"SATAN," THE DESTROYER OF HUMANITY

Deals With the Work of Its Titular Character From the Beginning of the World Down to the Present Time.

The High Art Feature company is offering the above seven-reel feature which in episode form unfolds a drama reaching from the beginning of the human race down to the present time. It is allegorical in nature, in that the personification of Satan moves on the screen in each period of the drama influencing other characters of the play to forsake the "Straight and Narrow" for the "Easier" way.

In the twelfth chapter of Revelations we read: "And there was war in Heaven. The Dragon called Satan, and his Angels were cast out, and have been abroad in the land ever since tempting men to do evil." You are being tempted daily. Are you wavering? Satan has a big pull, but remember you must choose whom you will serve. You cannot serve two masters.

If you are undecided see "Satan, the Destroyer of Humanity."

The first part of the picture deals with the temptation in the Garden of Eden, when Satan appears in the form of a serpent, tempting Adam and Eve, who are then driven from the Garden of Eden across a desert waste to rear a race of men doomed to suffer "Eternal Woe." Succeeding episodes deal with the betrayal of Christ by Judas, the crucifixion, burial and resurrection. These events are portrayed with such dignity that the most critical are pleased.

The middle ages form the background for the machinations of Satan. He invades the sacred precincts of a monastery, corrupting its inmates with the lure of gold. The closing scenes set forth a drama of the present in which modern folks in their vain pursuits of pleasure encounter the evil one and go down to ruin before him. It is an epic tale of everlasting human woe, and is enlightening and entertaining to both scholars and laymen. A never ending source of beauty, wonder and thrills to all.

This big feature film masterpiece will be shown at the Air Dome Monday.

CLASS OF 1917 IS THROUGH

The Parmele Crowded to Its Utmost Capacity to Listen to the Exercises of Graduates of the High School.

The class of 1917 of the Plattsmouth high school last evening at the Parmele theatre completed the last step in their four years in the high school, when they stepped forth upon the stage as graduates and laid behind them the happy, care free school days, to prepare for their encounter with the world in which they will henceforth have a vital part to perform. It was a pleasing sight with the thirty-seven young people seated on the stage in cap and gown and each adorned with the red roses, which had been chosen as the flower of the class, and each of the class representing the efforts of the four years' course of study.

The Plattsmouth high school can well feel proud of the class of 1917, representing as it does the best of the young manhood and womanhood of the city, who have striven so earnestly in their work that success might crown their efforts in completing their education.

Eight young men and twenty-nine young ladies comprised the class, as follows: Anna Josephine Weber, E. Glenn Elliott, Edna M. Tulene, Will H. Schmidtmann, Anna A. Hiber, Ruby M. Winscott, C. Burdette Briggs, Ira Frances Crook, Joseph G. McMaken, Helen Livingston, Catherine Bintner, Alpha Victoria Hillstrom, Ruth Elizabeth Mann, Katherine G. Gorder, Ida Tschirren, Florence M. Persinger, Katherine M. Schrack, Abbie M. Brown, LeNora Snyder, Edna Mae Warren, Agnes L. Bajack, Albert A. Janda, Jessie E. Todd, Charles Everett Spangler, Grace H. Nolting, Beatrice Elizabeth Seybert, Will M. Nolting, Eva LaRue, Ethel Euclare Tritsch, Della Frans, Lelia B. Duff, Ida Constance Ledgway, Adelia Sayles, Frank S. Pala-sek, Irene Truscott, Mina Kaffenberger.

The invocation was pronounced by Rev. T. A. Truscott as the audience which filled the theatre to its utmost capacity stood to have the blessing of the Divine Ruler called down upon the occasion.

Miss Della Frans, one of the gifted members of the class, opened the program with a most pleasing piano solo that was received with much pleasure by the members of the class and the audience.

