THE CONSERVATION OF GRAIN MEANS A LOT AT PRESENT

MATTER OF THE CONSERVATION OF AMOUNT OF GRAIN FED TRUCK HORSES IS GREAT.

From Friday's Daily.
The tractor is a feature in the revolution which is under process in this country as well as in the world in general. The matter of the use of trucks to supercede the horse in the city of New York, is making comparisons, which are a revelation to those who have not taken a thought to the amount of grain consumed by truck horses, even in one city of the union. The comparison of the truck and the horse are here made for the city of New York.

"It is estimated that a horse in active service consumes grain enough to feed four to six adults; that 108,000 horses are kept in this city; that four acres of cultivated land are required to grow grain for one horse for one year; and that 432,000 acres need to be cultivated to feed the horses of New York. So, according to the Food Control, inasmuch as the world-wide food shortage will require at least several years more to correct and the heavy animals used for large loads need much grain, practically all of which could be prepared for human consumption; the shift from horse to motor hauling suggests a food-saving which is worth careful consideration, and "human beings ought not to be asked to cut down their rations until all other available means of preventing food waste have been used."

Henry Ford who is authority, because he has succeeded, not from the fact of being smarter or more clever than the ordinary American, but because he has "gone over" and has made it a success, says to say about the matter of the tractor as an agent for raising more grain in France, and the same is true in this country.

OPENING OF PARMELE AS A MOVIE HOUSE

FEATURE FILM SHOWN TWO NIGHTS TO LARGE AND APPRECIATIVE CROWDS

H. S. GETS HOUSE TONIGHT

Theatre Couldn't Hold All Who Desired Admittance to the Opening Show Wednesday.

From Friday's Daily.
Wednesday evening, the opening night of the Parmele theatre under the new management was met with an attendance that more than filled the expectation of the new managers and demonstrated the fact that the people of Plattsburgh appreciate the installation of the last word in moving picture equipment and conveniences and will lend their patronage to this new institution. The feature picture, "The Business of Life," shown the opening night, was also held for showing last evening, and again a packed house viewed it and listened to the music of the new orchestral pipe organ.

The appointments of the new Parmele are of the very best, and the new gold fibre screen of latest design takes the vibration almost entirely out of the pictures and promises to be a feature that will appeal to the movie-going public, through reducing to a minimum the eye-strain that results from viewing the moving images on the average screen. In the matter of seating this new movie house is especially favored. Large roomy seats, placed to accommodate patrons were a part of the equipment that came to the new management upon assuming control and there is plenty of elbow room, while many of the seats are finely upholstered.

Tonight the house has been let to the high school for use in holding their class play, "Back to the Farm," but an uninterrupted schedule of pictures will begin tomorrow evening.

The new management expects to spare no efforts or expense that the every desire of the theatre going public may be met and satisfied and to this end it is their intention to secure and show the very best pictures obtainable.

Should the crowds of Wednesday night and last night be any criterion of what may be expected in the way of attendance at this new moving picture theatre, the success of the venture may be assured and Plattsburgh people can congratulate themselves over the securing of as good production as are shown in Omaha, including moving pictures, vaudeville and high class theatrical attractions, all of which it will be possible to feature to a nicety on the large stage at the Parmele.

Messrs. Moore and Cloyd, who are behind the new enterprise are full of push and stamina and will see to it that Plattsburgh gets nothing but the best at all times.

41ST INFANTRY HAS BUNCH OF GOOD PLAYERS

DEMONSTRATE ABILITY ON THE PLATTSMOUTH DIAMOND LAST EVENING

A Happy, Good Natured Bunch, Who Seemed to Know the Game and Who Also Played It.

From Thursday's Daily.

The all-soldier team, composed of members of the 41st Infantry, encamped at the rifle range north of town, which played the Red Sox at the ball park last evening was a very good natured bunch of boys, and the contest for superiority was free from crabbing but full of good natured jolly, and everybody felt good, win or lose. The crowd out to witness the game was quite small, however and the box office receipts were light.

The game in general was very good and but for a bunch of misconnections on the part of the Plattsburgh boys, resulting in the soldiers getting four runs in the fifth and two in the seventh, might easily have been won.

