The mail order houses are once more sending back the money for sugar orders, but nevertheless are keeping the rest of the buyers' money and filling the balance of the orders sent in. They will not sell sugar at the price quoted in their catalogue. Though it is one of their principal baits to secure customers, they have the effrontery to continue to send the ago Secretary Cunningham of the ping by checking up all cars and seedollars were involved in the orders on which the money was sent back before.
