SOCIALIST HEAD ATTACKS GERMAN SUBSEA WARFARE

Majority Leaders Before Reichstag Score Domestic and Foreign Policy of Government.

Copenhagen, July 22.—Berlin newspapers containing the speech of Imperial Chancellor Michaelis and the debate in the Reichstag have not reached Denmark for some reason, but arriving Hamburg papers give more extensive reports of the speeches in the Reichstag than were transmitted by the Wolff agency.

Philip Scheideman, leader of the majority socialists, particularly attacked the submarine warfare. Its adoption, he declared, was a triumph of unscrupulous demagogery with Count von Reventlow and the Deutsches Tages Zeitung playing leading roles. The censorship had prevented effective opposition to the warfare by the press. Scheideman recalled the prophesy made some weeks ago by Herr von Heydebrand, the conservative leader, that the war would be won in two months through the submarine and evoked merriment in the house by adding: "Heydebrand, your submarine watch has run down."

As a weapon to end the war this summer the illusion of the submarine, the speaker added, had broken down, as was inevitable.

Frederich von Payer said that the new chancellor took the same position on the peace situation as his predecessor and that the next two weeks would show what measure of determination Michaelis was ready to apply to give effect to the program laid down in the Reichstag resolution.

Herr Haase, the radical socialist, made one of the longest speeches of the day. He attacked the government's home and foreign policy and demanded immediate peace negotiations, atonement for wrongs committed and the establishment of a socialist republic. His speech is dismissed with a paragraph. Herr Haase demanded the release of Dr. Liebknecht and cries from the floor that the prison were starving Liebknecht caused a tumult in the house.

In the roll call the conservatives and national liberals voted solidly against the resolution of the majority. Five members of the center party also voted in the negative.

PERSHING'S MEN ARE FULL OF ARDOR AND CONFIDENCE

American Training Camp in France, July 20.—Whenever you write home, whether in a private letter or to any newspaper, tell them we are doing finely and that no army ever had a finer spirit or was more confident of winning.

"I have handled troops for a good many years and under varied conditions, but never had a finer set of men, never a more enthusiastic lot than now. It has been a revelation to me to see the splendid spirit that has prevailed since we landed and it argues well for the part America is to play in the war that her initial troops take hold with a vim that is going to prove irresistible."

The first quotation is from a comparatively green trooper, the second from a seasoned officer. Both were made independently to the Associated Press within a few moments of each other yesterday. Both illustrate the wonderful esprit de corps which has evoked the enthusiastic approval of the French. The American soldiers who mingle with them do not appear to underestimate in the slightest the seriousness and earnestness of the task before them, but from the newest rookie to the oldest sergeant they are going through their daily drill, performing their daily work with a dash, vim and cheerfulness that has come as genuine to the correspondent who spent the first two years of the war on the German side and with ample opportunities to witness the perfunctory qualities of the German spirit.

A. W. Propst, accompanied by D. B. Porter, Sherman Austin, Ellis La Rue and Bernard Roddy left Wednesday evening by auto for Plattsmouth, and, joining the former's brothers there, left via the Burlington for Detroit, Mich. They left with the intention of each driving a Paige Six home from the factory for Propst Bros. They expect to be gone at least a week and will take in a few of the sights in the east.
