Abdication of King Constantine May End German Intrigues at Athens.

Prince Alexander, New Ruler, Will Probably Favor the Entente Allies.

Paris, June 13.—The fall of Constantine I, king of the Hellenes, who abdicated yesterday in favor of his son, Prince Alexander, is taken as the beginning of Greece's allegiance to the allies and an end to the German intrigues at Athens.

The vigor with which the French senator, M. Jonnart, on special mission to Athens as the representative of France, Great Britain and Russia, began the settlement of the Greek problem in obtaining the abdication of King Constantine and Crown Prince George, has caused much satisfaction. That he will succeed in helping Greece to get on her feet again in the shortest possible time, notwithstanding many difficulties which still remain, is the unanimous opinion. The new Greek ruler, Prince Alexander, Constantine's second son, is expected to prove friendly to the allies.

The Saloniki expedition has been attacked by many in France as useless, but everyone is agreed that the force once there ought to be given every opportunity to accomplish its purpose. It was admitted that with the perpetual menace of a stab in the back from the Greek royalist army, that the expeditionary force was doomed to partial inaction. Encouraged by the moderation of the entente allies, whose over patient policy was attributed largely here to the opposition of the late Russian regime to strong measures, Constantine eluded most of the guarantees extracted from him during June and December of last year and continued his intrigue with Germany. The blockade alone kept him from active hostility. If he could get the Thessaly crops into his hands, not only would the entente allies lose a weapon, but he would add considerably to the difficulties of the Venizelist forces who counted on gaining a part of the crop. M. Jonnart, after a series of rapid consultations with the entente allied ministers and with the Greek premier, Alexander Zaimis, decided upon quick and drastic action and proceeded to Saloniki, where he arranged with General Sarrail for military assistance.

Both the former king and Prince George, it was announced by Premier Zaimis, intend to leave the country immediately. It is reported that they will embark on a British warship and proceed to Switzerland by way of Italy. It is presumed that Prince Alexander will take up his kingly duties with full acceptance of the ideas which the protecting powers desire to be put into effect in the government of Greece during the present war. He is 24 years of age and has been free from anti-entente proclivities.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

The Loyal Daughters of the Christian church tendered their new teacher, Mrs. M. L. Dietz, a very pleasant surprise Tuesday evening. After Mrs. Dietz had somewhat recovered from her surprise, the evening was devoted to a most enjoyable social time, interspersed with instrumental music.

During the course of the evening's entertainment the Loyal Daughters presented their teacher with a hand-painted tea pot as a token of remembrance of her good work as a teacher of their class. At a suitable time dainty refreshments were served, and at a late hour the merry company wended their way homeward, declaring they had thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Those in attendance were: Ina and Fay Crook, Bentall and Orfa Stone, Viola Stander, Florence and Mollie Hansen, Mrs. Conner, Mrs. Pickett and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Dietz.

PAYS LARGE SUM FOR GRAIN.

For the past twenty-two years W. E. Gillespie, the Mynard grain man, has been engaged in business, and today wrote the largest single check that he has ever paid out for grain sold and delivered. Glen Perry delivered at the elevator 6,412 bushels of corn at the market price of $1.55 per bushel. The check paid Mr. Perry was for $9,939.65, and is quite a neat sum to be paid out for the products of the farm.

DELCO LIGHT SYSTEM WINS WHEREVER TRIED

In the Journal today will be found the advertisement of the famous Delco lighting system, of which Isy Rosenthal is the agent for Cass and adjoining counties. Mr. Rosenthal has a great faith in the power of advertising and has placed his advertisement on the basis of securing results no results, no pay for the advertisement. For all inquiries and sales of the Delco system from this advertisement the Journal will receive full pay for the ad and otherwise the ad will not be paid for.

Those who have used the Delco Delco light system in their homes are very enthusiastic over the system that permits the farm home to be illuminated by a system of electric lights equal to any in the world and which is being found in increasing numbers in the homes of the prosperous farmers of Cass county. If those who are interested in good light for the home would visit any of the homes named in th advertisement where the Delco system has been installed they would find a demonstration of the truth of our statement that the Delco light is something that no farm house can readily afford to be without.

Inquiries phoned to this office will receive as prompt attention as those mailed to Mr. Rosenthal's address in Omaha.

REFORM TALK IS NOW DEAD IN PRUSSIA

German Press Has Abandoned Discussion of the Reform Question.

Government Becomes More Arrogant After Russia's Internal Trouble.

Copenhagen, June 13.—The convention of the radical party in Prussia at which resolutions on various reforms were passed, serves to call attention to somnolence of the political reform movement after its phase of activity synchronizing with the Russian revolution and America's entry into the war.

The German press has practically ceased discussion of the reform question and nothing is being done toward the modernization of the diets of the federated states and nothing is now being heard of the flood of proposals to extend the electoral franchise and abolish or reform the hereditary and appointive upper houses in almost all states of the empire.

The policy of Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg, and the conservatives to defer the attempt to reform the Prussian three class franchise until the end of the war prevailed against the demand for an immediate reform voiced by the socialists and radicals. The delay in taking up this urgent reform until the restoration of peace was treated as a matter of course by socialist speakers. Philip Scheidemann, chairman of the reichstag reform committee, is busy at Stockholm with an attempt to detach Russia from the entente allies and has abandoned for the time being interest in the work of the committee.

There are two previous reasons for the decline of the reform movement. One is the cockiness of the government, which feels very sure of its strength, and position in view of the collapse of Russia's offensive power and of the fading effect upon the reform movement of the Russian revolution war declaration against German autocracy. The second is the usual tendency of reform movements to run themselves out after a brief period of spasmodic activity if reformers are allowed to have their heads for a time.

AN ECHO OF 1892.

It seems but yesterday since the giant riding device, which was patented by Mr. Ferris and named the Ferris Wheel, was erected on the Midway of the Chicago World's fair and majestically revolved for the entertainment of those who had courage to take passage in one of its cars. The merry-go-round, which for years has brought joy to the hearts of the kiddies, was but a pigmy in comparison to the Ferris Wheel. The size of Mr. Ferris' achievement was so great that it really awed the patrons of the fair. They were afraid of it. For several weeks it was a failure from a business standpoint. People hesitated about riding on the wheel. It was just a trifle too high in the air to suit folks. Undaunted, the wheel kept right on going round and round, much to the amusement of visitors from all parts of the globe, who stood around with mouths wide open, but didn't buy tickets. After days of weary waiting on the part of the management there came a change in the public attitude toward the giant Ferris Wheel. The people had observed that a ride on it was a novel and safe pleasure. Finally, everybody rode, and the day was saved for the promoters of the scheme. Ever since the Chicago World's Fair, traveling amusement aggregations have carried a Ferris wheel of some sort. The Tom W. Allen shows are no exception. The wheel is the very best to be had. It was built by C. W. Parker of Leavenworth, Kan., who is the largest manufacturer of out-door amusement devices in the world. It is constructed of the best material and after tested plans and specifications. It is absolutely safe and is operated by competent and gentlemanly attendants. From its height beautiful views of the city may be had. Take a ride on the Ferris wheel tonight.
