INSTRUCTIONS ON MAKING OF INCOME TAX RETURNS BY FARMERS ARE ISSUED

The following instructions governing the preparation of income tax returns by farmers have been issued: TREASURY DEPARTMENT. OFFICE OF COMMISSIONER

OF INTERNAL REVENUE. Washington, D. C., March S. 1918. To Collectors of Internal Revenue: The term "farm" as herein used embraces the farm in the ordinarily accepted sense and includes plantations, ranches, stock farms, dairy farms, poultry farms, fruit farms truck farms, and all land used for similar purposes; and for the purpos es of this decision all corporations, partnerships, or individuals who cuttivate, operate, or manage such farms for gain or profit, either as owners o rienants, are designated as "farmers."

All gains, profits and income demarketed and cold

Deduction of Expenses.

All items of expense connected with the planting, cultivating, harthe care, feeding, and marketing of ive stock may be claimed as desine a money equivalent during the year for which the return is rendered.

That portion of Treasury Decision 153 and paragraph 32 of Regulation No. 33 (revised), which provides "cost of stock purchased for resale is an allowable deduction under the item of expense." is hereby annulled It is held that the amount expended in purchasing stock for resale is an investment of capital and is not to be taken as an item of expense for the year in which the stock was purchased, or for any subsequent year; but when the stock so purchased is sold its cost is to be deducted from the sales price in ascertaining the amount of gain or profits returnable for tax purposes.

Proceeds of Sales as Income.

Where the cost of stock or farm products purchased in 1916, or any previous year, for resale, or the expense of production stock or products on the farm, has been claimed as a deduction or taken into consideration in ascertaining the farmer's liability to income tax for some year prior to 1917, and the stock or farm products so purchased or produced were sold during the latter year, the entire proceeds of the sale are to be returned as income for the year in which the sale was made for the reason that the farmer, hav ing once received the benefit of the deduction, is not again entitled to it If, however, such cost or expense had not been claimed as a deduction, or had act been taken into consideration in ascertaining the farmer's liability to income tax for a previous year, the amount of such cost or expense may be deducted from the selling price of the stock or farm products and the difference only returned as income.

ventory by reducing the amount of live stock or products on hand at the close of the year. Live stock purchased for draft breeding, or dairy purposes, or for any purpose other than resale, may be included in the inventory for each year at a figure which will reflect the reduction in value estimated to have occurred during the year through increase of age or other causes. Such a reduction in value should be based on the cost and estimated life of the live stock. In the deduction can be made, as this lose will be reflected in the inventory at the end of the year. Where the inventory method is used the cost price of the article sold must be taken as an additional deduction in the return of income, as it is reflected in the
