STANDARD OIL CO. PRESIDENT DEAD

Showed Business Ability at an Early Age and Caught Eye of Rockefeller.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Dec. 5.—A noted figure in the world's petroleum industry was removed today when John Dustin Archbold, capitalist, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and officer or director in various other enterprises, died at his home here after two weeks' illness subsequent to an operation for appendicitis. Death came at 4 o'clock this morning.

Funeral services will be held Thursday. While the services are taking place Tarrytown's industries will suspend operations.

Mr. Archbold is survived by his widow, a son, John F. Archbold of Thomasville, Ga., and two daughters, Mrs. M. M. Van Buren, of Newport, R. I., and Mrs. Amar O. Sanderson, of Lyndhurst, Eng.

Mr. Archbold was a native of Ohio and was 68 years old. In early life he was an oil refiner and buyer in western Pennsylvania and in 1875 he became associated with the Rockefeller interests, that continued until his death.

His father was a Methodist preacher, who died leaving his family quite poor, and at the age of 12 young Archbold began his business career by lighting fires in the country schools and doing other odd jobs around the town of Leesburg.

Every penny he could scrape together he gave his mother to help support the household, meanwhile studying Latin at night with the village schoolmaster.

When oil was discovered in Pennsylvania he was 16 years old. He joined the first rush of adventurers to the oil fields and secured a position as office boy with a small oil firm in Titusville.

His faculty for quickly grasping the financial details of the business gained him rapid promotion, and at the age of 19 William H. Abbott, his employer, took him into the firm as a partner.

Young Archbold upon receiving his recognition of his ability, jumped into the harness of the business with renewed vigor and began to specialize on problems of transportation. A year later the firm became largely interested in a refinery in Titusville, and because of the rapid expansion of the business it was decided to open an office in New York.

Although only 20, Mr. Archbold was selected for this important post and went to the metropolis and secured offices. He not only directed the business of his own concern in New York, but took on the additional responsibility of handling oil for others, and in a short time he had built up an extensive business.

Mr. Archbold's ready wit and un-failing humor enabled him to more than hold his own with the older men in the oil business, and he soon became recognized as an important factor in the industry.

At this time John D. Rockefeller was already a notable leader in the petroleum industry and upon his arrival from the middle west he was confronted by young Archbold, who proceeded to convince him that crude oil which was then selling at a remarkably low figure, should instead be marketed at $4 a barrel.

Mr. Rockefeller was so impressed with the young man's enthusiasm that he promptly made him an offer of employment, which Archbold accepted. In 1875 he was made a director in the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and later its vice president, in which capacity he continued until his election to the presidency in 1911. He was prominent in various government investigations of the oil industry.

He was interested in many other things outside the oil industry, particularly Syracuse university, of which he was president of the board of trustees. He was a director of St. Christopher's Home and Orphanage in New York. He was also active in the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the American Museum of Natural History.

THE ST. MARY'S GUILD MEETS WITH FATHER LEETE AND FAMILY

From Wednesday's Daily.

The St. Mary's Guild met yesterday afternoon at the Rectory with Father Leete and family to arrange the final details of the Christmas Shop that is to be held in the Hotel Riley block on Friday and Saturday of this week. The ladies spent the time in finishing up the dainty articles of needlework that they will offer for sale as gifts for the Christmas season, and the array promises to be the finest that the guild has ever been able to offer to the public in the way of dainty and acceptable Christmas gifts. The ladies have in addition to the beautiful handkerchief sent them by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson for sale at the shop, received from ex-President William H. Taft, an autographed photograph that will be placed on sale. Mr. Taft is sending the photograph in place of a handkerchief and it will be found a splendid souvenir of the former president. The request was made of Mr. Taft by the Leete family, with whom he is a personal friend, and he graciously responded by adding his contribution to the good work. During the afternoon refreshments were served, which added to the pleasure of the ladies and the session was one of much pleasure as well as profit.

TEMPORARY MANAGER OF BURLINGTON LUMBER YARD

From Wednesday's Daily.

C. C. Jackson of Paducah, Ky., has arrived in the city and will have charge temporarily at least of the lumber yard of the Burlington in this city, which has been looked after by Storekeeper Hill since the death of Mr. J. H. Kuhns, the former foreman of this department. Mr. Jackson has had charge of the railroad lumber yards at Metropolis, Ill., where a large bridge has been constructed across the Ohio river between Paducah and Metropolis, and he is a man well versed in the handling of the lumber business. The Burlington has not as yet made any permanent appointment in regard to the lumber yard, but it is thought that Mr. Jackson may be located here permanently.

