

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 12th, 1918
H. N. DOVEY, Plattsmouth, Neb.,
Chairman Cass County.

We cannot too strongly impress upon you and your people the fact that there must be no slackening of effort in the Liberty Loan campaign on account of the publication of the news of Germany's acceptance of peace terms. It would be nothing short of a tragedy in American history if the loan should fail. Our task is not by any means finished and Germany is watching the results of our loan just as closely as ever. The facts are that the money which is being subscribed to this loan has already been contracted and actually spent by the Government. Furthermore our Government has enormous outstanding obligations yet to be met and unless every unit in the loan organization of the tenth district meets its full obligations we may properly be classed quitters.

Give this telegram widest possible publicity and wire us immediately to the effect that there are no quitters in your county.

SPEND DELIGHTFUL DAY IN THE WILDS

FRANK SITZMAN KILLS A DEAD SQUIRREL, HARRY KUHNEY QUOTES SCRIPTURE.

EAT DINNER FIT FOR A KING

Rabbits Are Frightened Until Their Hair Turns Gray and Falls Out.

From Wednesday's Daily.

The board of health had put the ban on church service, and a crowd of the citizens of Plattsmouth departed at early dawn for the wilds south of this city along the Big Muddy. Loading the Hartford truck the merry crowd departed for the home of Fred Beil, twelve miles south, where after having unloaded they immediately took for the brush, and spent the morning in hunting, having an immense amount of sport, but frightening out of the country what game they did not kill. For a while it was doubted whether the crowd would all come back, for the roar of the guns, was like the battle of "Bull Run." It is reported that they had a full truck load of squirrels, some of which were killed when alive and some dead ones were slaughtered. Paul Sitzman was the pilot of the boat which took the party to the hunting grounds, and brought them home again. There was a calf in the woods, which had a narrow escape, and both Paul and Frank Sitzman, who saw it while running, thought it a jack rabbit, and tried to get its scalp, but were not able. A squirrel climbed high into a tree, and Tony Koubek, thinking maybe he could coax the animal down with some acorns, held them aloft and kept saying, come pretty squirrel, but he would not come. Just then Harry Kuhney getting a head on his squirrelship, touched the trigger, and the squirrel with its feet spread out, came sailing through the air. Frank Sitzman thought it a flying squirrel, and after it had hit on the ground, ran and fired a shot into it, declaring he had killed it. He evidently thought it was trying to fly away, for after it had hit the ground and he had shot another charge in the dead carcass, he kept shouting "I killed it! I killed it." Everyone gave Frank the horse laugh, telling him it was dead before it hit the ground.

Returning to the house, dinner was served by Grandma Beil, assisted by Mrs. Frank Sitzman, which was one of the finest ever served anywhere, everything possible was cooked and served just to a turn, which was sure enjoyed by the crowd of hungry hunters. After the dinner the men went in for pitch, and as Mr. Beil is the champion pitch player of that section the town boys had but little show. On the way home the truck came to a hill, and as Frank Sitzman was changing gears, on the truck, they came up with a jerk, which nearly threw the crowd out of the car. Paul Sitzman thinking the car was going to run away wanted to jump out, and said he had been in one run-a-way in the "old country" and did not want any more experience. Harry Kuhney said "Except you abide in the ship you cannot be saved". So assured Paul, that is Paul Sitzman, remained aboard. They arrived safely home in the evening and were well satisfied with their day's pleasure. Those to enjoy the occasion were: Paul Sitzman, Harry Kuhney, Ray Campbell and wife with his two daughters, Dorothy and Violet, Fred Beil and wife, Greeley and Ruth, Miss Budge Campbell, Anton Koubek and mother, Frank Sitzman and wife, three daughters, Hazel, Frances and Goldie, Grandpa and Grandma Beil, Marvin Stiles, Henry Hyde.

IN THESE DAYS OF INFLUENZA.

Among the golden rules for the days of influenza one of the most important is to avoid constipation and keep the bowels active. A daily bowel movement increases our resisting powers and lends us the most substantial aid in combating the disease. Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine is the most reliable remedy for this purpose. It is not only very efficient, but also very palatable, which makes it much superior to the common laxatives. You will get it at all drug stores. Price $1.10. Other remedies which should be always at hand in your home are Triner's Cough Sedative for colds and coughs (prices 25 and 50 cents) at drug stores, by mail 35 and 60 cents), because a cold may easily develop into pneumonia, and Triner's Liniment (prices 35 and 65 cents at drug stores, by mail 45 and 75 cents) which relieves the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, etc. Joseph Triner Company, 1333-1343 S.
