Mutz, of Plattsmouth and John B. Seybolt, of Murray. They moved to Nebraska in the year of 1869, and settled in Rock Bluffs, and in one year later moved to the farm, where her husband preceded her in death six years ago, and for many years the Seybolt home-stand. Our Service
AND WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU!
You Get Full Implement Performance
You Can Avoid the Big Loss that is Caused by Using Even One Faulty Implement.

Your farm implements, taken all together, form a great crop-making machine, each part of which is dependent on the other. The whole is no better than the poorest implement in it.

Poor seed-bed making by an inferior plow, for instance, will make it impossible for your planter and cultivator to give the profit that they should give.

Likewise, inaccurate planting will lessen the returns from the best of seed beds and thorough cultivation.

And a cultivator that will not destroy weeds and conserve moisture without injuring the crop plants cuts the profit from the use of your other implements.

Thus it is with practically every implement on your farm. Even a single fault in one implement will handicap other implements and mean the loss of many possible dollars in profit from your season's work.

The purpose of our service to you is to help you get full performance from every implement.

We carry for your benefit a full line of implements especially adapted for use in this section. Each of them bears a trade-mark that assures the best of material and workmanship. With none of them do you have to run the risk of experimenting in your fields—of letting one implement handicap the service from your other implements.

Each is the successful result of thorough experiments carried out by the manufacturers under a variety of actual field conditions—the same conditions that prevail on your farm.

Have every implement in your crop-making machinery fully reliable this year. Drop in and study the implements that we have to help you.