SLIGHTLY INJURED BY A STAIRWAY COLLAPSING

From Wednesday's Daily.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Chilcott and daughter, Mrs. Elmer Witherow, and Mrs. C. E. Barger of Seattle, Wash., motored from Union to this city yesterday afternoon for a short visit with friends and to attend to some business matters. Mr. Chilcott was a pleasant caller at this office. While here Mr. Chilcott was telling us that on last Friday he was ascending a temporary stairway at the new house being built for his sister when the stairway suddenly collapsed, letting him fall to the floor below, a distance of eight feet. Mr. Chilcott was unconscious for some time and suffered a number of severe bruises, but was very fortunate in that no bones were broken.

THE Q. Z. SOCIETY MEETS WITH MRS. L. O. MINOR

From Wednesday's Daily.

The Q. Z. society of the Presbyterian church held a delightful meeting at the pretty new home of Mrs. Lynn Minor on High School hill yesterday afternoon. A short business session was held, but the greater portion of the afternoon was devoted to fixing the dolls and arranging the Doll Bazaar which they will hold Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at the Warga & Schuldie store. At a suitable time the guests were given permission to lay aside their work, and were invited to partake of a dainty luncheon which was provided by the hostess. A little further time was devoted to a very pleasant social time and then the Q. Z.'s vended their way homeward, having thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

COULD NOT WALK

And For Four Years, Could Not Stand Without Support.

Chillicothe, Ohio—"Nothing pleases me more than to speak a word of praise for Cardui, the woman's tonic," says Mrs. Ed Davis, of this town, "for I firmly believe that it snatched me from the grave.

I have been married 14 years, and had two children. After the youngest was born, I was not able to walk, and for four years, I was not strong enough to stand on my feet five minutes at the time, without something to support me.

Nothing seemed to do me any good, until, finally, I commenced using Cardui, the woman's tonic. I only used about four bottles, but, today I am well, can do my work, and walk as far as I want to.

I can never praise Cardui enough, and my neighbors cannot get done wondering at the change in me."

You, too, can depend on Cardui, because Cardui is a gentle, harmless, vegetable tonic, that can do you nothing but good.

Prepared from vegetable herbs, Cardui has a specific effect on the womanly constitution, and puts strength where it is needed. Try Cardui.

VETS FOLLOW UP STOCK DISEASE

Cattle Owners Cautioned in Nebraska Cases of Stomatitis in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Dec. 5.—Dr. Anderson, state veterinarian, after an investigation of the conditions which have prevailed relative to the foot-and-mouth disease among cattle, has issued the following statement:

Owing to the fact that the stockmen of this state are confronted with a disease affecting horses and cattle, known as vesicular stomatitis, and owing to the fact that it has become pretty widespread and as a result the state has received uncomplimentary advertising, and it is transmitted largely through the public stock yards, livery barns and public drinking tanks, I deem it my duty to ask every person in this state who has in their possession any animals affected with this disease to isolate them and to treat them with some appropriate mouth wash or antiseptic until the animals have recovered; to hold under observation all exposed animals for at least eight days. The well animals should be prevented from getting food or water mouthed over by animals with sore mouths. The premises where infected animals have been kept should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected with a 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid or a 3 per cent solution of liquor cresolis compound, or their equivalents.

With the hope that we can get a liberal co-operation of the stockmen who own animals that are affected with the disease in question, I deem it will not be practical to establish a general quarantine, although some states are quarantined against us on account of this disease and the prospects are they will remain so for some time. If we could get the hearty co-operation of all persons who have stock in their charge of barns, yards and other accessories where the disease is spread, it will then be possible to relieve the situation without establishing a general quarantine. Where we find it impossible to get the co-operation of some individuals, we will then establish a special quarantine to take care of these conditions, as in our estimation will be advisable to conform with reasonable and sane sanitation.

THE DEATH OF MRS. BRUCE H. MILLER

From Wednesday's Daily.

Death came to the relief of Mrs. Bruce H. Miller at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon and after years of suffering and invalidism her gentle, womanly spirit found peace at last that passeth all understanding.

For a long time it was realized that the end was inevitable—that the resources of medical science and tenderest care were unavailing. The beginning of the end was two weeks ago and the end drew steadily nearer until she sank to sleep, exhausted.

Mrs. Miller's maiden name was Louise Heinrich. She was born in St. Jacobs, Ill., December 6, 1883, and while she was still a child the family moved to Plattsmouth, Neb. Eight years ago she came to Peoria and on November 22, 1909, became the bride of Bruce H. Miller. She was a beautiful girl whose womanliness and winning ways endeared her to all with whom she was brought in contact and life seemed fair with promise of happiness until illness fastened upon her. Her husband's devotion never swerved and his care was constant and of supreme affection. Three years of companionship was vouchsafed them before the shadows fell.

Mrs. Miller is survived by her husband and by her parents, three brothers and two sisters, the latter residing in Nebraska. Her sister, Mrs. Ed. Lutz has been with her for several days and the balance of the family will arrive for the funeral which takes place from the residence, 1504 North Jefferson avenue, at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.—Peoria Journal.
