

A TEN INNING GAME OF BALL HERE SUNDAY

HOLMES' WHITE SOX OF OMAHA AND LOCAL TEAM PLAY A LIVELY GAME

ERRORS LOST FOR OUR TEAM

The Final Score was 6 to 5 in Favor of Visiting Aggregation—McCarthy Makes Fine Catch

From Monday's Daily.

Practicing one of Shakespeare's popular plays was the cause of the loss of the game of base ball yesterday at the Red Sox ball park by the home team. The line-up was all right, and the boys as a general thing were doing good work, but a bunch of errors coming at just the wrong time allowed the visitors to make two runs in the second and repeat the performance in the fourth. This gave them a lead hard to overcome and made our boys tighten up which they did nicely, holding the visitors to a ten inning battle.

The Holmes' White Sox, one of the best aggregations in the Greater Omaha league, came down in force and a clever set of ball players they were, too. While they played good ball, the Red Sox put up an equally good game and but for the soft spots in the second and fourth outplayed the visitors in our opinion. The Omaha boys put up a good clean, wholesome game all the time and didn't try any stunts with the single exception of the visiting second baseman trying to run over the ball in order to keep Stimpson from getting it, for which he was penalized by the ump' for his deflection from the rules of the game and from correct behavior.

The visitors took the bat and the first man up, the second baseman, Clarke, got as far as second, where he died when Lawler lost on second and Murphy and Balderson did not get to first. McCarthy struck out for the Red Sox, Boaling was walked and got to second, while Edwards fanned and Herold went out on a grounder.

In the second Kemp and Zinc got started, each on a single, and were at third and second respectively, while Carroll and Lacy were struck out. Baker got a swipe at the ball and brought the other two in while he, himself, got to third. Clarke then struck out, but two had scored before this disastrous inning had been closed.

The Red Sox went out in regular order not getting to first in the next three innings, while the visitors got two more scores in the fourth, making the tallyboard read 4 for them to get some for us.

And get some we did. Mason to bat, with one strike and two balls. Then the globe came rolling along looking pretty gay, right over the plate and Bill gave it a poke that started it for Happy Hollow, with Zinc, the visitors' right fielder, after it. But the ball disappeared over the fence towards the spring down below and amidst the hilarious shouting of thousands (more or less) of fans, Mason made the first home run of the season. Grassman was fanned. Krecklow let drive and sent the ball over near the fence, hustling safely to second, and while Gradoville was being fanned he acquired third by right of eminent domain. While Stimpson was at bat he made a strong dash and slid safe across home plate, making the score at the beginning of the sixth 4 for the visitors and 2 for the Red Sox, with the hopes of victory rising.

In the sixth there was nothing doing and the seventh was the same for the visitors, while Mason made another run for the Red Sox, making the score 4 to 3. The eighth inning was productive of another for the Omaha aggregation and the tally showed 5 to 3.

In the latter half of this inning, Herold got to second and Mason lammed the ball, bringing Herold home and reaching third himself. But when he tried to make home, he was caught. Grassman followed and succeeded in circling the diamond for the second score of the half inning and the one which tied the visitors, 5 to 5.

The ninth inning showed nothing for either side, while in the tenth, Kemp of the Holmes team added another run and our last half was barren of results, so the contested sixty per cent of the gate receipts went to the visitors.

In the eighth inning McCarthy made a fine field catch, which closed out the visitors and saved a run. Smith was the ump, and while some thought his decisions were somewhat drawn, they were just and proper, and the spirit on both sides was excellent.

The main features of the game so far as the home team was concerned, were the excellent batting of Mason, who not only made the first home run of the season, but also drove out a three bagger one other time to bat, and the pitching of Stimpson, who had the ball under perfect control and with a little better support would have won the game in a walk-away.

The crowd while increasing each week is yet falling away short of what it should be. There is nothing so encourages the home team as a good turn-out at the games and if we are to have a winning team this summer we must lend them our support.

The score by innings of the game yesterday was as follows:
Holmes' Sox... 4 2 0 2 0 0 1 0 1—5
Red Sox... 1 0 0 2 0 0 2 1 2 0—6

LASSITUDE AND DEPRESSION.

