Hold Enthusiastic Patriotic Meeting

Eagle Does Herself Proud in the Subscription to the Y. M. C. A. War Work.

From Tuesday's Daily.
Last evening C. A. Rawls and A. G. Cole in Mr. Cole's car went to Eagle, where a meeting for the interest of the war work fund of the Y. M. C. A. was to be held. Another meeting was also to claim a portion of the time and the two were consolidated, making them both on one. The other matter was the farewell of three of the sons of Eagle who have offered their service to their country having enlisted as soldiers. They being two young men named Trumble, and one Trimble. Two other boys brothers of the Trumble boys have already gone to the front, this making four sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Trumble. The program provided for an address for the farewell of the young men, which was delivered by Rev. Harman of the Methodist church and was one full of patriotism and enthusiasm. This was followed by an address by Mr. C. A. Rawls, which was pronounced by his hearers as the best they ever heard him deliver. The result being that something over two hundred dollars, and a good portion of the amount of Tipton's quota was realized. Mr. Trumble the father of the four boys who have given their services subscribed ten dollars, which was followed by many others of like amount, while a younger son of the four boys added his offering of five dollars. Such patriotism and enthusiasm is sure to put Cass county 'over the top' when it comes to a summing up of the different precincts. Every ward and precinct in the county we look for to over subscribe, for the money will go to the best for our boys as well as the other boys as well.

BELIEVES IN DOING HIS 'BIT.'

From Monday's Daily.
George L. Farley after having completed his job as county assessor did not care to lay around awaiting for something to happen, accepted a position husking corn on the farm of J. E. Wiles. Mr. Farley is displaying a great deal of patriotism, and is practicing what he preaches, when he says that we all should get together in this matter of saving the crops and in doing 'our bit'. He has demonstrated this in the raising of the garden which he had this summer raising a garden necessary for the family, which has allowed some one else to buy what they would have had to buy if he had not raised the garden. We like that spirit, which Mr. Farley is evincing, and it could be practiced to advantage by others.

GETS GOOD PRICE FOR CORN.

From Monday's Daily.
Last week B. F. Wiles sold two cars of corn of this year's raising, for which the contract price was to be $1.40 should the corn test high enough, and lower if it failed, but he was to have more if the corn tested better than was expected. On testing it at Omaha after being shipped to that place, it was feared that the test was wrong as the corn showed better than was expected. When tested last it commanded a price of one dollar and fifty cents. This makes a good price for the corn. Joseph Johnson has marketed some also, but not at as high as the test was lower.

SELLING PROPERTY TO SATISFY MORTGAGE

From Monday's Daily.
Today at the south goor of the court house M. E. Manspeaker as deputy sheriff was offering for sale a piece of property at Nehawka, which had been in possession of B. F. Moore, a carpenter of that place, and on which an eastern lumber company has held a mortgage. But two men were bidding on the property, they both having property located on the side of this piece. They were Charles Christweisser and Dick Steffins, the property finally going to Mr. Steffins, as the highest bidder.

STILL ONE MAN SHORT.

From Monday's Daily.
The Local Board who have had in charge the drafting of the men who have registered for service, have had much difficulty in locating a number of the men who left here between the time of the registration, and when they were called for examination, and have succeeded nicely. This morning the last one, but one, had been located and sent forward, the one still not to report is Charles Freeman who registered at Greenwood and was working with a grading crew, when he registered leaving there soon afterwards and whose whereabouts has not been secured to this time. The board hopes soon to be able to locate the missing man, and desires to do so before it becomes necessary to send the remaining quota from here to make full the first call, for the ninety-two men.

From Monday's Daily.

AFTER MANY YEARS ABSENCE.

From Monday's Daily.

Mrs. Smith lived in this city during a portion of her girlhood, and was visiting over the city in an endeavor to see whom of her past acquaintance she could find. In portions of the city she found some of those whom she had known, but the most were located at Oak Hill, where their names on the tombstones told of their last resting place. Mrs. Smith returned with her brother Mr. Palling to his home at Greenwood in the evening.
