

MURRAY AFFIDAVIT IS CHARGED TO BE WHOLLY FALSE

D. O. DWYER REQUESTS PUBLICATION OF TWO AFFIDAVITS REFUTING IT.
Attorney and His Stenographer Make Sworn Statements in the Fee-Charging Case Cited.

From Saturday's Daily.
THE MURRAY AFFIDAVIT.
State of Nebraska, County of Cass, ss:
Guy Murray, being first duly sworn on oath deposes and says that D. O. Dwyer, a member of the Legal Advisory Board of Cass county, Nebraska, assisted him in preparing his Questionnaire on the 29th day of December, A. D. 1917; and that said D. O. Dwyer charged him, the said Guy Murray the sum of $5.00 for such assistance.

(Signed)
GUY MURRAY.
Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this 24th day of December, A. D. 1917.
FRANK J. LIBERSHAL,
Notary Public,
Cass County, Nebraska.

MR. DWYER'S STATEMENT.
January 18, 1918.
Mr. R. A. Bates, Publisher
The Plattsmouth Journal,
Plattsmouth, Neb.

I hand you herewith two affidavits in answer to the affidavit of Guy Murray, which you published in your paper last evening. The affidavit of Guy Murray is absolutely false and I ask that these affidavits be given as prominent a place in your paper as you gave to his affidavit. I remain,
Very truly yours,
D. O. DWYER.

Affidavit of Mr. Dwyer
State of Nebraska, County of Cass, ss:
D. O. Dwyer, being sworn on oath, deposes and says that he has read over the affidavit of Guy Murray published in last evening's Plattsmouth Journal, and that said affidavit is wholly false and untrue, in the charge that I received pay for my services rendered him. His Questionnaire was correctly and he was in my office on three separate days in preparing the same. When the work was completed, he offered to pay me for my services and thereupon informed him that there were no charges whatever for what I had done for him. He took out his check book and asked that I write a check for myself for my work. He was then told by me that under no circumstances could he pay me anything whatever. He then turned to the office stenographer and notary and stated to her "That I want to pay you for what you did for me."
I then went to an adjoining room to assist the many registrants and their witnesses who were waiting in the office at the time and I have never had any talk with Murray since then. Murray has the check and he was told that he would have published it. I not only did not receive one cent from Murray directly or indirectly for the services rendered him, nor did I receive from a single registrant who came to my office a cent directly or indirectly for the services rendered to them. Practically a whole month's time was devoted exclusively in helping registrants and during that time about eighty independent separately typewritten affidavits were dictated to my stenographer and used on Questionnaires.

My attack on my patriotism I know to be instigated and carried on by C. L. Quinton, on account of his personal animosity towards me, which dates from the time I appeared as Special Counsel for the Board of County Commissioners and compelled him to put into the public Treasury hundreds of dollars which he had embezzled.
The registrants and their witnesses are mostly all residents of this county and know that when they offered to pay they were promptly informed I made no charges whatever for my services and never permitted any registrant to pay me a cent.

Affidavit of Miss Schwenneker
State of Nebraska, County of Cass, ss:
Miss Edna Schwenneker, being sworn on oath, says that since May 1, 1917, she has worked as Notary and Stenographer in the law office of the late Mr. C. L. Quinton, in Plattsmouth, Nebraska, that immediately following December 15, 1917, the entire business of the office was suspended on account of the numerous registrants and their witnesses coming there to make out Questionnaires. She being on duty twenty to twenty-five waiting at a time for attention, and at no time up to January 15th, 1918, on account of Questionnaires being suspended, was there any opportunity to do regular office work except on the parts of three days. That affidavit was prepared on the 15th and 16th of January, 1918, and on several occasions returned to the office in the evening to prepare typewritten additional affidavits for the registrants; that affiant never asked any registrant to pay for her work, but that possibly one fourth or one fifth of those for whom she had worked for her help, voluntarily offered pay for the work she had done for them, and that all pay so received was solely her own, and the total so received from all registrants during her month's work for them was around $100.00 as near as affiant can state. That affiant believed that it was just and proper to receive pay for her work when voluntarily offered—the work requiring exceptionally long hours and being very strenuous.
That affiant on numerous occasions heard Mr. Dwyer state to registrants that they were to pay for the work that under no circumstances could they pay for services rendered and that under no circumstances could they be indirectly in so far as affiant knows and affiant was present at the office throughout each work day of the entire month up to January 15, 1918.
That affiant has read the affidavit of Guy Murray, published in last evening's Plattsmouth Journal, and that the same is absolutely and wholly false and untrue, as affiant heard Mr. Dwyer state to Murray when pay was offered him, that there was no charge whatever for his services; and thereupon Murray came to me with his check book in hand and wanted to pay me for what I did for him in preparing five or six separate affidavits. Affiant advised him that she did not receive a cent for her services and she handed him his check book and said that I write a check for myself for the amount, which I did. The check was drawn on the Plattsmouth State Bank for only three or four of the separate affidavits which he did not bring all the witnesses to the office to sign. Mr. Dwyer was not in the room at the time the check was written and signed and he never saw the same, nor did he receive any pay for the same.