Stimpson was on the mound for Plattsburgh and the game had scarcely been called when he fanned Waller and Wheeler of the 41st, while Wooten was able to get in a single, to which he added second, where he died when DeButts was fanned. In the second all were fanned by Stimpson while in the third Williams was able to make third, and Waller saw second when the inning was over. In the fourth it was simply a one, two, three count and the stuff was off.

In the fifth inning, Windbigler got to second, but was caught by Boaling while Harroll was fanned by Stimpson. Williams was hit by the ball and given a walk. Waller up and swatted it for a two bagger, while Williams went to third. Wheeler was given a walk and the bases were full when Wooten was able to land on the sphere and there were two tallies to the credit of the soldiers, when the smoke cleared away, with a man on second and another on third, while DeButts was handling the hickory. Here fate intervened and a bad throw allowed the other two men to come home, although DeButts was not able to find the ball. In the sixth inning Hunt saw first but was put out there on a go-back, while the others beat the air. In the seventh inning Harroll got a hit which entitled him to second, and later he was able to get to third. Williams could not find the ball and took his seat on the benches. Walker swatted the ball, giving Harroll an opportunity to tally, while Walker rested safely at second. Wheeler got a good one, but got caught on second, although Walker got home. DeButt was fanned and the inning was over.

With the Red Sox at bat the story is a trifle different, at least in the number of men getting safe home. In the beginning McCarthy sent one to center field and was accorded first. Salsberg flew out, catching McCarthy, and with two down Edwards made first on a single and Herold flew out. In the next inning Mason, Boaling and Grassman were fanned. In the third Gradoville was fanned, Stimpson got second on a fair hit, McCarthy struck out, Salsberg made first and Edwards struck out. In the fourth Herold, Mason and Boaling were struck out in rapid fire order. In the fifth Grassman made first, reaching second on Gradoville's hit, but was caught there. Stimpson struck out and was followed by McCarthy, who made a hit, advancing Gradoville to third, and when Salsberg succeeded in making a single Gradoville scored and his was the only tally for the home team during the entire game. Edwards went out and the inning was over. In the sixth Herold made a good hit and got to second, but the others were not allowed to see either first or second in the remainder of the sixth or in the seventh.

The game was called at the end of the seventh on account of darkness and the Sammys were victors of the hour. Stimpson struck out eleven men, while DeButt had nine scalps dangling from his belt. Stimpson pitched a good game, but even with the vociferous applause from the grand stand, was not able to win the game without support, which is very essential to success.

Following is score, by innings:
41st Infantry 0 0 0 0 4 0 2—6

WHAT IS YOUR PORTION OF WORK

From Friday's Daily.

He who not alone in the war but in the every day affairs of human life does not do his portion in the care and the maintenance of the society and government under which he lives has no right to its protection. He who will not take his turn at the pumps, deserved to go down with the ship. He who does not do what he can to assist in preserving the right kind of a government has no right to the protection of privileges of that government. His is a story illustrative of the proposition given by the Saturday Post, which is just to the point. Read it and let a part of it soak in.

The settlement received warning—perhaps from the sole survivor of the next settlement—that Indians were on the warpath. Its members hurried into the stockade and made such preparations as they could for its defense. They had all too many reasons for supposing that, if the Indians got in, every man, woman and child would be slain—very likely with those gruesome elaborations the Indians affected. In the siege every hand was needed. Women loaded the muskets; children brought water and food.

But say there had been one able-bodied male who refused to take part in the proceedings. Suppose, when besought thereto, he said: "I have conscientious scruples. Our Master taught: 'Love your enemies; do good unto them. If your enemy's hungry, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink.' Of course I expect to eat my share of the scanty stock of food. I expect you to protect me from the Indians. But if I load your rifles, or fetch you ammunition, or bring up food and water, I am assisting in killing; and it is written, 'Thou shalt not kill.' " Probably when the Indians were driven off several weary men would have found time to kick him over the fence, and to the end of his days he would have complained that he had been persecuted for his conscientious scruples.

That was brought to our minds the other day by a bundle of press clippings showing that the mayor of a town had refused to subscribe to Liberty Bonds or to speak for the bonds, or in any way to encourage the sale of bonds—quoting Scripture copiously in support of his refusal. Here and there you find such a chap. Mostly, according to our observation, they were openly pro-German before our declaration of war made that attitude dangerous.

They are grifters—expecting sustenance and protection from the community, but refusing to help defend it.