For the honor of delivering the salutatory the class had selected Will Schmidtmann, who took as his subject "The Spirit of the Age," touching upon the different phases of events that had served as the ruling spirit of each of the periods of time since the beginning of the world in which we live, and reaching the modern period in the world's history, depicting education as the great factor that had been found in the present age of the world, and which had contributed to the advancement of mankind to the present day, and for which the young people of today were striving to attain. Mr. Schmidtmann also in behalf of the class extended the welcome to the parents, friends and citizens of Plattsmouth to the graduating exercises. The address was one that showed much study and thoughtful preparation and expressed the feeling of the class as to the value of the education that they had received in the schools of this city to fit them for the battle of life.

Miss Beatrice Seybert, the valedictorian of the class, bid farewell on behalf of the class to the golden days of school time, with its close friendships, its fond memories and grateful remembrance of the work of the faculty of the school, in fitting the students for their part in the drama upon the stage of life. Miss Seybert had as her subject "The Headquarters of Civilization," taking up the Greek and Roman civilizations of the dawn of the world and the gradual sweeping away of the two great nations whose place had been taken by other nations in the press of time. In America the highest type so far of civilization could be found today where the best of all the nations of the earth had gathered and formed a great nation that was to still farther carry out their mission in the world. To make the citizenship perfect it was necessary to drive out all vice or influence that might tend to detract from the development of the race and to permit America to take its proper place as the leader of the world's civilization. The speaker expressed the hope that in the coming years the last obstacles to the development and purification of the race might be swept aside and America come forth as the cleanest and greatest nation of the earth and would serve as a guiding star for all the world.

Miss John W. Faller favored the class and audience with one of her usual charming solos, which was a delight to everyone present and was received with marked approval by everyone present. Miss Verna Cole served as accompanist for Mrs. Faller.

The class address was delivered by Rev. G. E. Newell of the Third Presbyterian church of Kansas City, Mo., and was one filled with great interest. The theme of the address was "Paying the Full Price," and was one filled with many thoughts of great value to the graduating class and the audience. The personality of the human race, physically, mentally and spiritually, was taken up by the speaker and a number of examples of the leaders of the world were taken up as showing the success that can be attained in the affairs of the world and the price that must be paid to accomplish the goal, and this was up to the man or woman who would be called upon to pay the price to attain their ambition. In the fields of trained athletics there was a price to pay in clean living and avoidance of the things that would tend to undermine the welfare of the body and handicap the development of the physical side of man. The many days and years of study that were necessary for mental attainment were all a part of the price demanded in payment for the success of the positions that the great figures in the world had attained. To the spiritual side it was also necessary to pay by clean upright lives that the men and women might attain their desired aims and be brought in closer touch with the Divine Ruler, that their hearts might be attuned so that they could have a spiritual force in the world.

At the conclusion of the address of Rev. Newell, Superintendent W. G. Brooks announced the awarding of the scholarship to the honor graduate, who had the highest average for the four years' work in the school, and this was given to Miss Anna Weber with an average of 93. The three others ranking the highest in the class were: Katherine Gorder, 92; Florence Persinger, 91; Jessie Todd, 90. The lowest average in the class was 71.

The diplomas were presented to the class by Secretary E. H. Wescott in a few well chosen words and the graduation time of the class of 1917 passed away into the sea of golden memory of those who comprised the class.

Dr. G. E. Newell while in the city was a house guest of Rev. and Mrs. H. G. McClucky, with whom he was a student at the Princeton university while studying for the ministry.

CORN CONTEST BY CASS COUNTY PUPILS

In the corn growing contest that has been held among the pupils of the schools of Cass county for the last year, the rewards of the prizes has been made by the judges who were selected to inspect the work of the boys from all sections of the county. The first prize, a handsome gold medal, which was presented by the Nebraska Farm Journal, was awarded to John Brandt, a young pupil of Factoryville school, while the second prize, a silver medal, was presented to Willard Timblin, of the Alvo schools. These medals are beautiful and will be cherished as tokens of the excellent work performed by the young men in the developing of the corn growing industry. The engraving on the medals was donated by J. W. Crabil, of this city, and will give both of the boys a token that they can cherish and appreciate in the years to come.

These corn growing contests and other forms of increasing the interest in the farm work and the development of an intensive agricultural spirit are proving one of the big vital factors in the educational lines in Nebraska, and Miss Eda Marquardt, county superintendent, feels well pleased at the showing that the pupils have made in this line of study.
