

The Plattsmouth Journal

PUBLISHED SEMI-WEEKLY AT PLATTSMOUTH, NEBRASKA.
Entered at Postoffice at Plattsmouth, Neb., as second-class mail matter.

R. A. BATES, Publisher

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE: $1.50 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

Old Winter's coming.
The north wind begins cool.
Indian summer is on the way.
Who's to blame for the advance in prices?
Your sore spots are never as sore as you make them.
Some of the worst tyrants in this world are invalids.
There are those who have to live, and they have to eat to live.
Of course you are going to lend a hand, but be sure it isn't empty.
What has become of the woman who looked for a man under the bed?
Ever so often a man runs across a cantaloupe that tastes like a German carp.
Very few men seem to be broken down by the responsibility of great wealth.
The man who enjoys his home usually marries a woman who insists on gadding.
The man who is endured for the sake of children is so conceited he probably doesn't suspect it.
This is a queer world in which a young widow is usually a whole lot older than an old maid.
We have been trying to figure out the end of uncertainty. We failed completely. There isn't any end.
Canned patriotism, if kept in storage too long, may lose all of its value for sustenance. Better open it up.
Down in Tennessee they seem to have the courage of their convictions. They hung two lawyers down there not long ago, and are after the third one.
Speeders are getting it in the neck pretty bad these days. But generally speaking, not any more than they deserve. They know the law, and it is their duty to abide by it.
The difficulty is not so much with our patriotism as with the arousing of it to a complete realization of the dangers which confront America in this world war.

Don't be a slacker.
Freezing weather early this fall.
A stingy man is no use on earth.
Nothing suits Teddy now, it seems.
The people must have cheaper coal.
Some people are too easy to forget their best friends.
One by one the nations of the world break with Germany.
Why is it that the man with the rheumatism can tell when a storm is brewing?
A man who will talk about you behind your back will hit you when you are down.
Too old to fight? Well, try shucking corn as a method of showing your patriotism.
Every newspaper makes mistakes occasionally and the Journal is no exception to the rule.
"God likes to have a little fun," says Billy Sunday. Maybe that's why some people are permitted to live.
Experts say that the war will "be won in the air." But this does not mean that the war will be won by hot air.
An expensive and handsome lodge pin cuts but mighty little mustard as a rule, unless it is worn by the right kind of a person.
The possible elevation of Edgar Howard to the office of Governor seems to be worrying some people unnecessarily. And why?
What is needed at this time is, not a revival meeting, but a revival of the old fashioned sorghum mill. Something must be done to save our cane crop.
Let the federal authorities make the paper manufacturers come down to a reasonable price on their print paper. And then most of publishers can buy a Liberty bond.
"We are probably beginning the last year of this gigantic war of nations," affirms the German Foreign Minister Kuehman. And we believe he ought to know.
The rich man always insists on having everything that is coming to him. That's the reason he is rich. The poor man willingly gives it to him, that's one reason why he's poor.
Much talk is indulged in by those who don't like the idea of sending the boys plenty of smoking tobacco, but while a great many of these particular people die from indigestion by over eating, did you ever hear of a person passing in his chips from smoking too much nasty tobacco?
The trouble with Colonel Roosevelt is simply that his advice has been turned down and the advice of experienced soldiers taken. The lieutenant colonel who escaped ignominious defeat solely because a lot of Negro troops were in hailing distance, has labored under the delusion that he would be a perfectly good understudy for Mars if only given a chance. Fortunately for the soldiers they have not been required to give their training, their health and their comfort into the keeping of an amateur soldier, whose military service is brief and whose military record is mostly bluff.

Ever since the war started, the Germans, parroted by the Austrians, have been prating over that totally bogus issue, freedom of the seas. In their replies to the pope's last peace note they dwelt upon it with the usual crafty insistence. Sober-thinking people of Iowa have been puzzled. So far as they could figure, there had been nothing but freedom of the seas before this gigantic war. Nobody ever heard the seas were anything else than free—very much freer than life in Germany and Austria. No one even attempted to deprive the Teuton empires of the freedom of the seas. German ships plied in every ocean, competing with British and American goods in every market. The Kaiser went steadily ahead with a big war navy. England did not even erect a tariff wall against "Made-in-Germany" goods. There was nothing the Germans could legitimately ask for that was not freely accorded them everywhere in the world. The one thing that excited their wrath and fear was the continuing might of the British navy. They also did not like to see our own navy keeping abreast of the times. But they knew that neither of these navies was a menace to any legitimate German aspiration. England, an island country, was forced to maintain supremacy at sea or carve the moment an enemy declared war. The United States, for the protection of her costs and the maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine, was also bound to have a considerable navy. And it was precisely these things that irked the Prussian war masters. They knew a British navy stood between them and their hopes to bring England to her knees. They knew our American navy, if properly developed, would stand between them and their greedy designs upon South and Central America. They do not want to be thus balked in the future. They want, if possible, to trap the allies into some kind of disarmament scheme that would mean an inferior navy for England and a similar one for America. Then Germany could pursue her evil and sinister plans unhindered. The Pan-German weekly organ "Das Groessre Deutschland" (The Greater Germany) drops the mask by printing an article by Winand Engel which it approves. In this Engel says: "German policy is forced to make secure for itself by all conceivable means domination over the world sea. I deliberately use the expression 'domination over the world sea,' and not the expression 'freedom of the seas' which is so common to

Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

Washing their hands. Mr. Bentley, boyhood crony of La Follette, publicly severs old ties by writing the senator: "As long as you, in war, fight our commander-in-chief, you fight me. You are my enemy and I am yours." Everywhere in Washington statesmen formerly mixed up with pacifists and pro-Germans frantically protest their innocence. Each of a dozen organizations, vaguely pointed out as having nibbled at Count von Bernstorff's $50,000, is still bawling. "G'way! 'Tain't me!" All of which would be funny if it were not so bulging with seriousness and if the moral were not so spirited and so direct—namely: "Never touch anti-Americanism—no, not with a ten-foot pole!" The climate has changed radically since America entered the war. Ours is no longer a temperate zone. Before long it will be torrid. People in any way smirched by former association with spies or with traitors big or little should fumigate themselves while there is time. People still unsmirched should sedulously avoid all danger of getting smirched. Dodge disloyalists as you would the plague. Rather than incur suspicion stay home nights with the shades up and the electricity turned on, for the present odium, is nothing to what will come when the casualty lists reveal disloyalists not only as the nuisances they are now, but possibly as accomplices in murder.—Chicago Tribune.

-WANTED!

Car Load of Live Poultry

to be delivered at poultry car near Burlington freight depot in Plattsmouth, Nebr., on Thursday Oct. 18th. ONE DAY ONLY, for which we will pay in cash:

Hens, per lb.	18c
Springs, per lb.	18c
Ducks, full feathered.	15c
Geese, full feathered.	14c
Old Cox	12c
Cow Hides, per lb.	17c
Large horse hides.	$5.00 Each

Remember the Date. We will be on hand RAIN OR SHINE and take all poultry offered for sale.

W. E. KEENEY

day. The latter expression is either dishonest or stupid. The sea is free for us only if we dominate it." There is the truth about the German canting phrases in a nutshell. When the German and the American kaisers unctuously reply to the pope that they desire the freedom of the seas, they are either dishonest or stupid. In the present instance, they are plainly dishonest. They are lying once more, just as they have lied so often during the course of this war. They want German domination of the seas, not freedom of the seas. And when they gain domination of the seas, they will have all but conquered the world. Remember that.—Des Moines News.

Bring your welding to us. Plattsmouth Garage. Tel. 394.

FOR SALE.

Reo, the fifth five passenger touring car in first class condition. Telephone 583. 10-9-17d&w

GO HAVE A LOOK!

Vallery and Cromwell leave Plattsmouth every Saturday night at 7:45 for Keith, Perkins and Chase counties.

They have the good level black soil that is raising all kinds of small grain, corn and alfalfa. Nobody has any lower prices and better soils. Ask those who have been out. 17-swif

SOUTH EASTERN NEBRASKA.

We have some choice 80, 120, 160, 240, and 320 tracks of land near Sterling, Adams, Tecumseh, Elk Creek, Cook, Burr, Douglass, Vesta, Crab Orchard, Filley and Lewiston, Nebraska. Prices very reasonable and terms good. Call or write. MOCKENHAUPT & CURTAIN, Sterling, Nebrask.

Obey the Law. Order your Osgood Lens. Plattsmouth Garage. All sizes.

For Sale

Barred Plymouth Rock cockerels for sale during the month of October for $1.50 each.—Mrs. William Troop, Nehawka, Nebr. Phone Murray exchange.

ATTENTION COMPANY.

First class Ford car to trade for horse, cow and oats. Call 385-J. Plattsmouth, Neb. 10-9-17d

Call Plattsmouth Garage for service. Tel. 394, also livery. J. E. Mason, Prop.

For Sale—Young horses, especially one 5 month old mare colt, German coach. A beauty. R. D. Dalton, Phone 127-W. 10-12-3td2twkly

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Most Reliable.

After many years' experience in the use of it and other cough medicines, there are many who prefer Chamberlain's to any other. Mrs. A. C. Kirstein, Greenville, Ills., writes, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in my mother's home and mine for years, and we always found it a quick cure for colds and bronchitis troubles. We find it to be the most reliable cough medicine we have used."

The Nehawka Mills

are now Rolling and Manufacturing the "Letter Roll" Flour!