Constipated people often complain about weariness for which they have no explanation. But the cause is very simple. The toxins generated in the intestines produce headache, lassitude, depression and a tendency to despondency. As soon as the normal condition of the intestines is restored, the lassitude disappears, and for this purpose vegetable remedies are the best remedies. One of the most reliable of all is Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine. Its ingredients, bitter herbs, roots and barks of excellent medicinal value, clean out the stomach and restore normal functions of the digestive organs. Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine is a remedy which never disappoints. Price $1.10 at drug stores. For rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sprains, etc., use Triner's Liniment, 35 and 65c at drug stores; by mail 45 and 75c.—Joseph Triner Company, 1333-1343 S. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill. m16.

HAS MADE SIX TRIPS ACROSS POND

PLATTSMOUTH BOY WRITES TO FATHER ABOUT WORK ON U. S. S. MONTANA.

From Monday's Daily.

Ben Windham, who has been on one of the United States ships for most of the duration of the war with Germany, has written letters to his father, R. B. Windham, here, and a recent letter tells of his experiences and his work. Ben is located on the Battleship Montana, and writes the letter from which we take the following, under a New York date line:

"I am once more back in the United States after three months chasing around the Atlantic. Have made six trips conveying troops to the other side, but did not land, turning around and putting right back to Halifax, Canada. Halifax is an English port and hilly like Plattsmouth and is about the size of Lincoln. That is what is left of it. You will remember they had a big explosion there. As you saw the Omaha tornado, I need not dwell on the disaster further than to say it was much worse. Life on the old 'Monty' has been about the same as described in former letters. Nothing but work and water. We have the record for conveying, having covered 2,000 miles more than our nearest competitor. I expect a furlough within the next month or so as we are going to the Navy yards within that length of time. Well, I have seen a little of New York. Just attended the best picture show I have ever seen. It was by Griffith, the man who put on the Birth of a Nation, and is on the European war, being called 'The Heart of the World.'"

AT REST IN OAK HILL.

From Monday's Daily.

This afternoon at two o'clock was held at her late home in this city the funeral of Mrs. Kate Oliver, who has lived in Plattsmouth for the past thirty-three years. Mrs. Oliver is well known to all the people of Plattsmouth. She has been sick for the past year, but not serious until within the last few months, and her case had only assumed the most gravity during the past few weeks. The end was expected and the children surrounded the bedside as she in peace breathed her last short breaths and sank into that sleep which knows no awakening here, but in that other world. The funeral was conducted by Rev. H. C. McCluskey, pastor of the 1st Presbyterian church of which she was a member. The interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery, where the mortal remains will stay until the sounding of the trumpet by the Angel on the resurrection morn.

MACHINE GUN SHOOTING

From Monday's Daily.

Yesterday at the rifle range north of town machine gun practice shooting was engaged in for brief intervals at stated times. The machine gun entrenchment occupies an important and commanding position on the hillside above the range and is connected with an ammunition dug-out and camouflaged to conceal its location and identity. The trench is connected with those on the range by a field telephone outfit and everything arranged to get the best results from target practice.

A large number of Plattsmouth people visited the range yesterday and many of them were rewarded by getting to see a machine gun in actual operation, sending out bullets at a lively rate. Some night shooting is being done, by means of luminous rockets much the same as those used by the armies engaged on the battle front and all in all the boys are gaining a very realistic idea of the work that will confront them "over there."

Another large detachment is due to come down from Fort Crook this week and on Tuesday night the soldiers have rented the Coates hall and secured the Kroehler orchestra for the purpose of giving a grand military ball to which they invite the public.

GETS ONE HUNDRED AND COSTS.

From Monday's Daily.

John E. Johnson, a blacksmith of Lincoln, was a visitor in the county court this morning, where he was arraigned for having and transporting whisky. Johnson who has a family of wife and five children went to Lincoln, where a bootlegger got a hold of him and sold him two pints of whiskey for five dollars. He impudently rather freely and on returning home had one pint of the stuff, which was found on him as he was quite a bit 'how-come-you-so' and was taken by the police. He was given one hundred dollars and costs by Judge Beeson when he pleaded guilty.
