AMERICAN CAPTAIN REFUSES TO LOWER FLAG

Steamer Chemung of New York Torpedoed by Submarine Off the Spanish Coast.

London, Nov. 28.—Lloyds reports the sinking of the American steamer Chemung.
The Chemung sailed from New York on November 8th for Genoa and Naples and stopped at Fayal, Azores, November 20. She was owned by the Harby Steamship company of New York, was built in 1888 at Buffalo and was 327 feet long, of 3,062 tons gross.
The crew of the Chemung has been landed at Valencia by the Spanish steamer Giner, says a Reuter dispatch from Valencia today.
The Chemung was torpedoed near Cabo de Gata, according to the dispatch.
The steamer foundered with the American flag flying, it is added, the captain having formally refused to lower the flag.
The submarine towed the crew to within five miles of the coast, the Valencia advises state, and then abandoned them. At the end of the day they were picked up by the Giner.
Cabo de Gata, or Cape Gata, is a promontory of Spain on the coast of Andalusia, forming the eastern side of the Gulf of Almeria, an arm of the Mediterranean.

New York, Nov. 28.—The Harris Magrill Steamship company representatives here of the Harby Steamship company, owners of the Chemung, reported sunk today, said the vessel carried general cargo, no munitions or cargo owned by the Italian government being on board.

The ship was commanded by Captain John L. Duffy and carried a crew of thirty-five men, the majority of whom are believed to be Americans.
The crew list of the Chemung filed with customs officials here shows that only ten of the men on board, including Captain Duffy, were Americans, the others being Greeks, Russians, Spaniards and Mexicans.
The manifest of her cargo, filed on date of sailing, shows that it consisted mainly of iron and steel products, chemicals, dried fish, wooden staves, etc. Included in the cargo were 5,146 pieces of copper and 200 bales of cotton.

Report to Washington.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Official report on the destruction of the American steamer Chemung by a German submarine was received by the State department late today from the American consul at Valencia, Spain. He said all on board had been landed safely. As there was no loss of life, nor apparent violations of Germany's pledges, the case is not regarded as alarming.
In the long argued case of the Frye, Germany agreed that an American ship carrying contraband and sunk because a submarine could not get her into port should be paid for in full. The amount of damages is thought to be the only subject for negotiation in the present case.

Some fellow from the construction train struck Charley Nichols (by mistake it is supposed) with a sling-shot, on Christmas night as he was going in to Leach's to buy some candy for his children. Too many drunken men on the streets. It won't do. His name is John Grophan and he was hauled up before Judge Sullivan this morning. Trial at 3 p. m.

CHARLES AULT AND WIFE MOVE INTO THEIR HOME

The report of Major Stinecomb's death reached us early last week, but that proved incorrect. He died last Wednesday at his home in Adams county of consumption. He was a man of considerable ability, served gallantly as a soldier in the rebellion under Steadman and was a lawyer of no mean requirements. He will be remembered here as a partner of Mr. Wheeler's for a short time. He lost his first wife and the mother of the boys known here, at Omaha where he resided a short time. After her death he moved to Adams county, married again and took up a homestead. He was a genial whole souled man—peace to his ashes.

NURSE RELIEVES MUCH SUFFERING

The Patient She Helped Makes Interesting Statement.

Madison, Wis.—Mrs. Oscar Day, of 1606 Monona Ave., Fair Oaks, this town, says: "Before my baby was born, I suffered terribly with womanly troubles and nervousness, and was living in a state of fear all the time. One day, an old friend of mine, who, by the way, is a nurse, and goes around to all cases, brought me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and told me to keep on taking it right along. I did, and felt much better after the first bottle. I kept on taking it, and had as little trouble as anybody could wish for. Feeling very good now.
There never was a better medicine for women than Cardui, and I will recommend it to any one who is in need of it. This nurse uses Cardui with her patients, so it is well known all around here.
I am never without a bottle of Cardui in my home."
We urge you to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, for your troubles. It will help you over the hard places, just as it has thousands of other women.
Don't delay. Begin taking Cardui today. You won't regret it. NCB5

AUTO SPEEDERS ARE GIVEN FAIR WARNING

The warning issued by the city council to the auto speeders as to driving fast on Washington avenue should be heeded as the police committee have instructed the city police to see that the offenders are compelled to face the music for their violation of the speed laws. The new paving is a sore temptation to the auto driver tired of riding over the bumpy roads to strike a nice mile stretch of paving, and very few can resist the desire to "open 'er up" a little and try out their machine, but they must beware, as the police will be on the lookout and the costs of speeding will be added to the high cost of living if they are not careful. The avenue runs through the ward of Councilman Buttery, chairman of the police committee and he is prepared to see that the ordinance and state law is observed in every sense of the word by those traveling over the paving with their autos. Let the speeder beware.

RESERVE BOARD WARNS BANKS

Important Admonition Does Not Reflect on Financial Status of Allies.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—American bankers were warned by the federal reserve board to avoid locking up their funds by purchasing treasury bills of foreign governments involving long term obligations.
While specifically disclaiming "any intention of reflecting upon the financial stability of any nation," the board advises all investors to proceed with caution and formally announced to member banks of the federal reserve system that with the liquid funds which should be available to American merchants, manufacturers and farmers in danger of being absorbed for other purposes it "does not regard it in the interest of the country at this time that they invest in foreign treasury bills of this character."
The statement is regarded in official circles as one of the most important declarations by the board since its creation.
Officials would not discuss the question of publication, but some of them informally interpreted the warning as the reserve board's answer to the recent proposal of J. P. Morgan & Co., British fiscal agents in this country,
