Levi Patton, who has been occupying an apartment on the second floor of the building occupied by Lew Russell, yesterday morning had the unpleasant experience of having his best suit of clothes lifted by a stranger, and who, but for the very prompt action would have made good his escape.

It seems that on Saturday two men started out from Omaha in a skiff to make the trip down the Missouri river for the south, and when they had reached this city in the evening, were unfortunate enough to have their craft overturned near the Burlington bridge, when they were rescued from the deep by a number of fishermen. Coming on up to the business part of the city the men secured a room of Mr. Russell for the night, until they could arrange to continue their trip. One of the men arose early Sunday morning, and while his companion was peacefully sleeping he proceeded to relieve him of $2 in cash, and visiting the room of Mr. Patton nearby, garbed himself in the glad attire of Levi and made his escape. It was only a few minutes later that Mr. Patton returned to his room and discovered that the clothes were missing, and at once notified Mr. Russell, and this is where Lew displayed some real talent in the sleuth line, that would have done credit to W. J. Burns. Mr. Russell at once had Levi hauled to the Burlington station to see that the man did not go to Omaha on the early Burlington train, and also notified John Richardson at the ferry to be on the watch for the stranger. It was only a short time afterward that Mr. Richardson telephoned up that the man wanted was at the ferry, and Sheriff Quinton visited the ferry and brought the man back to town and lodged him in jail. This morning Sheriff Quinton took the stranger to Omaha, where he promised to join the army for service, and in failure to do this will be arraigned.

RAINS OF RECENT DATE CAUSE WASHING OF ROADS

From Friday's Daily.

The heavy rains of the late spring and of the last weeks in June have not in the least benefited the highways in this section of the county, and particularly that leading from this city to the Platte river. From the pavement on Washington avenue clear to the east and west road on the Platte bottom there are a great many rough spots and ruts that certainly need looking after very badly. This is a piece of road that is used a great deal by auto parties traveling through this county into Omaha and should be repaired as far as possible to make travel more comfortable and less likely to jar a person to pieces. The roads south as a rule are much better, although the heavy rains in places has done much damage, and particularly in the low places along the creeks, where there has been much overflow of flood water. With good weather conditions prevailing there should be much travel over the roads through the country during the next few weeks and all steps possible to place them in first class shape by rolling and dragging should be looked after.

ENTERTAINS FRIENDS IN HONOR OF THEIR GUESTS

From Saturday's Daily.

Yesterday afternoon Misses Goldy and Gladys Kaffenberger entertained in a most delightful manner at their home on high school hill in honor of Gene and Rosemary Huntoon, of Rock Island, Ill., and Master William Glenn, of Hamburg, Ia., who have been guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Glenn for the past few days and who departed this morning for their home.

The afternoon was spent delightfully in games and music until a suitable hour, when dainty and delicious refreshments were served by Miss Mina Kaffenberger, the luncheon being served on the large and pleasant porch of the home, and which proved the finishing touch to a most delightful afternoon.

Those invited to this pleasant event were: Glen and Rosemary Huntoon, Helen Roberts, Katherine Shopp, Margaret and Mildred Schlater, Alice Louise Wescott, Alice Pollock, Clara Mae Morgan, Margaret Wiles, Helen and Edgar Wescott, William Glenn.

The Hen That Lays is the hen that pays. If she does not lay, kill her, but before you kill her give her B. A. NEW CHAPTER
IN ESCAPADES
OF DEAF MUTES

Sullivan, who Forced the Girl to Marry Him, is Wanted Elsewhere, and is in Jail Here.

Another chapter was unraveled in the case of the forced marriage of Edward Sullivan, the deaf mute, who came to this city Friday evening with his bride, who later stated to the authorities that she had been forced into the alliance through the threats of being shot. It seems that Sullivan when he called upon James Jelinek for a little financial assistance was recognized by Mr. Jelinek as a deaf mute who had been reported as having worked a number of persons in Akron, O., through misrepresentations and fraud, and Mr. Jelinek at once put the officers of the law on the track of the man. The entire day was spent in trying to get in touch with parties in Chicago who were desirous of getting hold of Sullivan, but sufficient evidence could not be secured until late in the afternoon, when a message was received from Chicago asking the man be held here pending the arrival of officers from Chicago. Chief of Police Barclay at once started a search for the man and it was found he had disappeared, but was caught about 6 o'clock at the wagon bridge north of the city while he was endeavoring to make his way into Omaha afoot. In the meantime an old pal of Sullivan's arrived on the scene from Omaha and related a story of Sullivan having taken his watch and pawned it to secure the funds to come to this city and in this he was borne out by the statements of the unwilling bride of a few hours. Two representatives from the deaf mute institute in Omaha arrived by auto a short time before Sullivan was captured at the bridge and had with them a paper containing a description of Sullivan, as well as the statement he had defrauded parties in Akron out of something like $80. One of the chief dodges worked by the young man was the securing of subscriptions to a deaf mute paper published in Chicago by a man named Sullivan by representing himself as a brother of the publisher. The young man was brought to this city by Chief Barclay and lodged in the county jail to await the arrival of the officers from the east. The unfortunate wife who had been brought innocently into the mix-up was taken care of at the home of friends until she can return to her home in Akron.

CHECKING OVER LIST OF NAMES

From Friday's Daily.

The county board of exemption, composed of Sheriff Quinton, County Clerk Libershal and County Physician Dr. G. H. Gilmore were busy at the court house today checking over the typewritten list of those who will be subjected to the selective conscription act. These lists are prepared from the cards sent in to the war department and are checked carefully to avoid any mistakes in the names or numbering that might later cause confusion in making the draft.

THE E. T. C. CLUB PICNIC AT LAKEVIEW PARK, OMAHA

Yesterday the members of the E. T. C. club of this city, some fourteen strong, marshaled their forces and departed on an early Burlington train for the metropolis, where they were to spend the day picnicking and enjoying one of the times of their lives. At Omaha the members of the invading force were met by Mrs. W. H. Bunch, Miss Minnie Hass and Miss Smith, who accompanied the jolly party to Lakeview park, where the picnic was to be held. In the cool shade the ladies proceeded to enjoy one of the most jolly times in their lives in games and outdoor amusements, with a number of the more fearless indulging in boating, and as a result a general good time was reported by everyone. At a suitable hour the many baskets of the good things to eat that had been brought by the ladies was opened up and from these a most delicious picnic luncheon was served that added immensely to the delights of the day. Mrs. August Mumm, of Missoula, Mont., was a guest of the club.

Doing Our "Bit"

AS distributors of merchandise in this community we desire to do our utmost in keeping down the H. C. of L. during these unusual and extraordinary times. We realize as you do that it is utterly impossible to procure goods at the old prices in any market whatsoever, but by our connection with the United National Clothiers our buying power has been mightily increased so that we own our goods today considerably less than the average merchant. We would be fully justified in selling them at the current high prices. However we feel that perhaps we can serve our country best by sacrificing our profit or at least by sharing it with the buying public and that is our way of "doing our bit." As this is pay-day week we offer you all this week staple, hard-to-get merchandise at practically wholesale prices. Read each item carefully. Certainly you would not ask us to charge them.
