While we do not approve of evcrything that President Wilson does, yet there are so many acts that are right and good, that we do not feel justified in criticising those few we do not like. That is the way every American should look at the acts of President Wilson:

-:0:-"Germany is beginning to per ceive that she is an outcast nation," says a headline. It took only about three and a half years for her to get that through her head. And once Germany is in a receptive mood, it may be only a matter of forty or fifty years before she learns that by assiduous application to her own business, she may begin to regain her place among civilized nations.

-:0:--The "itch" which is reported to have attacked some of the delegates at the Peace Conference is not an unusual epidemic at such gatherings. It was very pronounced at the Congress of Vienna and caus ed much trouble. The Germans caught it while making the Treaty of Frankfort and never really did get over it. The present outbreak is said to be in the form of a slight skin irritation, not dangerous. But time and the map of Europe will show.