"Letter Roll" Flour needs no boasting, For on the top shelf it now is roosting. The best cooks wherever you go Use this famous flour, you know. They just set their yeast and go to bed, For they know on the morrow they will have good Bread.

J. M.

C. D. ST. JOHN, Prop.
JOE MALCOLM, Head Miller.
For Sale by All Dealers

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

We, the undersigned, hereby associate ourselves together for the purpose of forming a corporation under the laws of the State of Nebraska, and do adopt the following Articles of Incorporation:

Article I.—The name by which this corporation shall be known is FARMERS STATE BANK.

Article II.—The principal place of business of this corporation shall be at Plattsmouth, County of Cass, State of Nebraska.

Article III.—The object for which this corporation is formed is to carry on a Commercial Banking business under the laws of the state of Nebraska.

Article IV.—The authorized capital stock of this corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars, of which at least Twenty Thousand Dollars shall have been paid in at the time of commencement of business, which shall be issued in shares of the par value of One Hundred (100) Dollars each. No transfer of the stock of this corporation shall be operative until entered on the books of the corporation.

Article V.—The indebtedness of this corporation shall at no time exceed the amount of its paid in capital and surplus except for deposits.

Article VI.—This corporation shall begin business on the 22nd day of September, 1917, or as soon thereafter as authorized by the State Banking Board of the State of Nebraska, and shall terminate on the 22nd day of September, 1937.

Article VII.—The affairs of this corporation shall be under the control and management of a board of directors, consisting of not less than three nor more than seven shareholders, whose term of office shall be for a period of one year, or until their successors are elected and qualified, not less than a majority of whom shall be residents of the county in which the bank is located, and counties immediately adjacent thereto. It shall be the duty of the Board of Directors to elect from their number a president and secretary, and select a vice-president and cashier, and they may also select an assistant cashier and such other clerks and assistants as the business of the corporation may require. The term of the officers of this corporation shall be one year, or until their successors are elected and qualified. The board of directors may adopt such by-laws and regulations and the management of the affairs and business of the corporation as it may deem proper.

Article VIII.—The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of this corporation shall be held on the 2nd Wednesday of January each year, at which meeting the Board of Directors above provided for shall be elected. A majority of the shares of the stock of the corporation at any regular or special meeting, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

Article IX.—Until the regular meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, the following named persons shall constitute the Board of Directors: A. J. Schaffer, T. M. Patterson, E. P. Lutz, Mark White and L. G. Todd.

Article X.—Each stockholder shall at any regular or special meeting be entitled to one vote, either in person or by proxy, for each share of stock held.

Article XI.—These articles of incorporation may be amended at any regular or special meeting called for that purpose by a two-thirds vote of all the stock.

Witness our hands this 8th day of September, 1917.

A. J. SCHAFER,
T. M. PATTERSON,
E. P. LUTZ,
MARK WHITE,
L. G. TODD.

(State of Nebraska) ss:
On this 8th day of September, 1917, before the undersigned, a Notary Public in and for said county and state, personally appeared A. J. Schaffer, T. M. Patterson, E. P. Lutz, Mark White and L. G. Todd, to me known to be the identical persons whose names are affixed to the foregoing Articles of Incorporation, and each for himself acknowledged the same to be his voluntary act and deed.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and notarial seal this 8th day of September, 1917, at Plattsmouth, Nebraska.

(Seal) JACK M. PATTERSON,
Notary Public.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
(The State of Nebraska) ss:
In the County Court of Cass County.

In the matter of the Estate of Velocio V. Leonard, Deceased.

To the Creditors of said Estate: You are hereby notified that I will sit at the County Court room in Plattsmouth, in said county, on the 31st day of October, 1917, and the 31st day of January, 1918, at 9 o'clock a. m., to receive and examine all claims against said Estate, with a view to their adjustment and allowance. The time limited for the presentation of claims against said Estate is three months from the 31st day of October, A. D. 1917, and the time limited for payment of debts is one year from said 31st day of October, 1917.

Witness my hand and the seal of said County Court this 27th day of September, 1917.

(Seal)—O. L. ALLEN J. BEESON,
County Judge.

ORDER OF HEARING
on petition for Appointment of Administrator.

The State of Nebraska, Cass county.

In the County Court of Cass County.

In the matter of the estate of Blanche Marsh, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Elizabeth Schwab praying that administration of said Estate may be granted to Elizabeth Schwab as Administrator.

Ordered, That November 2nd, A. D. 1917, at 10 o'clock a. m. is assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a County Court to be held in and for said County, and show cause why the prayer of petitioner should not be granted; and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Plattsmouth Journal, a semi-weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

Dated October 12, 1917.

(Seal) ALLEN J. BEESON,
County Judge.

ORDER OF HEARING
on Petition for Appointment of Administrator or Administratrix.

The State