whatever the decision might be, a decree will be entered for the plaintiffs, reciting that the defendant prays and is allowed an appeal in open court. The case in which the plaintiffs were appointed receivers is in charge of the judge who is acting here. An order will be entered in that case directing plaintiffs and their counsel to cooperate with the Department of Justice in lodging an appeal in the supreme court by December 4 next and in then moving for the advancement thereof for such early hearing as that court may find it convenient to grant; also to invite counsel for the railroad companies and others similarly interested in the question involved to participate in the presentation of the motion to advance and in the arguments on the merits as fully as though their clients were parties to this litigation. Though the decree of the court in the case here will be final in form, yet, because of the exceptional circumstances the plaintiffs will be directed to keep their accounts and be prepared promptly to pay their employes on the basis of the Adamson law should the decree not be sustained."

Your Own Fig Tree.

It may interest you, says the New York Sun, to know that figs can be grown in pots or in the open ground in regions where there are three months of warm weather. The fig is less like the apple and the peach, which ripen all their fruit at once, than like the raspberry and the blackberry, which ripen their fruits continuously through the bearing season. Figs continue to ripen fruit until checked by cold weather.

For pot culture the fig requires about the same treatment as a rubber plant, and if it gets plenty of water the fruit will ripen. Vigorous plants will have fruit in all stages of growth, from the smallest green fruit to the ripe figs ready to be picked and eaten.

Low Salaries In Greece.

No doubt Greek officers, who are very badly paid as compared with the English standard, console themselves with the knowledge that they are probably as well off in the army as they would be in any other profession, for salaries in Greece are all ridiculously low as gauged by those in Great Britain. The highest judges, for example, do not get much more than £200 a year, while many of their less exalted brothers have to make ends meet on about half that sum, with the prospect of a full pension after thirty-five years' service.—London Chronicle.

PROPOSED LAW TO HIT HIGH PRICES

Chicago Congressman Says He Understands There Are Combines.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Congressman A. J. Sabath of Chicago, conferred with United States District Attorney Clyne Tuesday on a proposed law aimed at the rise on food prices.

Sabath said he had information that there are combines in food products, such as potatoes, eggs and butter. He is drafting a bill which he believes would prevent such speculation.

Warehouse owners and cold storage men will be hardest hit in Sabath's bill, which would regulate the time food can be kept in storage. He would also provide for a congressional investigation of the food situation and a special appropriation to enable federal district attorneys to push their fight on speculators.
