

ELK MEMORIAL SERVICE WELL ATTENDED

MANY GATHER AT PARMELE THEATRE TO HONOR THE FIFTEEN DECEASED

ADDRESS BY WILLIS E. REED

Pays Tribute to Elkdom and What It Stands For—Eulogy Given by Judge Jas. T. Begley.

From Monday's Daily. Yesterday afternoon the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks held their annual memorial services in the Parmele theatre. A large number of citizens besides the members of the order were present at the services.

The lodge furniture was placed upon the stage the officers all being in their respective chairs and lodge was duly opened by Exalted Ruler Schneider with the public ritualistic service prescribed for this occasion. After the opening of the meeting, Miss Mathilde Vallery rendered a very impressive vocal solo, which was followed by a number by the Caldwell Orchestra, and later by a vocal solo by Mrs. Glen Rawls, after which the orchestra again rendered another number. These contributions to the program were all of special merit and on a less solemn occasion would have been applauded loudly.

Secretary B. A. Rosencrans was requested by the Exalted Ruler to call the roll of Absent Brothers and as their names were read they were flashed from the tablet behind a large American flag suspended at the rear of the stage, by means of electrical illumination. They are J. H. Kuhns, D. L. Amick, H. D. Travis, H. B. Burgess, E. M. Richey, Fred G. Frink, D. Hawksworth, J. V. Egenberger, F. W. Richey, C. E. Coffee, S. M. Chapman, Frank J. Morgan, Otto C. Bookmeyer, Percy W. Agnew and J. M. Patterson. As the names of these men were illuminated underneath the clock pointing to the hour of eleven, those present were reminded of the time when they met and associated with us in life, and that their lives have left a fragrance from their good deeds, which lingers with us until the present time.

Judge Begley Speaks. Judge Begley then addressed himself to the memory of the departed brothers in a most splendid eulogy. He laid special emphasis upon the fact that it is but human to want to be remembered, pointing out as examples the pyramids of Egypt being built for no other purpose than to perpetuate the memory of kings and princes of that early day and also the instance of Biblical history, when Jesus, himself, broke bread and poured wine, directing the disciples to "do this in memory of Me." Mr. Begley said that when our star of life shall have set, the memory of our lives and actions will shine on, as there are ties which cannot sunder. He further likened memory to history, in the recording of events and occurrences, and said we are it not for this faculty one generation after the other would have to learn for itself over and over again the things that make for civilization, and so could be no further advanced than its predecessor. Citing the experiences of the attorney, the physician and the minister making use of this faculty in diagnosing problems and establishing arguments, he said that of all senses of mankind that of memory is the greatest. Someone aptly said that with memory, even though deprived of sight, he could recall to vision again the sight of his childhood days and view again the tender, loving mother who watched over her boy; without the sense of hearing he could yet recall to mind the pleasant melodies of music and the harmonies of nature and in the recollection, be yet happy. Mr. Begley concluded his excellent talk with a recitation from Bryant's "Thanatopsis."

Address by Attorney General Reed. Mr. Begley's talk was followed by an interlude by the orchestra, after which Exalted Ruler Schneider introduced Attorney General Hon. Willis E. Reed, who was the principal speaker of the afternoon. Mr. Reed prefaced his address by stating he would rather have continued to sit and listen to the address of Mr. Begley than to be called upon to talk to the people himself. He then began upon his address, paying especial tribute to the principles of flag and country for which Elkdom has always stood. He referred, as proof of the loyalty of the order, to the fact that thirteen members of the local lodge are serving the nation in its present crisis, the Secretary having previously read their names, which are as follows: H. G. Soenichsen, Dan Cooney, Mat Jirsoenick, John Poltcek, D. I. Reynolds, Leonard Schaefer, W. R. Holly, Dan E. Arries, Louis Baumgart, E. A. Fricke, Clifford Forbes and W. K. Fox, Jr. He also digressed to pay further tribute to the memory of the fifteen deceased brothers of the local lodge and said much by way of enlightenment regarding the purpose and aim of the order. Mr. Reed desired, he said, to call especial attention to one section of the constitution of this nation, not that Elks should ever need to be reminded of their duty, but that it might aid them, in an even higher resolve to see that none other violated or transgressed this particular section, being as follows:

"Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

Mr. Reed spoke plainly upon this subject, paying tribute to the attitude of Elkdom, whose very existence is founded on the Stars and Stripes, and saying that no true Elk could be disloyal to the nation at any time.

In conclusion he said there is no place for traitors in this country, and that every one who has lived under the protection of the nation that has stood for freedom and right, and whose flag has never flown over a disgraceful act, should be loyal and honor and protect that flag, which is a symbol of liberty. He admonished all Elks, and others as well, to so live that they could honestly say never a day passes but the world is some better for my having lived.

The officers then gave the closing ceremonies of the order and Rev. McCluskey pronounced the benediction, which brought to a close this most impressive memorial service.

"That Chase county trip was sure a dandy." That's what they all say. The time is ripe now for you to go, and there will be room for you on next Sunday evening, if you see Rosey right now and make arrangement for one of the best seats all the way through. You may lose out on a good bargain farm if you fail to go this time.

Never Put a Croupy Child to Bed Without Giving a Dose of Foley's Honey and Tar

Mothers know it stops croup because it cuts the thick choking mucus, clears the throat of phlegm, stops the hoarse metallic cough, eases the difficult breathing, then quiet sleep.

Mrs. T. Neureger, Eau Claire, Wis., writes: "Foleys Honey and Tar completely cured my boy of a very severe attack of croup. We know from experience that it is a wonderful remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough."
