HON. GEORGE W. LEIDIGH DEAD

PROMINENT NEBRASKAN AND PUBLIC SPIRITED MAN DIES AFTER MONTHS OF ILLNESS.

After weary months of suffering from stomach trouble, during which time he gradually grew weaker, Hon. George W. Leidigh, died at his home at Nebraska City, corner Fifteenth street and Central avenue, at ten o'clock Thursday morning. Hope in his recovery has been abandoned long before the end approached.

George W. Leidigh was one of the strong characters of Nebraska, and his influence for good was felt throughout the state. Mr. Leidigh was an active member of the democratic party, always taking a part in their deliberations was a member of the legislature for four terms was a friend and co-worker in the state legislature in 1908, with our Col. M. A. Bates, and a loyal friend. During his sickness, Col. Bates has been like Mr. Leidigh, not well enough to go visit his old time friend, however much he would have liked to.

He was married in 1873 to Miss Laura McCoules, from which union there were eight children born, of whom three sons are dead, the surviving being, Aaron of Nebraska City, Mrs. Bessie McFarland of Seattle, Wash., Parks Leidigh who is in the secretary of state's office at Lincoln; Capt. Oliver G. Leidigh who is in the army and Miss Kate who is at home. The mother also survives her late husband.

The State Fair has been a beacon light toward which Nebraska agriculture has steered in rounding the shoals of adversity.

Hasry Warthen and family of Omaha arrived in the city today and is visiting with his parents for over Sunday.
